1. Chapter 1

Double Trouble

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

*A/N: *Hey so here is another Twilight story. I have been working on other stories from other books and movies but this story would not leave me alone! This is a comedy with smut 'cause that's how my brain works. The only violence will be close to the ones in the original books. These characters Ava and Eva are repeat characters meaning I will be using them in many other stories. They will be put into many worlds as basically the same people because they crack me up. This might border as a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. There will be a big twist later though some people might see it coming. Also I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A little Bella bashing and others bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. Pairings: Ava/Edward, Eva/Jacob, Bella/? Ok, thanks for letting me babble! Enjoy.

Chapter 1: What just happened?

Ava and Eva Bedlam were twin sisters. Well, actually they were fraternal twins though you wouldn't know it at first glance.

Ava was the older twin, though she was usually the less mature of the two. She had big forest green eyes with grey flecks, they were framed by long thick lashes. She had waist length purple hair that started out deep raspberry at the roots before fading to a light lavender at the bottom. She also had the right side of her bottom lip pierced.

Eva, the younger twin, had big sky blue eyes with hints of grey as well. They were also surrounded by long thick lashes. She had waist length magenta hair that faded to bubblegum pink. Her lip ring was on the left side.

Both girls were very close to their father Adam who was a special effects artist. He specialized in monsters so it was rare to see either girl without some kind of dark or home made outfit.

They loved monsters because they understood how misunderstood most of them were.

Their mother had passed away when they were younger, neither girl remembered too much about her except what Adam and his mother Lucy told them. Luckily they had their grandmother's help to keep their father happy and light hearted.

They were both tall at 5'11''. Both had fit bodies from working out and vegetarian diets, though neither actually liked sports. They had nicely developing curves, seeing as they had just turned seventeen though their father teased them about having baby faces.

This usually had both applying heavy amounts of black liner, shadow, and mascara.

Fortunately, they never looked like raccoons or hookers. Growing up with a dad who could do makeup had it's perks, one being you could pull off some intense looks.

They were both very pale and had matching thin noses with four small odd skin tags around their eyes. One on top of each top lid and one on each bottom lid.

Despite the girls slightly goth and unusual style they were actually quite bubbly.

Eva was quick with sarcasm while Ava was extremely blunt, not to mention that both girls had sharp tongues. If they thought something was funny they'd go with it, even if they were the only ones to get it. Both could be fun and sweet but there was one thing that brought out their inner bitches. Bullies. And maybe stupid people.

The girls were a force to be reckoned with when angered, that was for sure.

Our story begins with the teens walking around their room at their private school, Brockwork Academy. They were joking around with their bestfriend and roommate Daniela. She was a very pretty petite Spanish girl who took an instant liking to the twins.

Right now she was going over one of her favorite books, Twilight.

She loved the stories but at times she wished that the main pairing was different. It wasn't that she didn't like Bella or Edward, it's just that their relationship didn't seem like the best fit.

Also, she thought they could both lighten up a bit.

The twins, she knew, would be much better for the story. Even though they didn't feel strongly one way or another about the books, she thought they'd definitely make things more interesting.

Plus, she wanted her bestfriends to find love.

Ava and Eva didn't know it yet but Daniela had a special gift, passed down from all the women in her family. They were special, witches some people called them and she had just gained her powers. It was something that was about to change the girls lives forever.

"So you're saying" she giggled at Ava in her accented voice. "If the Edward Cullen wanted you, you'd turn him down?"

"Well I definitely wouldn't fangirl. I mean yes, he must be gorgeous and my hormones would probably run wild and kill the poor boy. Personality wise thoughâ€¦I just don't think it would work. I'd have to get to know him first and if he tried to pull all that controlling bullshit, we'd probably rub each other the wrong way" Ava tried to explain. "Plus, it would be way cooler to be a shape shifter!"

Eva giggled at her twin's excitement. "I'd rather be a vampire. It would be fun to be deceivingly beautiful."

"As if you aren't already" Daniela teased. "What about you Eva, my dear. Would you turn down the buff sunshine known as Jacob Black?"

"I don't know" the pink teen said with a thoughtful expression. "I might have a small issue with the age thing. Plus, he didn't seem to care that Bella was already in a relationship." She sighed. "I have to go with Ava". Her twin struck a triumphant pose. "I just don't think it would be a good match."

Daniela smirked. "We shall see".

The twins looked at her confused but let it go. Daniela often said odd things like that, but if she could put up with their weirdness then they could put up with hers.

"Come on let's get washed up and go to bed. You know Mrs. Santis will be around soon" she told them and they scrambled to get dressed for bed.

Mrs. Santis, their 'house mother', was one scary lady.

Daniela smirked as she saw the twins finishing each others rushed sentences and pushing each other out of the way to the restroom.

Ava and Eva were both having a weird dream. They could tell that the other was there since they had shared dreams before, but none had been like this.

There was strange chanting in a foreign language and it felt as if they were being pushed through a wind tunnel.

"Ava!" Eva screamed scared and confused before she felt her sister grab her hand. Ava was always able to make her feel safe, she was her protector.

"It's ok Eva, just try to wake up" Ava yelled back over the wind.

She was scared as well but she wasn't about to let her sister hear that. She was the older one after all, it was her job to look after Eva.

The chanting became louder but they were now able to understand the words.

"You will find them. You will love. You will be eternal!"

"The fuck!?" Ava cursed before both girls screamed as they felt the sensation of falling quickly towards the ground.

Ava and Eva shot forward in their plane seats making the pretty brunette next to them jump in fright.

"Ava, Eva? Are you alright?" she asked quietly.

Eva was taking in her new surroundings. Apparently they were on a plane, that much was obvious. She pinched herself and cursed lowly at the sting. 'Ok, so this is real but why are we on a plane? And how did we get here?' she mused before her sister smacked her arm.

Eva turned about to hit Ava back when she caught sight of what her sister was looking at and her jaw dropped matching her twin. There, blushing at their shocked faces, was Bella Swan.

They didn't know how they knew for certain, but they did.

"Um Heya Bells" Ava said awkwardly and Bella sighed relieved. She had thought that something was wrong with them for a minute. She knew that Ava usually got air sick and that Eva would pick up on it. She didn't need them puking on her again.

"You don't feel queasy right?" she asked worriedly. They both shook their heads, for once speechless.

'We are sitting with Bella Swan, the fictional character, who somehow knows us' Ava thought blinking repeatedly trying to make her brain work.

"Good, well we're almost there so you guys should buckle up" she smiled softly before facing the front again.

The twins followed her example before sharing a look. They would just play it by ear and see what happened. Someone would let something slip and they could start putting the puzzle pieces together.

Suddenly a thought popped into their heads and two identical evil smirks slipped onto their faces.

If Bella had seen she would have been extremely worried.

They shared another look and tried not to laugh. They were in Twilight and would most likely be spending time with Bella which would lead them to the vamps and wolves. Now there was three ways they could handle this.

They could try to blend into the back ground and simply watch the story from afar. Looking at each other and their hair and outfits, they knew that wasn't a real possibility. Besides two extra players may have already changed the game anyway.

They could try to work to make the love between Bella and Edward run more smoothly and try to make everyone happy. Honestly if they were nice sweet girls they would pick this. However, they were assholes and they knew it.

The last, and only real option for them, was to just be their usual crazy selves. Oh they'd watch out for dangers but that didn't mean they had to stick to the script. If Bella and Edward were really meant to be it wouldn't matter in the end what they did. So it didn't hurt anything to mess around a littleâ€|right?

The sisters had to suppress maniacal laughs. They'd not only get to meet their favorite characters but also the ones that annoyed them. They locked eyes. 'Should we go easy on them?' Eva's eyes asked before they both shook their heads. 'Nah.'

This was gonna be fun.

A/N: Hope you liked it. Longer chapters to come. I'll most likely update every other day or so. You'll come to find that even though some things might still surprise the twins, and there will be surprises, they kinda just go with the flow. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have an awesome day.

2. Chapter 2

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and review. You rock! Warning: There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh and cussing. This might border as a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. Also I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A little Bella bashing and others bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. To MEGUMithePENGUIN: Thank you so much for your review. I am so happy you are enjoying the story so far and hope you continue to like it. *Sillygabby: Glad you like it and they will be replacing Bella in some ways. Yeah, I have a few confrontations planned (evil laugh). *Oh, and sorry if their meeting with Jacob was at the wrong time, I'm mixing book with movie. Enjoy.

Chapter 2: Meeting Jacob Black.

Ava and Eva followed Bella off of the plane growing more annoyed by the second. Annoyed because Bella was so shy she let everyone, EVERYONE, go ahead of them before moving so that the three of them could leave.

Eva had had to hold Ava back from jumping over seats and crowd surfing to get out.

Bella had seen their looks and mumbled something about impatient cousins, so they at least now knew how the quiet girl knew them.

Eva was definitely going to have to do something to boost that girl's confidence though. If not for Bella's sake then for her own, tripping and blushing at everything was only endearing for so long before the novelty wore off.

Neither twin were huge Bella fans but they didn't hate her either, like how they viewed most of the Twilight characters.

Though Ava did really like Alice and Jasper. Eva thought Seth and Embry seemed pretty chill.

They were hoping that their 'cousin' was more than what she seemed in the movies and books. They didn't want to change her completely, that'd be mean. However, small improvements might help.

They did find it kind of funny that Bella was so awkward around normal people but the moment there was someone odd (cough, Edward, cough) she became pretty nosy and persistent. At least when she wanted to uncover a secret, another trait they would try to downplay.

It was rude to force people to tell you their secrets, that wasn't how trust was earned.

They were a bit concerned that Edward would be able to read their thoughts but decided not to stress too much. If he could then they would send him weird thoughts, if not they'd just whisper weird shit to him.

They were both surprised to find that they really didn't care if the vamps found out that they knew about them. If asked Ava and Eva would tell the truth, though they would try to hold onto some information as leverage.

Who knew what a family of vampires could do if they knew some random girls knew their future.

The Cullens might try to leave and that wouldn't be much fun. Or they'd try to kill them, which also wasn't fun.

Though like most things they kind of shrugged it off. They couldn't control everything, they'd just end up stressed and upset. No, they would have fun, maybe pull a few pranks, and look after Bella.

She was family now after all.

Though Eva knew that her sister was itching to have a bitch out with Rosalie. She liked the blonde, maybe even had a small crush and wanted to see if she really was some sort of fierce Aphrodite.

They planned on taking Forks by storm.

"Do you guys see him" Bella asked as she tugged her backpack strap higher on her shoulder as she searched for Charlie.

"Not yet" Eva said. They didn't want to admit that they didn't know what Charlie really looked like, that'd be awkward.

"Thank you guys again for coming with me. I know you didn't have to." Bella smiled at them, they returned it.

"No problem Cuz, that's what families for", Ava assured her and she saw Bella smile wider. She seemed pretty comfy with them. Hell, she didn't even seem surprised when Eva began singing loudly, trying to get a song out of her head.

Ava didn't know why some people glared, at least her and her sister could sing. Butt munchers.

'Guess we're pretty close' she mused and she saw Eva give her a small nod.

Most people joked that they had twin telepathy, they didn't know that they weren't too far off. They couldn't really hear each others thoughts but it was pretty close.

They had long ago accepted it as just another twin perk.

"Yeah, we couldn't let you start a new school all by yourself. Who would protect you?" Eva joked and Bella laughed.

"Right. What ever would I do without my knights in dark armor".

"Damn straight" Ava said before letting out her loud laugh when Bella lightly slapped her arm.

"Bells?" a deep voice asked and all three girls turned to see Charlie Swan walking towards them. The twins noticed that he looked pretty close to his movie version, kind of like Bella.

It was like they were looking at relatives of the actors that played the parts. They wondered if the wolves and vampires looked similar to their on screen counterparts, but they doubted it.

If they were as amazing as the book described them then they were probably going to look way different.

"Char-Dad" Bella corrected herself as she smiled at her father. She had to stifle a laugh at Charlie's face when the twins practically jumped on him.

"Uncle Charlie" they screamed out happily hugging the now red faced man. He sighed before giving a small chuckle. Some things never changed and it seemed the twins were on of those things, if that was good or bad he'd never know.

Ava and Eva drew back with mischievous glints in their eyes that actually made the chief of police gulp.

"Alright girls, let's get your luggage and get to the cruiser. I'm sure you want to check out your rooms."

Ava and Eva's eyes grew wide. In the books the Swan house had only had two bedrooms but he had said rooms. Did that meanâ€|?

"Rooms?" Eva asked with innocent eyes. It usually worked, people thought that Ava was the bad twin most of the time.

They were wrong, it was fifty-fifty.

Charlie simply raised a brow. "That look hasn't worked on me for almost eight years now Ava" he stated proudly until the twins dramatically rolled their eyes.

"I'm Eva" she said with a mock sigh. She wasn't really upset, though it did still baffle her how some people kept mixing up their identities. 'I mean sure we look almost completely identical but come on. Our eye color and hair colors are different. We even went so far as to get our piercings put on opposite sides.' she thought.

"Of course you are" Charlie sighed. He promised himself that he'd remember this time.

Bella gave her dad a sympathetic smile. She was one of the few people who could always tell the twins apart, even when they were little and had their natural hair color.

She had always been good at picking up details.

"So luggage" she said and they all nodded. The twins began skipping and singing 'Off to See the Wizard', they had tried to get her to join but she just couldn't.

Luckily her cousins never tried to really embarrass her and had taken most of the rooms attention off of her beat red face.

When they were younger she had tried to get the twins to behave normally in public but it was futile. Ava and Eva just wouldn't be the same if they were normal. Secretly she envied their ability to just be themselves free from any worry of what others may think.

She had even seen Eva get pantsed one time yet the girl had never lost her cool. Eva had winked to the watching marching band and commented that she was so happy her butt and undies had looked good.

Though Bella had seen the boy who had done it later sitting outside of the principal's office with a black eye, courtesy of Ava. Her adorable cousin, who people learned not to piss off.

Of course she knew her cousin wasn't some anger fueled thug, she usually used words when fighting, the same went for Eva. However, if one of the twins was to get into a physical fight it was usually

Ava.

Bella hadn't seen her lose once yet.

She sighed as Charlie sent her an awkward smile, she knew that was where she had gotten it from. At least Charlie didn't hover like Renee.

Bella walked after her cousins and smiled a little. She really was grateful they had come. Now they all just had to unpack, go to school, and try to make a life here.

She laughed as she saw Charlie trying to stop the girls from riding the baggage carousal. She knew he wouldn't have much success without her help. The twins could be stubborn some times.

She perked up a little. 'At least I won't be the only one that people stare at on Monday'.

Charlie's cruiser finally pulled up to the house. Both Swans' sighed in relief as the twins jumped out of the back. They had been pretending to cry and plead whenever they saw people watching the chief's car.

There was sure to be plenty of gossip to greet them on their first day of school.

"Where's Jacob and Billy?' Eva whispered curiously to her sister. They were a bit iffy on dates since they had only watched the movies. They had planned on reading the books but their classmates had ruined them before they could by spilling every little detail.

It didn't seem like much fun after that. Though if they did have questions they just googled them or asked Daniela.

"I think he comes after we start unpacking and they bring the truck." Ava said and she tried to hide a smirk as her sister nodded.

She knew her sister thought Jacob Black, or at least Taylor Lautner was hot. Just like she thought Robert Pattinson was. Seeing her excited about a boy was so unusual, even for them. Neither had ever dated or anything yet, so this was all uncharted territory for them.

Though she knew that her sister and her didn't have much hope for actually finding a romantic connection with anyone here.

Still it'd be cute to watch, not to mention funny.

Eva caught her sister's smirk and smacked her arm. That broke Ava's resolve and she followed her muttering sister into the house laughing.

"I was just curious, damn". Eva swore, it only earned more laughter.

The girls walked upstairs and found two decent sized rooms next to each other, their names on the doors.

"Guess the house changed for us", Eva said as she walked into her room. It needed a bit of styling but from what she saw sticking out of the boxes at least they had all of their stuff with them.

There was a letter on top of a box and the girls read it.

_Dear Ava and Eva, _

I know you are wondering what is happening, or Ava is walking around asking 'what the fuck' to the walls. Don't worry, everything will be explained with time. Just be yourselves, trust me. Your memories will fill in as you sleep, just a heads up.

_Oh and don't worry about money, Mama Daniela's got you covered.

_Until I see you again, lots of love. _

Daniela.

"Well at least she didn't just leave us high and dry." Eva sighed.

"Yeah, thanks Danny" Ava said as she patted her sister's back before going to her own room. It was a bit weird having their own rooms. They had shared everything, room included, since they were born.

Of course they had technically been given their own rooms back home at their dad's but it just never felt right.

Ava would sleep here and try to get used to it, maybe it had a purpose. She didn't know but she'd try it out for now, her and Eva did like their privacy every now and then.

Still, Ava saw a lot sisterly sleepovers in their future.

It was almost an hour later when the three girls heard a loud sound come from outside.

Bella looked out of her window curiously but the twins simply ran down the stairs. That roar could only mean one thing, the beast was here and Jacob was driving it.

Ava let Eva run a little before her and burst out laughing when her sister collided with a long haired youth, falling on top of him.

Eva smiled down at Jacob and helped him up. She saw a small blush on his cheeks as he stared at her and her smile grew. Jacob was very handsome. He wasn't as buff as he would get but she didn't know where Bella got the idea that he was scrawny from.

He was just a little taller then her now but she knew that would change and then he'd be huge.

She saw him blush some more and thought it was because she was openly staring at him but then noticed his eyes dart down to her chest a few times and she giggled.

"Hi, I'm Eva" she said with a big smile and now he mimicked her. 'We'll Bella was right about one thing. He had one hell of a smile'.

"Yeah, we used to play together. I'm Jacob remember?" and he looked at her with such hopeful eyes that she just had to nod.

"Of course I do".

His smile was almost blinding now.

Eva felt conflicted but relaxed when she felt Ava brush their shoulders. Her sister must have noticed her tense. Eva wasn't a huge fan of Jacob Black but that was more due to the fact that after he changed he became a bit of a jerk. He wasn't like that yetâ€¦right?

'Oh well, no reason to be mean to him for something he hasn't done yet', she thought.

"You remember Ava" she pointed at her sister who made gun motions making Jake chuckle.

"Stud" Ava teased him and he blushed a little though Eva did notice that it wasn't as much as when he looked at her.

She ignored the warm feeling in her stomach at that thought.

"And our cousin Bella".

She saw him check out, though thankfully it wasn't crudely, the other girls but he stayed firmly in front of her.

Curious.

"So Bells" said an amused Charlie as he looked between his niece and best friend's son. "How do you girls like your gift?" he motioned to the truck and scratched his neck. Though he soon had to use both arms to catch the twins as they once again threw themselves at him. This time they were screaming thank you.

He laughed and patted their backs, happy that they liked the truck. Bella, he noticed, also seemed enthusiastic and he smiled watching her look it over.

"Really, for us? Thanks dad!" Bella said excitedly.

"I fixed it" Jacob said looking at Eva. It almost looked like he was pouting, well at least until the pink haired beauty jumped him as well. She even kissed his cheek.

"Thank you so much Jacob!" she squealed.

"Yeah, no problem" he said dreamily before coughing and repeating it in what he thought was a manlier voice.

Eva giggled. No, this Jacob Black wasn't too bad at all.

*A/N: *Hope you liked it! I know it seemed Eva warmed up to him pretty quickly but not only is this Jake just an innocent teen right now, but the girls will soon see that sometimes people and even your own heart can surprise you. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

3. Chapter 3

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

*A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and review. You rock! Warning: *There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh and some cussing. This might border as a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A little Bella bashing and others bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. I'm sorry if Bella or anyone else seems a bit OOC but hopefully it will be explained in the story. Also a lot of dialog won't be exact, sorry if that bugs you. Thank you to MEGUMithePENGUIN, FreeSpiritSeeker, and Sillygabby for your fun and positive reviews. Just so everyone knows, the twins do look pretty alike to the point that if they changed their hair and took out their lip rings, they could probably get away with switching places. Yet they are different enough that, if you looked at them for awhile, it'd be pretty easy to tell who was who. Enjoy.

Chapter 3: Meeting the Cullens.

Ava popped out of bed when her alarm went off Monday morning with a huge smile on her face.

Usually she wasn't a morning person, but today they were going to Forks High. The place where she knew there were plenty of people in need of an ass kicking.

After a shower she slipped on a tight Dracula shirt, leather pants, black boots, and a big leather jacket. She gave herself a nice cat eye and some red lipstick though she didn't bother straightening her curly hair.

Eva came in and they appraised each others outfits.

Eva basically wore the same thing as her sister, but her shirt was of the Creature of the Black Lagoon.

With one final nod they smiled. "Looking good" they said at the same time. They laughed and walked down the stairs to the kitchen where they greeted Bella. She smiled at them.

"You two look nice". It wasn't something she would wear but they were happy, plus they actually pulled it off.

"As do you our lovely little wallflower" they told her making her blush.

Bella was in a nice brown long sleeved shirt and some jeans. Her long brown hair was pushed back slightly with a head band. She didn't have any makeup on besides some light mascara. The twins noticed that they all had really clear skin. They were quite happy that they dodge that puberty bullet.

"Here's your breakfast" she told them as she handed them plates with toasted bagels and fruits on them.

"Thanks sweetness" Ava told her and Bella nodded.

"Are you guys excited for school?" Bella asked as she ate her own food.

The twins nodded vigorously. "You?"

She shrugged, she was nervous about meeting all the new people. "You guys will be with me, right?" she asked trying to sound nonchalant.

Sure the twins could be weird and loud, but they always tried to include her and defended her against the people at their old school. They were pretty much her best friends, even if they were almost complete opposites of her.

"Don't worry, we've got your back." They said and she smiled.

"You always do."

She missed the look the two shared. Just like Daniela had told them, they had dreamed of their life in this world. They had grown up with Bella, stuck up for her when other kids tried to pick on her for reading and being mature at such a young age.

Their Uncle Charlie was brothers with their father, who luckily was still Adam, but apparently their father was traveling the world with their grandma doing makeup for shows and movies.

They had often visited Bella and Charlie in Forks when they were little and when they had turned twelve Charlie and Renee had asked Adam if the girls could go live with Bella for awhile. They were hoping to bring her out of her shell, plus they knew the girls would make sure the other children didn't pick on Bella.

They were right.

The twins spent a lot of time with Bella. So much time that she was one of the only people that could almost guess what they would do before they did it. She didn't always approve of their plans but she never tried to stop them, unless it was dangerous.

They never nagged her about her liking to have a nice quiet evening just reading, in fact sometimes they joined her. Usually, though not very often, the twins would become very quiet and just want to have a mellow day.

Bella wasn't slacking in their relationship though. If someone was dumb enough to talk about her family in front of her then the shy girl sudden showed just how fierce she could be.

It was pretty fun to watch and the twins kind of hoped they got to see it in person.

"Guess we better go and get this over with" Bella said and the twins wrapped their arms around her shoulders as they steered her to the beast.

"Don't worry Bella-bean. I have a feeling it's going to be worth it" Eva said and Ava giggled her agreement.

The girls pulled up to their new high school and parked. Bella blushed when she noticed all of the stares, the twins posing and walking around like runway models didn't help her either.

She noticed a lot of the cars were older models so luckily theirs didn't stand out too much. The only new ones were a Volvo and Hummer that Ava pointed out.

"Shiny" the twins said almost in a shiny induced trance and Bella had to grab their arms to stop them from running over to the cars.

They made it to the front office and were greeted by the sight of Mrs. Cope. She looked up and saw them making her grow excited, they could easily see recognition in her eyes. Whether it was from Charlie talking about them or just town gossip they didn't know, though it was probably a mixture of both.

"Hello dears. You must be Isabella Swan, and Ava and Eva Bedlam. We've been expecting you!" she said making the twins think of every horror movie with a small town cult.

"That's creepy", the twins said as Bella went to correct the woman on what to call her.

"Well here are your schedules. You have to get each of your teachers to sign this and then bring it back to me at the end of the day." She told them with a smile. Obviously she hadn't heard the twins.

"Will do madam" the twins promised in charming voices as they bowed to the now blushing and giggling woman.

Bella shook her head and dragged her cousins into the hallway. They started walking around trying to find their first class when their path was blocked by an acne riddled Asian boy.

"Hey there. You must be the new girls Isabella, Ava, and Eva. I'm Eric Yorkie." He said before getting a little too close.

"It's Bella. How did you know our names?" Bella asked quietly and the twins simply gave him blank looks.

Eric laughed a little. "News travels fast in a small town and you three are hot news. That's why we're running an article on you. Front page baby".

"No!" Bella almost yelled before calming down. "Please, no article. I'm more of a suffer in silence type of girl and the twins" she paused and they both looked over at Ava and Eva. Both had become bored and were playing with each others hair and making faces.

"They might go overboard" Bella finally settled on.

"Oh, sure" Eric smiled. "Here let me walk you guys to class" he said excitedly, obviously happy with not only talking to three pretty girls but also being the center of attention as everyone watched them. Bella blushed but the twins were used to people staring at them, they did pick eye-catching hair colors after all. They couldn't blame people for looking.

"But you don't even know what our class is" Eva said seeing as he hadn't even looked at their schedule.

"Oh, well I-".

"Unless, you were watching us" Ava said as her eyes got bigger.

"Or looked up our schedules before hand. Are you stalking us!?" Eva said dramatically and pretended to cower in Ava's arms as her sister took over.

"Who are you working for?!"

"Uhhh" was all Eric was able to say, he hadn't expected them to take it like that. He didn't know how to handle girls like these, they were different from any of the ones he knew.

Bella tried not to laugh and gave the girls the usual slaps to the arms to get them to behave, even if it was for only a little while.

"Do you know where this is?" she asked Eric. He seemed like the overly helpful, geeky, chess club type. She only had a few classes with the twins but at least she shared some with them, and she'd see them at lunch.

"Yeah, that's my class" Eric said excitedly before looking at Ava's paper since her and Eva had almost every class together. Only their last period was different with Ava in music and Eva getting a free period.

"We were just joking" Eva reassured him at his cautious gaze and he immediately perked up and laughed.

"Cool, some funny chicks. Very nice" he tried to flirt but their flat expressions told him that he had failed.

"See you guys at lunch?" Bella asked and her cousins nodded before hugging her goodbye.

They both mock whispered, "Remember Bells, if he tries anything either kick him in the balls or pluck out an eye."

Bella gave a small laugh when Eric's eyes practically bugged out of his head.

Ava and Eva found their history class and skipped to the teacher's desk drawing everyone's attention, including the two beautiful pale people in the back of the room.

Jasper and Alice Cullen watched as the new girls joked back and forth waiting for the teacher. The vampires' eyes were automatically drawn to the newcomers. They had interesting hair and a fashion sense that was like a breath of fresh air in this dull town.

There was also somethingâ€|off about them, but not in an unpleasant way. Jasper didn't understand it, but Alice had an idea. Her visions had changed recently but she wanted time to go over them before saying anything.

One thing was for certain though, these girls were in the Cullens future.

Mrs. Parker, the teacher, came in and stared owlshly for a moment before snapping out of it and approaching the odd new students.

"Mhmm" she cleared her throat and the twins looked at her. 'They're very pretty and almost identical. Might mistake them a few times.' she thought as she looked them over. 'I hope they aren't trouble makers'.

"Our newest students. Since you are twins am I right in assuming that you are Ava and Eva Bedlam?"

"At your service ma'am" they told her with bright smiles.

"I'm Eva" Ava said before Eva interrupted her.

"No, no dear you're Ava".

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, quite sure. It's Tuesday remember?"

"Right you are, I apologize. I am Ava and this reflective beauty is my sister Eva" the purple haired teen finished with a smile.

Alice and Jasper were laughing to themselves while Mrs. Parker was trying to hide her own amusement. Some other people were chuckling while a few just thought the twins were weird.

Not that they cared.

"Lovely to meet you, I'm sure." Mrs. Parker said and the twins smiles grew. At least their teacher had a sense of humor.

"You can sit by Jasper and Alice there in the back. Jasper can you please lift you hand, thank you." She said as she signed their slips and gave them one last smile.

The twins strolled to their seats, gave the Cullens a smile, then sat down while Ava pulled out a notebook. She had the better hand writing so she'd take the notes.

Mrs. Parker started writing things to do with the Civil War on the black board.

"The Civil War? Could be a good choice" Ava mused quietly to Eva as they shared a secret smile. They knew Jasper was in the Civil War.

"The Revolutionary one was interesting too." Eva said and Ava gave a small laugh.

"Well you've definitely done enough research about it", and it was true. Both girls had an Aunt who was crazy about the Revolution and had drilled it into the girls' heads.

"Still, I prefer the Civil. It was more misunderstood" Ava added and Eva nodded in agreement.

Alice gave a silent giggle as Jasper perked up and listened to the twins. Their comment about the war being misunderstood intrigued him since he thought the same thing.

He leaned in a little before his brow crinkled. Neither of the humans' blood smelled appetizing to him, in fact they smelt strange.

"Alice, what do they smell like?" he asked his wife at vampire speed.

Alice gave a sniff and now she looked just as confused. "Theyâ€|kind of smell like the others, but not much." She said as she got a far off look.

When she came out of her vision she looked even more confused and simply shook her head at Jasper's questioning gaze.

It seemed that the Bedlam twins brought a bit of mystery to Forks.

'Finally lunch' Ava thought as they headed to the cafeteria. She didn't know why but she was starving. She usually ate a lot but now she felt like she could eat everything in the lunch room.

Eva on the other hand actually didn't feel very hungry. After seeing what they were offering in the line, Ava started to agree.

"Ava, Eva" Bella called them over to the table she was sitting at. She was next to a short brunette who they guessed was Jessica. A taller girl with glasses, Angela. And finally another short girl with blonde hair that was sneering at Bella, definitely Lauren.

The girls didn't take the time to look at the boys at the table. Their full attention was on glaring at the blonde who saw them and went to sneer before she caught sight of the death coming out of their eyes.

Lauren paled and turned away quickly. The twins high-fived.

"Heya Bella-bean" she said as they sat down on the other side of her. Bella introduce them to the group and they found out the guys were Tyler, Ben, Mike, and of course Eric.

Angela took a picture of Bella. "That'll be great for the paper" she said softly.

"Features dead Angela, don't bring it up again" Eric said trying to get on Bella and the twins good side. It didn't work.

"Don't sweat it sweetness" Ava reassured the blushing Angela. They liked the sweet preacher's daughter, she was one of the only genuine people at this table.

Angela smiled her thanks at them. 'They seem sweet and their shirts are cool' she thought pleasantly.

Eric called Bella his home girl and Mike gave a small humorless laugh. "Your girl huh?" he said as he leaned back in his chair before he started to check out the twins. 'Damn, this family has some good genes' he thought.

Tyler jumped up and tried to kiss Bella on the cheek, however since Ava and Eva knew what was coming they pulled her chair out of the way just in time.

Tyler tripped and fell onto Mike before jumping up and running as the blonde boy chased him.

"Geez" Jessica said with a fake smile. "It's like first grade all over again and you're the shiny new toy."

The girls got into a discussion about the swim team stuffing their speedos. The twins weren't very interested so they tuned most of it out.

They zoned back in when they heard Bella. "Who are they?"

Cue the Cullens making an entrance. 'For people who are trying to blend in they sure are dramatic' Eva thought.

First to walk in was a huge guy with a beautiful blonde on his arm, though the word beautiful might not be strong enough to describe her.

"That's Dr. Cullen's kids. They're adopted or foster kids or something" Jessica began. "The big one is Emmett Cullen and the girl is Rosalie Hale."

"Damn, she's stunning" the twins said and they saw Rose smirk. Of course they looked way better than the human actors, they were almost indescribable in their unnatural beauty.

Jessica motioned to Alice and Jasper, "That's Alice, she's kind of weird. The blonde who looks like he's in pain is Jasper, he's Rosalie's twin."

Alice did a little twirl and the twins gave a little clap making the couple look up quickly before sitting down.

Finally Edward came in and Ava had to stop herself from letting her jaw drop. He had to be one of, if not on the very top of the list, most stunning beings she had ever seen. Now she understood why Bella had been so captivated by his looks. 'Ok he's gorgeous' damn it' she thought kind of angrily with a pout.

Edward's gaze, which had been on Jessica and Bella switched to Ava. His eyes grew wide and he actually stopped walking and just stared at her for a moment.

"Edward" Alice sang and he shook his head quickly and sat down.

"He looks kind of emo" Eva joked, she had seen her sister and Edward's reactions to each other.

Interesting.

Ava gave off her booming laugh and nodded. The Cullens actually looked like they wanted to laugh at Edward's now sour face.

"That's Edward" Jessica snapped before her friendly mask fell back in place. Apparently she saw the little exchange as well.

"He's totally gorgeous of course but don't waste your time. He doesn't date. Apparently none of the girls here are good-looking enough for him. Like I care." She said bitterly and the twins gained sly grins.

"She doesn't sound bitter does she sister" Eva asked.

"No, no not at all" Ava said and Jessica glared making them laugh.

"They don't talk to anyone" Lauren added her two cents in her nasally voice.

"Oh, I'm sure it has nothing to do with most people being judgmental assholes" Ava said with a half smile and raised brow and Eva nodded with a false look of seriousness.

"They're all together, like together together" Jessica said in a loud whisper. Bella's brows raised a bit though they knew she didn't really care.

"So?" they asked.

The other teens sputtered like it was the most insane question in the world, besides Angela who agreed. "Yeah, they aren't even really related." she added before returning the twins' smiles.

"That's like incest" Jessica said scandalized and Bella scooted back a little. She knew it didn't matter to the twins that they didn't actually know the Cullens, all that mattered to them was that they saw someone being picked on just for being different.

Bella almost felt bad for Jessica.

"Honey" Ava said in a lazy tone. "Cousins used to marry, we are all basically products of incest. At least they aren't related by blood."

"When you're meant for someone, the rest doesn't matter" Eva added.

The others didn't know what to say to that.

"Have they always lived here?" Bella asked as her eyes once again turned towards the beautiful beings.

"No" Jessica snorted while rolling her eyes. She didn't see Ava and Eva making pig faces at each other, but the Cullens, Bella, Angela did.

"They're all from Alaska. They moved here with Dr. Cullen and his wife" Jessica leaned in further and the twins backed away. "I don't think she can have kids."

"Yet, she took in children who needed her. That's so sweet." Eva said as the twins shared a smile with Angela.

"I guess." Jessica said as if she didn't agree.

"What?" Ava said getting a bit angry. "You don't think that it's amazing that someone wouldn't let not being able to have children crush their spirit? It can be crippling for some people who are unable to have kids, they can't do one of the main things their bodies are designed to do."

Eva took over, "Yet this woman didn't let that bring her down. Instead she took in other peoples children, teenagers no less, that obviously needed her. If that isn't a testament to true character I don't know what is" she finished becoming angry herself.

Bella took their hands and tried to calm them down. She understood what they were saying and even agreed with it, but she didn't want them to get in trouble on their first day.

The Cullens sat in shock at their own table.

Not only had these two girls, people that they didn't even know, defended them and their choice of partner but they also defended Esme and were angry on her behalf.

This had never really happened before. There were a few people who were nice and just thought they wanted to be left alone but they didn't speak up for them in such a strong manner as these two. It was kind of impressive.

Hell, even Rose was speechless.

These twins kept proving themselves to be quite a puzzle.

Edward found himself offhandedly thinking, 'I love a good puzzle.'

Ava and Eva followed behind Mike and Bella as they walked to Biology. They were a little nervous about this period seeing as Edward would be thinking of ways to kill their cousin.

One wrong move might set him off. They were nervous because they had long ago found it extremely hard to keep themselves in check.

Mr. Banner smiled at them as they walked to his desk before he dismissed Mike who was hovering around.

As he signed their papers he spoke. "Ms. Swan why don't you sit by Mr. Conner there." He pointed at Ava, "Ms. Bedlam by Mr. Cullen and the other Ms. Bedlam by Mr. Yorkie."

Ava and Eva almost choked on their tongues, this was unexpected. They had thought for sure that Bella would be sitting by Edward.

They shared a look and saw Bella's slightly disappointed face. A little guilt rushed over them, they weren't very concerned with keeping the story on track but they did want their cousin happy.

Ava sat next to Edward and didn't look at him. He however, decided to have a staring contest with the side of her face. At least until he turned and glared at Bella who had just walked in front of the fan.

Eva rubbed the brunette's back while Ava turned to Edward, who was still glaring at the now blushing Bella.

Suddenly there was a hand in front of his face snapping its fingers.

"Do you have a staring problem?" Ava asked lowly and with a bit of bite. Edward turned to her with big eyes.

Their eyes locked and for a moment they were both lost. Without meaning to they shared the same thought. 'Wow'.

"No" he said softly. His eyes, she was happy to see, had started to take on more gold. Though she was curious as to why the black was going away.

"Then quit glaring at my cousin please, she's shy and you're making her uncomfortable." She turned to face the front of the class with a small harrumph.

Edward's mouth almost dropped. He was used to woman, and even some men, doing anything for his attention. He was used to their annoying, and a bit disturbing thoughts about him. Yet here was this girl who acted like he was just annoying.

He knew she thought he was attractive but instead of flirting or trying to sneak a peak at him, she practically raised her nose in the air and started to pretend like he wasn't even there.

'This is new' was all he could think before he started to pick up her thoughts.

'Freaken rude, pale ass...handsome, no shut up! Gah, vampires!' she thought and he tensed up freezing on the spot.

Ava's eyes grew to comical sizes as she realized what she had just thought. Eva, who was in front of her, could practically feel the anxiety rolling off of Ava before she turned to them.

Ava was almost panicking while Edward was frozen and unblinking.

Oh shit, what did Ava think?

As she caught Ava's gaze she guessed it wasn't good, probably even life threatening.

'Seriously? Class hasn't even started!' she thought as Ava shot her an apologetic look.

'Freaken mind reading vampires' they thought and heard Edward suck in air sharply.

Shit.

*A/N: *What do you think? More Edward and Ava interaction in the next chapter, even some one on one. What will happen now that Edward heard their revealing thoughts. I know that the twins have said they don't care about the story but, like in real life, things are different when you are face to face with them. Like them feeling bad about Ava taking Bella's seat or thinking about vampires around one that could hear their thoughts, which I'm guessing would be scarier in person. That doesn't mean the twins will roll over and be meek, don't worry. They only have so many fucks to give before they run out. Anyway, I hope you liked it. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

4. Chapter 4

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

*A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and review. You rock! Warning: There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh, and some cussing. This might seem like a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad though a big thank you to d210333 for beta reading the first two chapters, that was so nice of you. A little Bella bashing and others bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. I'm sorry if Bella or anyone else seems a bit OOC but hopefully it will be explained in the story. Was that cliff hanger in the last chapter evil? (Muhaha!) Also I know I'm making the attraction and everything between Edward and Ava happening pretty quickly but don't worry I have a plan and no they won't start dating after just a few days. Another thank you to FreeSpiritSeeker (I am so happy it made you smile. My best friend can't have children and it drives me crazy when people make her feel bad about it), *Sillygabby *(I'm happy that you like the story and I hope you continue to enjoy. Thank you for the suggestion, I was planning on doing something similar when the idea involving Alice came to my brain), * MEGUMithePENGUIN, and SailorJupiiter001 *for reviewing. Enjoy.

Chapter 4: Up close and personal with Edward Cullen.

For the rest of Biology neither Ava nor Edward spoke. He stared at her intently trying to get her to look him in the eyes, while she did everything in her power to make sure she didn't do just that.

The moment the bell rang Ava was up and out the door, Edward hot on her tail.

"What happened?" Bella asked worried and Eva shrugged.

"I'm sure she's fine. I'll see you next period" she said before going off in the direction that her sister and the vampire had gone.

Bella followed Mike to gym as he babbled on but her mind was only on Ava and Edward Cullen.

She had been so embarrassed when he had glared at her but then Ava had said something and he had stopped. Then her usually bold as brass cousin had practically run away from the Adonis like teen, and he had followed her.

Bella let out a small frustrated sigh. 'Just what the hell had happened?'

Ava walked quickly in the halls, she didn't know where she was going but it didn't matter at the moment.

'Stupid, stupid, stupid.' She chastised herself as she walked. She knew this was a possibility but honestly hadn't thought one of them would have slipped so soon. 'And now I'm running away like some scared little bunny.'

This thought brought her up short and she suddenly stopped walking causing Edward to smack into her back.

She started to fall forward when suddenly she found her body encompassed by cold. Edward had caught her and was holding her, her back was pressed against his chest.

"Thanks" she said before trying to get out of his arms. He didn't let go at first but finally released her, though he did keep a hand on her arm.

Ava turned to him and lifted a brow, she had gotten her baring's back. She was no bunny.

Edward, despite the panic he felt at her possibly knowing his secret, smirked at her thoughts. He agreed with her though, 'Far to feisty to be any kind of prey' he thought.

"Can I help you?" Ava asked and Edward sent her a flat look.

It was basically saying, 'Really, you want to play dumb?'

"May I speak to you in private?" he asked and his jaw ticked when she shook her head.

"I have class, I need to get this slip signed. Sorry" she said not sounding sorry at all. She even smirked a little when Edward pinched the bridge of his nose in frustration.

He couldn't force her, well he could but he didn't want to. He wanted her to talk to him willingly and explain how her and her sister knew about vampires. If he was being honest with himself then he would have admitted that he wanted to talk to her about anything she wanted, as long as he got to spend more time with her.

Of course he was in denial and tried to ignore those thoughts, they were dangerous. He was a monster and she was a fragile human after all. No, he only wanted an explanation. Nothing more, nothing less.

Edward wasn't the only one trying to deny their feelings. Ava was determined to ignore the weird flips in her stomach at the feeling of being so close to Edward with their skin touching.

"What about after school?" he asked trying to be polite. He was a gentleman after all, even though this girl was pushing his buttons.

Ava gave a mock sigh and batted her eyelashes. Edward didn't know whether to laugh or groan in frustration. "No, I don't think I can".

"And why not?"

"Don't want to", was her easy reply.

Edward sighed again but then smiled. He knew people were watching them, they were standing in the middle of the hallway while everyone was trying to get to class after all.

He gently led her to the lockers, Ava raised an eyebrow but allowed it. Once they were by the wall Edward stepped closer into her personal space and she had to bite back a gasp. He heard anyway and smirked. Ava shot him a dirty look.

He placed one hand against the wall and leaned in slightly. "Are you sure you can't?" he practically purred.

Ava came to the quick realization that Edward Cullen, or Mr. Prude as some people called him, was trying to dazzle her to get answers. Edward glared at the nickname.

'Two can play this game' was the only warning the mind reader got before Ava pressed their chests together and brought their faces closer. Their noses were almost touching at this point.

"I'm sure. Now moveâ€¦please" she said in a soft voice as her eyes seemed to pull him in.

Edward found himself wanting to find out what her lips would taste like.

He scooted out of the way and Ava began to walk away when he caught her hand in his. "This isn't over you know?" he asked. It wasn't a threat, just a promise.

"I know" she whispered before gently pulling away from him.

Right before she turned the corner Ava looked back and saw Edward standing in the same spot, watching her.

"What's going on Edward?" Rose asked him in gym class. Jasper was with them as well but he didn't pry into the mind reader's feelings, something Edward was grateful for.

"What are you talking about Rose?" he asked not looking at her. He knew she was talking about Ava. Word had gotten around pretty quickly that Edward Cullen had been seen getting cozy with one of the new girls. His blonde sister was not pleased.

"She's human Edward" she shot back with venom.

Before he could reply Jasper spoke up. "I wouldn't be so sure about that' he told them before relaying what he and Alice had smelled earlier that day.

Before Rose could blow a fuse, or try and hurt Ava, Edward cut her off. "We'll have a family meeting tonight, until then drop it." He spent the rest of the period blocking out Rose's less then flattering thoughts.

Though he didn't find it too hard to do since his mind was once again filled with thoughts of Ava Bedlam. He had so many questions, some he didn't even think she could answer. Like why had she been able to calm his thirst?

When the Swan girl's scent had hit him he had been sure he was going to snap and drain her right then and there. He had even started to think up ways to get her alone and vulnerable. However, the moment Ava took his attention away from the girl and placed it back onto herself he had felt much better.

And what about when he had looked into her eyes? He had never felt anything like that before. He had wanted to touch her, to feel how soft her hair was. To see if her lips were as juicy as they looked.

Not to mention a few inappropriate thoughts that had both aroused and embarrassed him. Just thinking about it now made him happy he couldn't blush.

Jasper shot him a curious look.

'Well at least I'm not turned on anymore' he reasoned to himself. Of course his traitorous brain picked that moment to remind him about how nice it felt to have the leather clad teen pressed up against him and he felt his body start to react.

Jasper's eyes grew as big as saucers when he felt the lust rolling off of Edward. He had to stop himself from laughing like a madman, he had never felt his brooding brother get this emotion before.

Edward let his head fall onto his arms that were laid out on his desk. His brother was teasing him with his thoughts, he knew it would be worse when Emmett found out.

'Can a vampire die from embarrassment?' he wondered.

Ava made it to her math class two minutes late. The teacher raised his eyebrow, "Late on the first day Ms. Bedlam?"

"I had to pee" she said with a straight face as she handed him her paper. He blushed a little and coughed.

"Yes, well take your seat" and she went next to Eva.

They shared an amused grin as she sat down. "Well?" Eva whispered and Ava told her what had happened.

Ava smacked her arm when she saw that her sister was laughing. "Shut up it's not funny" she whined.

"Yes it is. You two like each other, you're just stubborn. It's some kind of cute love at first sight shit."

"It is not, plus he's meant for Bella remember?" she said and Eva rolled her eyes.

"I'm not so sure" she continued when Ava shot her another look. "Look, all I'm saying is that we are in an impossible situation and we can't just assume that things will be the same".

"So does that mean you're going after Jakey-poo?" Ava shot back and Eva glared before shrugging.

"Who knows."

Ava sighed and unwittingly copied Edward by putting her head on her arms.

"So what are we going to do about them wanting to know how we know?" she finally asked.

Eva's smile told her that she might like whatever her twin was cooking up. "Don't worry I have a plan, and if we need it I have a back up plan as well." Eva reassured her.

"Well lay it on me sister". They started whispering to each other. Everyone's eyes snapped to the girls when they burst out laughing.

The teacher glared and the students stared until they realized that the twins didn't care, they only looked back with blank expressions.

'Oh this is gonna be fun' the girls thought.

The girls were pleased to see that they shared the same English class as Bella, though Ava groaned when she saw that Edward was in there as well.

Edward perked up when she came in and smirked when he heard the teacher's thoughts about where to seat them.

Ava saw his expression and groaned. 'No, no, no!' she chanted and his smirk grew.

"Alright" Mr. Berty said and Ava was trying use telepathy to get him to not say what she knew he was going to say.

It didn't work, though it did make Edward laugh.

"Ms. Bedlam" he looked at Ava, "Please take a seat by Mr. Cullen". Luckily the teacher didn't hear her cursing under her breath.

She slowly walked to her seat wishing she was by Eva or Bella instead. 'At least Eva's close' she thought as she saw her sister sit a couple desks over next to Angela. Poor Bella got stuck with Mike.

Ava took in a deep breath and sat next to Edward, she noticed her desk seemed closer to his than when she first looked. 'Did he move it? No, that'd be ridiculous' she told herself.

Edward felt a little embarrassed since he actually had moved the desk. He just wanted to talk to her and he was determined to get some answers this time.

'Not to mention she smells so good, like rain and lavender.' he thought before feeling the urge to smack himself.

Ava was determined to ignore the vampire next to her and instead began to doodle in her notebook. She was so lost in her drawings that she almost jumped when Edward spoke.

"You're very good" he whispered close to her ear and his sweet smelling breath rolled over her.

"Thank you" she said before noticing Jessica and Lauren glaring and whispering, most likely about her.

'Bitches' she thought before putting on an overly sweet smile and flipping them the bird. Their jaws dropped and they spun away from her.

'That's what I thought' she congratulated herself in her head. She heard a soft chuckle.

"You shouldn't cuss" he said and Ava looked at him with a raised brow and a smile.

"I have no idea what you're talking about" she said sweetly making Edward sigh.

'So she's not going to make this easy'.

"I like your hair" he blurted and she actually looked surprised before gaining a suspicious gleam in her eyes.

"Really? I didn't peg this as your style" she said honestly.

Edward nodded, it was true after all. He usually wasn't a fan of what he considered rebellious or outrageous looks, but he could appreciate beauty. And despite his usual tastes, Ava was beautiful.

"Usually it's not, but it suits you" he told her and she gave him a genuine smile making it feel like his undead heart had skipped a beat.

"Thanks", and she went back to drawing.

"It's an interesting color" he continued, he had just gotten her talking and he didn't want her to stop now. Before he knew what he was doing he had reached out and taken a curl between his fingers.

It was soft and thick, if he didn't know any better one could mistake it for her real hair color. There was no breaks or anything that came with bleached and dyed hair. He wondered why.

"You know" Ava said, her voice tinged with amusement. "For someone who is rumored to not talk to anyone outside of his family, you sure are handsy with strangers" she teased.

Edward realized how he must look. Here he was, for the second time that day, laying his hands on a girl he hadn't even formally been introduced too. His eyes widened and he looked down. "I apologize, you must think I'm very rude".

Ava gave a small laugh shocking him and his eyes snapped back to her green ones. "No, just different. Though I'm the last person who could judge someone of being different."

He smiled and she returned it, though soon it dimmed a little.

"Um, just a quick question." She said and Edward tensed. Here it came, the questions and theories.

"What do you think of my cousin Bella?"

Well that was the last thing he had thought she would ask him. He became confused but guessed it was an understandable question seeing as he had glared at the girl earlier.

"I don't know her, though I am sorry for making her uncomfortable." He said honestly. His curiosity only grew when he picked up flashes of him and Isabella Swan as a couple. Yet, something was wrong. Isabella was sitting where Ava was and Ava was nowhere to be seen.

'More mysteries' he thought as the flashes stopped.

"You don't think she's pretty?" Ava asked. She didn't know what she wanted the answer to be though she tried to tell herself that she should want Bella and Edward to still get together.

"What do you mean get together" Edward asked, he couldn't contain himself. These girls seemed to know much more than what he had originally thought.

Ava's eyes became wide again and she cursed herself. "Nothing, I didn't say that. Never mind." She said before turning away from him and trying to keep her mind blank. That wasn't what she had really wanted to ask him. It wasn't part of the plan, but she couldn't help herself.

'No wonder Bella's so curious, must run in the family' she thought.

For the rest of class Ava successfully ignored Edward Cullen. No matter how many times he would try to get her attention she would simply give a quick answer, if that. He stopped when she started to think about naughty things to throw him off.

Though she was a bit surprised to see him covering his lower half with his backpack at the end of class.

'Things just keep getting weirder and weirder.' She thought as she joined Eva and Bella.

Eva was sitting in the bed of the beast waiting for school to be over. She had finished her math homework quickly but she'd wait to work on her English with Ava.

That was one of the things that the twins did differently. Math and Science came easily to Eva, while art and the written word was more of Ava's expertise.

Though both teens could draw, sew clothes, and sing. Eva didn't play an instrument like Ava did.

"Hello" a bell like voice said and Eva snapped out of her thoughts to look at the one and only Alice Cullen.

"Heya" Eva said with a friendly smile. Alice was just impossible to not be nice too, she was just too adorable. "What's up?"

"Not much" the pixie giggled. "Can I join you?" she asked as she hopped into the bed of the truck, not waiting for an answer. Though it wasn't like Eva was going to say no anyway.

"So I saw something interesting, and I think you know what I'm talking about" Alice said getting straight to the point.

"If you say so" Eva smirked with a shrug and Alice giggled.

"I do and you should know there's a reason my family never bets against me." She scooted closer as she got excited. "Now, I know we'll be best friends, even though you two have changed so much." She saw Eva's slightly guilty look. "Don't worry, even though some things look fuzzy I can tell that you don't have to feel guilty."

"Really?" Eva asked smiling again, geez this world was giving her emotions whiplash.

"Really and we have a lot to talk about, but Ava should be there to so we can make a game plan." She smiled at the other girl's surprised look. "Like I said we're going to be friends and I think you'll need someone you can tell the whole story to so we can see how to approach the others."

Eva nodded a bit, it made sense. It would be nice to have someone besides just the two of them that was in the know and could help them with the other vampires.

"What about Bella? Ava won't-".

"Don't worry, I think you'll be pleasantly surprised."

"Suuure".

"I knew you'd say that" Alice said and they laughed. "Now, about this plan you were thinking up that had to do with your sister and my brother, I want in".

It looked like the beginning of a beautiful friendship.

Ava finally found her music class and the teacher, Ms. Smith, smiled at her as she signed her slip.

"Welcome to advance orchestra dear. What instrument do you play?"

"Piano", Ava told her pleasantly.

"Oh really, how long have you been playing?" the teacher asked enthusiastically. She only had one other pianist and that was Edward Cullen. After the quite and polite boy had been seen playing none of the other students had tried out for it.

Not even the girls that the staff called the Edward Cullen fanclub.

"Since I was four" Ava said and she became a little worried at the teacher's smile.

"Great, we only have one other student on the piano this year so you can share with him."

'Him? Oh no, it's not who I think-'.

"Oh here he is now. Edward, Ava here is going to be playing the piano with you. I'll leave you two to get acquainted. I'm sure you can show her where we keep the music? Good" she said before waiving them off.

"So, Ava" Edward said as he was finally able to say her name out loud, testing it out. "You play the piano."

They sat next to each other on the piano bench. "As do you", she said. Edward handed her some sheet music and their fingers touched. For a split second neither moved as they let their fingers stay in place. Their eyes met again and for the second time that day they were lost in one another's gaze.

Gold against green.

The sound of people starting to warm up shocked them both back to reality. They turned with their hands resting on the keys, both pretended that they didn't notice that their legs were now touching.

"How long have you been playing?" Ava found herself asking and Edward gave her a lopsided grin.

'Far too good-looking for his own good' she thought unintentionally making his grin grow.

"Awhile, you?"

Ava's lips raised into its own little half smile. "Awhile", she smirked and he actually chuckled.

"Are you any good?" he teased her and was rewarded with a laugh.

"Guess we'll find out, won't we?"

Edward smiled as he took in her smile and happy eyes. He decided he liked how she looked when she smiled, but he liked it even more when he was the reason she did it in the first place.

Bella, Ava, and Eva were sitting down to dinner with Charlie. All three had a lot on their minds.

Ava, though reluctant to admit it, had had a lot of fun playing the piano with Edward. They hadn't talked much, but they didn't need to as they let their hands flow over the keys.

It had been oddly intimate yet lighthearted at the same time.

Eva and Alice had greeted Ava right outside of the class when the bell rang cutting off Edward's attempt to get her to talk about what had happened in Biology.

He had actually pouted.

Bella had been concerned when she had seen Edward with Ava since the only interaction she had had with the boy was of him glaring at her. She was glad to know that he had been nice to her cousin, even though she was a little jealous. Still, she was worried for Ava. She had never seen her cousin react like that to anyone, it made her curiosity sky rocket. 'What could he have done to make Ava actually run away?'

Ava had told her on the way home that Edward had wanted to apologize, apparently he just wasn't feeling well and had zoned out. Bella had just happened to stand in the wrong spot.

Bella wasn't sure if she bought that.

Something about Edward and his whole family was off. Edward was one of the most beautiful people she had ever seen, was it any wonder she wished he looked at her like he looked at Ava.

Though she couldn't hate Ava, she was just being herself. She had been envious over the twins ability to just be themselves but never over a guy before. Who knew Forks would have so much drama?

Eva sat down with a big smile on her face. Not only had she made a friend but Jacob had called when they got home, just to talk to her.

Now she just had to get Ava alone so they could meet up with Alice.

Ava felt like her head was going to explode. Edward Cullen wasn't as emo and self-loathing as she had thought, but who knew what he'd do tomorrow.

'Would he want to talk to Bella, or still want to talk to me? Would he try to say we shouldn't be friends? Were we even becoming friends? Would he even be there, or would he run off to Alaska like in the books?'

"So, how was your first day of school?" Charlie asked them.

The three girls looked at each other before speaking. They all said the same thing, "Fine".

*A/N: *Gah, that chapter took forever for me to write. So much drama in only one day. What did you think? Is Bella going to stay jealous? What things from the original story will happen faster or not at all? Why do the girls smell different and what does Alice and Eva have planned? What's going on with Edward and Ava? Next chapter has a mischevious Alice, hormones, and of course teen drama. Review, suggest, or ask if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

5. Chapter 5

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

*A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and review. You rock! *To Sillygabby: Don't worry I have someone in mind for Bella and it is one of the guys you named but I won't say which yet. To *Cutieswetee, FreeSpiritSeeker, and MEGUMithePEGGUIN, *thanks for the reviews. Warning: There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh, and some cussing. This might seem like a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A little Bella bashing and others bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. I'm sorry if Bella or anyone else seems a bit OOC but hopefully it will be explained in the story. Enjoy.

Chapter 5: You're kind of emo huh?

Ava was having a very pleasant dream when she was rudely shaken awake by two pairs of cold hands. Blinking her eyes open she groaned when she saw the smiling faces of Alice and Eva. She looked out the window and saw it was still night time.

"What do you want devil women?"

Alice giggled while Eva rolled her eyes. Alice picked up Ava before placing her in front of her vanity. "Your hair is so soft", she said as she began to brush it.

Ava didn't protest since she knew Alice loved pampering people.

"We use a none bleaching dye, it works for natural brunettes" the purple haired girl explained as she tried not to fall back asleep. Alice's slow brushes were hypnotic.

"That's good, I'm sure Edward will be happy about that. He likes soft hair" Alice said as she and Eva smirked.

"Yeah he said it was- wait a minute what?" Ava said as she jumped up and spun to glare at the other two girls.

"What?" Eva said with innocent eyes that fooled no one.

"What are you two trying to pull?" Ava asked as she crossed her arms.

"Nothing, nothing. Why don't you guys tell me how you got here and everything." Alice suggested trying to change the subject. She didn't want Ava to know her and Eva's plan, they didn't need to chance her fighting them.

Alice knew it would work, it was meant to be after all. She just didn't need Edward or Ava being overly stubborn.

Ava narrowed her eyes but shrugged anyway. She doubted she could get anything out of the vampire and Eva knew too many ways to distract her if pushed.

They spent about an hour telling Alice everything. The movies, all of the books, and even what they knew of her past. She was understandably emotional when they had talked about that.

Alice wasn't very happy with Eva being so buddy-buddy with Jacob. "I guess I might as well get used to it" she had said but refused to go into detail. "I don't want to say too much and then affect it".

The sun was just beginning to come up as they tried to make a plan.

"I think honesty is the best policy" Alice had told them. "We'll tell them about your world and the books, but lets not go into details." Her expression soured, "I guess we'll have to talk to the mutts too."

"Why?" the girls asked. Alice only smiled and spoke cryptically.

"They're definitely in our futures."

"Shouldn't we tell Edward about him and Bella?" Ava asked as she tried to ignore the ache in her heart at the thought of Edward and Bella together. 'Get it together woman, you've known him for a day!' she thought angrily to herself.

"NO!" Eva and Alice yelled. Alice jumped in the closet when they heard Charlie running up to the room.

"Ava are you alright?" he asked as he burst into the room. He took in the scene of Ava holding Eva in a headlock. She let go and they smiled at him.

"Oh sorry Uncle Charlie, we were just messing around" Ava promised him and Eva nodded.

Charlie sighed as he tried to get his heartbeat to calm down. When he had heard the yelling he had thought the worst. Being in a house full of teenage girls was going to kill him, he was sure of it.

"Alright, you girls are up early" he said.

"We wanted to make sure all our homework was done right" Eva said and Charlie smiled.

"Well, good. Um- see you girls at breakfast" he mumbled and left. That was the good thing about Charlie, he didn't hover.

"Ok explain you two" Ava said as Alice joined them again.

The girls sighed. "I can't tell you a lot, but trust me. It's better if you just let things happen, things have already changed. Just have fun and be yourself."

"Why does everyone keep saying that?" Ava wondered aloud. She knew they were planning something, but it didn't matter since she did trust them. Everything was telling her to trust the sweet little pixie, and Eva, well that was her twin. She knew that neither would do anything to hurt her, so she'd let them play and scheme.

For now.

Plus it was nice having someone that liked to do the same things as them. Despite both girls being some what popular in their world, the twins didn't have many friends. Their big personalities saw to that, but Alice and them just clicked. That had only happened with Daniela.

'It's nice having friends' all three girls unknowingly thought.

Alice was ecstatic to have friends finally. Her family was great but it was nice to have new people come in, plus she saw the girls as a part of her family some day. Though the visions were still fuzzy.

She had a theory as to why but didn't want to stress the girls, they'd know soon enough.

"Fine" Ava sighed and turned to her closet only to be blocked by a puppy eyed Alice. Her gaze flicked between both girls.

The twins locked eyes and sighed, they knew what Alice wanted. With faux crestfallen expressions they nodded to a bouncing Alice.

She began zooming between the girls' rooms picking out outfits for them to wear.

She settled on some dresses. She picked a deep red one for Ava. It was a hand made, off the shoulder peasant top style with a cinched waist. She placed a black belt on top. A flowy skirt ended just above the knees, her pale legs were covered in black tights and ended in red heals.

Eva was put in a matching blue ensemble. They looked like modern fair maidens, it was a romantic style that made Alice smile.

Each girl had a hair clip holding up one side of their hair on the opposite sides. Smokey eyes and clear gloss brought out the color of their eyes and natural pale red of their lips.

"Done" Alice said kissing her finger tips like an artist looking at her masterpieces.

"Nice choice" Ava said as she twirled and played with her skirt.

"Very, so when do we get to meet your family?" Eva asked as Alice put on some final touches.

"Oh, I already set up a family meeting with you two for after school. Did I forget to say that?" she asked with a sly grin and the girls laughed.

"Cheeky pixie" they teased.

"You know it" she winked before promising to see them at school and jumping out of the window.

"Hey Ava?" Eva asked distractedly as she smoothed down her skirt.

"Hmmm" Ava asked as she made sure she had all her school work.

"Do you think Rose is going to try to start shit?" she asked remembering how bitchy Rose was in the books, they knew why but still.

Ava smiled a bit, "We can only hope" she said. They may like Rose but that didn't mean that they couldn't show her what real attitude was.

"Hey Uncle Charlie?" Ava asked as they were finishing their breakfast. Bella smiled at her as Ava offered to wash the dishes since Bella had cooked.

"Yes?"

"Eva and I are going to a friends house after school, but before that we're going to visit Jacob. Want to come down to the reservation Bella?" she asked trying to distract them from the first thing she had said.

Bella nodded a bit confused. She wondered whose house were they going too.

Apparently Charlie had the same line of thought. "Who's this friend?"

"Oh, Alice Cullen. We met her yesterday and she invited us over" Ava said as she handed Eva a dish to dry.

"Oh is that one of Dr. Cullen's kids?" he asked sounding pleased. He was happy they were making friends with such good kids. He never got any calls about them or had to pull them over.

"You know them?" Bella asked. Eva had to look back and see if she was talking to Charlie or them. It was Charlie but the look she sent Eva said she'd be questioning them later.

"Yeah, Dr. Cullen is a great man. This town is lucky to have him, I'm glad you girls are making friends with his kids. People are too judgmental in this town." Charlie told them.

"They seemed nice" Bella said, it was obvious her father thought highly of the family.

She followed the girls to the car but stopped when Eva got into the drivers seat.

"Um, Eva? Darling sister, what are you doing?" Ava asked nervously as she shared a look with an equally nervous Bella. Eva was not known for her driving abilities.

"Oh come on, Bella always drives and I know you'll drive it at some point. I want my turn, now hurry up before we're late."

She pretended to not see Ava and Bella gulp as they scooted into the truck. She almost scoffed. 'Scaredy-cats. I'll show them.'

Now was her chance to prove just how good of a driver she really was.

Every eye turned to the big red truck that came barreling into the parking lot. Luckily, no one was close when it screeched to a stop.

Bella and Ava jumped out with wide eyes. Bella almost tripped while Ava tried to hug the ground.

"Land, beautiful solid land!" she cried out. Bella sat next to her looking kind of green and like she might hurl at any moment.

"Oh, it wasn't that bad" Eva groused as she got out of the truck. Her eyes went wide when she saw the large tree branch that was stuck to the hood. "Damn it".

They heard a loud laugh and looked over to see Emmett and the other Cullens laughing while watching them. Edward was laughing as well but he kept glancing at Ava worriedly.

"Hey!" Alice called as she skipped to the girls before her family could stop her. The rest of the student body was watching the scene unfold with dropped jaws.

'No lives' Ava thought and Edward laughed again.

"Alice" Eva whined, "Tell them to stop picking on me".

"No, stop, don't" she said flatly making Eva pout and Ava laugh as she stood up and dusted herself off. Bella just stared before blushing as Ava helped her up.

"Alice this is Bella-bean-" Bella cut them off when she smacked them each on a boob on accident, she had been aiming for their arms.

"Damn Bella" Ava said as she grabbed her chest. She missed Edward's eyes bugging out of his head as he saw what her hands were doing. He gulped loudly making Emmett and Jasper snigger. "I only have two of these, be careful."

"Yeah, this is one of the only perks of puberty. It took us forever to get these." Eva groused as she rubbed her own boob.

"You're gonna pop them and then we're gonna have to blow them up and tie them off at the nipples. Ugh, we're going to be lopsided." Ava complained.

Alice was trying to hold in her giggles as Eva and Ava stood closer to each other. "Well I guess we could just stand like this forever." Ava sighed.

"Yay we balance each other out!" Eva yelled.

Bella face palmed. "Why me, what did I ever do to the universe."

"Obviously something amazing, you get to spend everyday with us after all". The twins nodded to her.

"Oh, yes I am so lucky" Bella snarked. "What would I do without you two?"

"Probably be bored all the time and fall down a lot" they told her with big smiles and Alice couldn't hold in her laughter anymore. Even Bella joined before she saw the other three tense up.

Ava, Alice, and Eva all froze when they heard Jessica and Lauren. An angry Jasper and Edward had to be held back by Emmett when they heard what the humans were saying.

"Oh my God! Those weirdos are hanging out with Alice Cullen?" Jessica said, her voice was a mixture of awe, envy, scandal.

Lauren's scowl intensified. She had been the hottest thing before these bitches had showed up, well besides the Cullens but no one talked to them.

Now after one day they were friends with the Cullens, all the guys wanted them, and even the sexy unattainable Edward Cullen was spending time with one of them.

'What the hell!!' she thought with venom. If her outside reflected her insides she would have been foaming at the mouth.

"Well I guess freaks like to stick together" she said snidely before laughing. That was until she heard one of the twins yell out. The one with purple hair started shaking like she was about to have a seizure or something.

Lauren went to say something else when she noticed that they were glaring at her. However, unlike the glares that they sent her yesterday, these ones made her believe that they would actually come over and kick her ass.

In fact she thought that the shaking one might have done just that if Edward Cullen hadn't dragged her off.

Ava and Eva had tensed the moment they heard Lauren call them and Alice freaks. It was as if the girls had almost yelled it in their ears.

Eva wanted to go over and give the blonde bitch a piece of her mind when all of a sudden she heard a crunch. Looking down at her hands, which had been clenched, she saw what had made the noise. She had crushed her phone like it was nothing. 'Holy shit!'

Before she could completely freak out she noticed Ava shaking and they weren't little shakes either but intense body spasms.

Ava felt like she was about to explode, like her skin was too tight. She couldn't help herself, she was just so angry. Alice was so nice yet here were these jealous annoying skanks trying to act like they were better than her.

The fact that they also insulted Eva did nothing to help Ava's anger.

Suddenly her view was blocked by the tall form of Edward Cullen. "Come on" he said as he steered her toward the woods.

"Be careful" Eva called and Edward looked back to give her an understanding nod as he rubbed Ava's back hoping to calm her down.

The farther from the school they went, the more her tremors receded.

Eva said goodbye to Alice as Angela joined them. The tiny brunette went back over to her family. "What just happened?" Emmett asked confused and shocked.

It was understandable that the vampires had been mad at the humans but seeing Ava and Eva become angry had shocked them. Not because the girls defended Alice, but the fact that they were able to hear the insult in the first place.

Though Jasper didn't care at the moment, he was more concerned with calming his upset wife.

"How did they hear that?" Emmett asked when no one answered him. The twins shouldn't have heard Jessica and Lauren seeing as they were almost all the way across the parking lot and no where near them.

Alice sighed as she looked worriedly towards her friend and brother's retreating figures. She had seen what would have happened and knew there was no way around it. Both girls were in for a wild time.

Things had just gotten way more complicated.

Edward and Ava finally stopped walking when the school was lost behind all of the trees.

Edward, realizing they were alone, began to pace and mutter to himself. "Shouldn't have brought you here. It's too dangerous, what was I thinking?"

"Can you stop that, it's making me dizzy" Ava said as she sat on a rock. She felt off. She had to fan herself as she sat there and took off her jacket. 'Since when did it get so hot?' she wondered.

"It's not" Edward said looking at her with a critical eye. She smelled stronger today, more woodsy though not in a bad way. He watched as beads of sweat fell down her neck to her cleavage and he forced himself to look away.

He had seen Alice's vision and it had confused him. Ava, the delicate looking human sitting before him, had screamed in rage and the rest of the vision had gone black.

'What had happened?' He hadn't really paid attention to the half vision until now. He had seen Ava start to shake and his instincts had taken over. 'Help her, calm her. Get her to safety' his mind had told him.

"Thank you, by the way" Ava said quietly. She wasn't letting herself think about what had just happened. She didn't want Edward to pick up on her thoughts, not to mention she was scared about it herself.

Not that she'd ever admit that.

"Of course" he told her hesitating only a second before going over to sit next to her.

Gently he placed the back of his hand against her forehead and almost jumped in surprise over how hot she was. 'Dear Lord, she's burning up. Is she getting sick?'

Ava let out a small moan and her eyes snapped open locking with his, she hadn't even noticed that she had closed them. She hadn't meant to moan but his cold hand felt so good against her burning skin.

For the first time Ava felt embarrassed when she realized just how sexual the noise had been.

Edward wasn't doing much better seeing as his body had jolted at the pleasant sound. He realized how close they were as her minty breath washed over him.

'What's happening to me?' they thought.

"We shouldn't be friends" Edward blurted out before practically jumping away from her.

Ava blinked in surprise before chuckling, she had wondered if he would try to pull this stunt. Granted she had thought it would have been with Bella and much later. That reminded her

"Why aren't you in Alaska?" she asked before she could stop herself. Though Edward's puzzled expression made it a little worth it.

"What?"

"Never mind. So, we shouldn't be friends? Were we friends, I mean I only met you yesterday".

"But you're friends with Alice" he almost whined. He knew his sister had started a friendship with the twins, despite all of Rose and Jasper's concerns.

"So? Does that mean you want to be friends now?" Ava asked confused. One minute he was hot the next cold. 'Said he didn't want to be friends, now he's upset when I said we weren't' she thought.

"No, I mean we shouldn't. I'm dangerous" he said looking away. He realized he did sound a bit presumptuous in believing that just because they had talked a little that they were suddenly friends.

He found himself jealous of Alice being able to get so close to the girls so quickly.

"You're kind of emo huh?" Ava asked shaking Edward out of his thoughts.

'Did she just call me emo?' he thought as his mouth dropped open and Ava laughed. He had heard her and Eva say it before, but for her to say it to his face was something else entirely.

Edward scowled a little. "I'm not emo!" he crossed his arms, unintentionally making himself look like a brooding emo teen.

Ava laughed again but tried to smoothen it and held her hands up. "Whatever you say Sugar." She said making Edward duck his head at the term of endearment.

"Why were you shaking?" he asked and Ava shrugged and Edward pinched the bridge of his nose. "What about everything that happened yesterday?" he questioned though he instantly regretted it as she stopped laughing.

"You'll get your answers after school, remember? Come on, we should get to class" she stood and started walking away.

Edward silently cursed himself. Not only had he made her want to leave but now he was staring at her behind like one of those disgusting male teens that he had to go to school with.

"Wait" he called as he caught up with her. "I'm sorry. You're right, it was rude of me to push". A part of his brain argued that he shouldn't apologize but instead make her answer him. Another part told him to look down her top, much to his chagrin.

But that was all smothered when Ava smiled at him and he found himself not caring as long as she kept smiling.

"Don't worry, buddy." She teased him as she bumped their hips together. "I promise to answer your questions later."

"Oh" she added as they neared the school, "And I guess we can be friends". With that said she disappeared through the front doors.

"Jasper, Alice" the twins greeted as they sat in front of the couple in history. Jasper gave them a nod while Alice giggled and started to pass them notes.

'_Sit with us at lunch?' _she wrote them and Jasper smiled while shaking his head at his excited mate. He was happy that Alice had made friends though he was nervous about them being human.

'Or whatever they are' he thought as he remembered what had happened in the parking lot. For now he'd let Alice and, though his mind-reading brother would deny it, Edward be happy while he kept an eye on the twins.

They'd all have answers soon enough.

'_Are you sure?' _Eva wrote back before Ava snatched the paper and doodle a little characterchure of a cowboy Jasper and fairy Alice.

Alice squealed happily at it before saving it in her binder and even Jasper gave a chuckle and a nod of thanks. It was pretty good.

"Please, please, please sit with us?" whisper begged Alice and the girls tried not to look at her big pleading eyes. It was useless though, she was just too cute.

With a sigh and slumped shoulders the teens nodded before giggling with Alice making Jasper shake his head.

"Women" he muttered and the other three laughed harder.

"Now everyone I want you to pair up in groups of four and pick a battle in the Civil War to work on" Ms. Smith announced.

Automatically the twins turned fully to the couple behind them and smiled. Alice squealed again and people looked over.

"What?" Ava said loudly to one group making them jump and turn away.

Jasper laughed as Eva pretended to apologize for her sister. "I'm sorry, we don't let her out much. Bad girl Ava".

"Woof" was the flat reply.

Alice started laughing uncontrollably before she was able to calm herself. At all of their curious faces she shook her head, "You'll see" she said with a knowing smirk.

"Mean" Eva pouted.

"You're telling me" Jasper said quietly. It was the most the twins had heard him say but they guessed it was hard to talk when you were trying not to breathe.

They didn't know that they didn't smell like food yet.

Ava and Eva suddenly looked at each other excitedly and then looked at Alice, she looked confused before gaining a spaced out expression.

"Oh my God!" she said with wide eyes.

"So is it true?" Ava asked and Jasper's brow drew together as he tried to block out the giddy feeling coming off of all of them.

"I think so" Alice said still in shock. Jasper couldn't take it anymore. His wife had obviously had a vision, these girls knew what it was, and he was the only one out of the loop.

"Is what true?" he finally asked.

"Well, hypothetically speaking" Eva said trying to figure out the best way to word it. "Let's say that there was this empath right?" Jasper froze. "And he, or she, hung around people who were always thirsty."

"Subtle" Ava said looking at Eva who glared making her twin throw her hands up in surrender.

"Anyway, wouldn't this empath feel the other peoples thirst? Like it would add to his and make it worse." she finished off.

Jasper just sat there blinking, it was all he could really do at the moment. No one could blame him really, not with what he had just heard.

'It's so simple, could that really be it. I'm not the weakest?' he thought as a huge grin split his face. Alice put a hand on his shoulder to stop him from jumping up and making a scene, but also to show her support.

"Really?" he asked in a small voice looking at his loving mate who had venom pooled in her eyes. She nodded, it was something they'd have to work on but a breakthrough no less.

"I'm a genius" Eva bragged as she inspected her nails and Ava shook her head laughing.

"If you're a genius then we're doomed-Ow!" she said when Eva pinched her.

The rest of the classes until lunch seemed to drag on forever for the girls. Though, that could have been because they were excited to sit with Alice. Especially since Eva had told Ava what had happened to her phone.

They couldn't wait to tell the tiny psychic.

They had told Bella that they'd be sitting with Alice and asked if she wanted to join, but she declined, just like they knew she would. She had asked how they knew Alice and they told her that they had a class with her and that Eva had talked to her during free period.

Bella wanted to make sure that Ava was feeling better and was only placated when Ava promised to ask Dr. Cullen to make sure she was ok.

Bella asked if they wanted to cancel going to La Push but Eva's squeaked "No!" This had the other two laughing and sharing a smile.

Bella was grateful that they were trying to involve her but she felt as though she would have been too awkward around the beautiful strangers and end up embarrassing herself. She did promise to join them at some point in the future though.

"I'm starving" Ava said as she piled salads and cookies onto her lunch tray, sadly the school didn't have too many vegetarian options. "Are you ok?" she asked Eva who only picked up an apple and water.

"Yeah, just not hungry" she reassured her and it was true, though it was strange seeing as she had only had a bagel for breakfast.

"Eva, Ava!" Alice yelled and they smiled as they skipped to the table. Well, Eva skipped, Ava couldn't because of her mountain of food.

The twins found themselves seated between Alice and Edward. Jasper pulled out Alice and Eva's chairs while Edward pulled out Ava's and helped her put her tray down.

"Thanks" they said as they sat down. Rose glared at them while Emmett had an excited smile. He wanted them to say something funny, like earlier. He was so excited, he was almost bouncing as much as Alice.

Edward was going between smiling at Ava and glaring at Rose. Jasper simply rolled his eyes and Alice giggled. The twins thought it was fun to watch.

"Ava, Eva, this is Rosalie and Emmett" Edward introduced them and the twins waved, they didn't even falter under Rose's glare.

"What are you doing here?" she all but hissed at them. Her family sighed but before they could say anything the twins spoke.

They had on false looks of confusion. "We go to school hereâ€¦|duh" Ava said and Eva nodded.

"I mean at our table" the blonde said through clenched teeth though she was a little impressed that they weren't squirming.

"Eating" Eva said in the same 'are you stupid' tone her twin had used. "You know, the whole purpose of lunch time?"

"Well go away" Rose all but growled though her eyes widened for a split second when Edward growled back. Emmett put his arm around her chair but didn't say anything. He would protect his wife, but secretly he sided with the mind reader.

The twins shrugged and leaned back before looking the beauty dead in the eye. "Make us".

Rose looked like she was going to blow a fuse and their smirks grew. "Alice, Edward you better get these little bitches away from me before I hurt them" she said at vampire speed.

"Oh Rosalie, we didn't know you cared" Eva said as they put a hand on their hearts.

"You heard that?" Emmett asked and the girls nodded and Alice sent Rose a smug smirk.

"See, Rose. They belong here, with us." She said. Rose looked torn between shock and anger so the twins took pity on her.

"It's ok Rosalie, we aren't trying to cause problems. At least not for you guys, you'll see" they told her with friendly smiles. Finally Rose gave a curt nod and leaned back against Emmett.

"So um-" Edward stuttered as he tried to get Ava's attention off of her food and on to him. Now everyone, Rose included, shared an amused glance. They watched the usually calm and collected boy stumble over himself, all because of the pretty teen.

'What?' Ava tried to ask as she put a hand over her mouth and swallowed.

"You eat a lot huh?" he said and then closed his eyes. That sounded bad.

"You trying to say something?" Ava asked with narrow eyes though the twitch of her lip told the others that she was amused. Alice tried to muffle a giggle on Jasper's shoulder.

"No, I just meant there's a lot on your plate, too much for you to even eat since your so skinny but not bad skinny." He tried to dig himself out of the hole he thought he was in.

Ava smiled and held a forkful of lettuce up to his face. "You're right, here you can have some. Come on open wide".

Emmett and Jasper sniggered at Edward's slightly disgusted face. "Yeah Edward" said Rose, "Have some".

Edward glared at the tables occupants before rolling his eyes and eating the salad. He swallowed it with a small grimace.

"Wow, you actually ate it" Ava said surprised.

"Well yeah" Edward said looking at her with a raised brow. "You offered it to me".

She smiled, "But you could have said no".

"What!? I could have!?"

"Well obviously, I can't force you. Come on Edward, be real" she said and the others laughed.

"Wha- You! But I-" he said until he settled on just pouting. Ava flicked his lower lip.

"There you go, being all emo again".

"I'm not emo" he muttered but he found himself fighting not to smile.

"Oh my God" came the voice of Jessica Stanley and the twins sighed in annoyance. Eva pretended to shoot herself in the side of the head and Ava made it look like the imaginary bullet went through her twins head before exiting hers. Everyone laughed, especially when Edward pretended to wipe Ava's brain off of his shirt.

"Why are they sitting with the Cullens?" Jessica asked Bella who gave a small shrug.

"They're friends with some of them".

"Ditched you pretty quickly huh. Wonder why?" Lauren taunted her and Edward and Alice had to hold the twins down.

"I just want to talk to her" Eva said with big eyes, but none of the immortals were buying it.

"I don't. I'm gonna stab her" Ava promised and Emmett laughed.

"Probably not the best idea there grape head" Emmett said and they all looked at him with incredulous expressions. "What?" he asked.

"Grape head, that's the best you could do?" Jasper asked as if disappointed and Emmett shrugged.

"That or Barney".

"Better than grape head" Ava said and Emmett pouted.

"Either way he's right" Edward said and he rolled his eyes at their raised brows. "I mean about stabbing her being a bad idea."

"You're right." Ava sighed and Edward looked a bit smug at being able to so easily dissuade her. Eva shook her head, she knew her sister and Ava would not just give up like that. Ava's next statement proved that to be true.

"I'll burn her instead" and Edward had to stop her again.

Eva turned in her seat and yelled out to the other table. "Hey Angela. Hey Bella are you sure you don't want to sit over here?"

Bella blushed and used her hair as a shield from most of the room. She smiled at Eva and shook her head no. "No, I'm ok thanks."

"Ok" Eva said with a shrug before Ava turned and smiled at Angela.

"Hey Angie baby, I see you over there being all quiet and cute" she teased and Angela blushed before sticking her tongue out. She realized yesterday that the twins really liked play flirting with her.

"Wha-?" Edward asked shocked as he read both twins thoughts. They were thinking that Angela had a cute butt.

"Oh calm down" Eva said nonchalantly. "We're bisexual so you still have a chance with her" she said as she pushed her sister into him making him catch Ava.

"You are?" he asked and Ava locked eyes with him. She knew he was from a different time but wasn't sure about his opinions on things like this.

"Does this bother you?" she asked and he shook his head slowly. It didn't, it was just a surprise. These girls were so open, it was so different from other people their age. It was different from a lot of the adults too when he thought about it.

"Just don't go trying to take my Rosie" Emmett teased and the twins smirked.

"Don't worry we won't".

"Of course now she knows where to go if she wants to see what it's like to have a good time." They said and Emmett's laugh rang around the room making some people jump. Rose scoffed and looked away though the twins did see her lip twitch briefly so they were counting that as a win.

"I can't wait for you to come over today, too bad you have to go see the mutt" Alice pouted and Eva lightly smacked her arm.

"Be nice to Jacob" she said and Edward tensed.

"You shouldn't go to La Push, or go around Jacob Black. Those boys are dangerous." he said and Ava and Eva rolled their eyes.

"Well too bad we're going", they said.

"Ava please-" he tried to reason with her. He was trying to keep her safe, why did she have to argue with him?

"Edward, my friend" she said with a bit of steel in her voice. "Jacob is our friend too and we are going to visit him. I'll tell you now to avoid future fights. Don't tell me what to do. Don't assume that just because you're talented that you know everything. You don't. Now excuse me, I need to use the restroom before class".

She got up and walked out leaving Edward to groan in frustration.

What was this girl doing to him? He wanted to protect her, but why should he even care. Even as he mentally told himself that he didn't care, Edward found himself standing and following her to make sure she was ok and that she didn't stay mad at him.

This was what insanity felt like, he was sure of it.

A/N: Next chapter has the talk, Jacob Black and wolf douches, and more. Hope you like it so far. How's it flowing? Can you guess what's happening to the girls? I know the twins may be acting really weird but keep in mind that their bodies are changing, that's bound to take its toll on their emotions as well. And Edward, well he's not used to actually feeling like a seventeen year old boy so it's just drama for everyone. Dramaaaa! Review, ask or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

6. Chapter 6

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

soã€|ya. Anyway, enjoy.

Chapter 6: Normal is for boring people.

Biology proved to be a bit of a challenge, mainly because Mr. Banner had asked Bella and her partner to pass out some work sheets.

Edward had glared at the table as his eyes became harsh, her smell invaded his lungs. He didn't need Ava mad at him for glaring at her cousin again.

Ava, seeing his struggle, went on a limb and squeezed his hand under the table. Edward jumped a bit in surprise but turned his hand around and held hers when she went to pull back. He didn't know why but she helped him take his mind off of the burning in his throat.

He could still smell the intoxicating sent of the Isabella's blood but now he felt a bit more in control. He sent a thankful smile at Ava before ducking his head again when she winked.

Ava giggled when she saw his reaction to her playful wink. Boys were funny.

Finally they had to pull their hands up to do their school work, though they couldn't completely wipe the smiles off of their faces.

Eva giggled when she glanced back at them, but then she got a dark thought. What if while they were explaining things either one of them or Alice thought about things they didn't want known yet. Not only would that put a dent in her and Alice's plans, but Edward might think that Ava was in on it.

'Hey Edward?', she thought before turning slightly and meeting his curious gaze. Ava was looking back and forth between them wishing she could read minds. Then she saw Mike staring at her and was happy she couldn't.

Edward glared at Mike, since he could read his thoughts, before turning back to Eva. 'Just so you know, when we explain things you might hear something you don't like. I want you to know that Ava wasn't in on it'.

'In on what?' he mouthed but Eva simply shook her head and turned forward again.

"What, what did she say?" Ava asked bubbling over with curiosity.

"Um nothing?" he said like it was a question. Ava scowled before she gave him a mischevious smile. The next thing Edward knew, he was staring into Ava's pretty green eyes as she gave him big puppy-dog eyes.

He gave a scoffing chuckle. "That doesn't work on me" he said cockily but her gaze only intensified. The longer he looked the more he found himself unable to look away and his resistance began to crumble.

"She said that you aren't in on whatever her and Alice have planned" he said in a quick breath and Eva face palmed.

Ava's brows lowered in confusing. 'Well it can't be the plan about pulling the pranks, we came up with that together. Or the back up plan'.

Edward laughed and Ava remembered he could hear her. She gave him a big smile. "Huh, hee-hee. Just pretend you didn't hear that yeah?"

Edward grinned and raised a brow. "I won't tell the others but now I know to be on the look out".

"Dang it" she said before she perked up. "Will you help us then?"

"Well, I don't know-".

"Please Eddie".

Edward scowled, "I hate that nickname" he said and Ava laughed.

"I know, so if you help I'll never call you that again" out loud.

Edward sighed but nodded making both girls break out in little dances. There were some laughs around the room while Bella simply shook her head and smiled.

As she watched her cousin her eyes drifted over to Edward. She bit her lip as she took in everything about him. His tussled copper hair, his smooth pale skin, and his honey hued eyes. She was almost mesmerized by how handsome and chiseled his features were, once again reminding her of the statue of Adonis.

She felt a small pang in her chest when she saw him smile at Ava. She loved her cousin but some times wished she was in her place. Edward moved a piece of hair behind Ava's ear and laughed when she responded by poking his chest.

Bella, despite her attraction to him, couldn't help but smile at the look in his eyes as he watched Ava. It was like he couldn't get enough of her, if Bella didn't think it was too soon she would have even said it looked like love.

Her eyes went onto her other cousin and laughed when she saw Eric looking at Eva as if she was insane, which she often wondered herself.

She knew that they'd be seeing Jacob today and had noticed that the tan boy seemed to have already developed a crush on the pink teen. Though Eva denied it, Bella knew the attraction was mutual.

It seemed like both girls were already settling in and getting involved with someone. Bella couldn't help but wonder if she'd meet someone as well. Like the twins, she had never had a real boyfriend either but that was mainly due to her being awkward around the opposite sex.

It'd be nice to meet someone she could at least be comfortable around. She smiled as she went back to work, 'It's a nice thought anyway.'

School was finally over and Eva was almost squealing in excitement. She got to see Jacob, of course after that they had to go face the Cullens and basically tell them that they were all fictional characters, but right now she'd just concentrate on Jacob.

They had talked a few times over the phone and Eva had developed a small, barely even there, friendly crush on the boy. Really, it wasn't a big deal.

At least that was what she kept telling herself.

"Ok, so we'll see you guys at 6? Esme is so excited to be able to use the kitchen finally, she even went to a bunch of different stores to get all vegetarian options." Alice told them as they walked out of the school.

"She didn't have to do that" the twins said though Ava stopped halfway through to look at Edward. He had taken her backpack for her and was looking at the ground nervously.

"Here let me carry your books" he said still not looking at her. They both missed Alice and Eva sharing a smirk. "We're all excited to have you over" he said when he finally turned to her.

"Happy for your chance to intricate us?" Ava teased and Edward laughed nodding.

"Something like that".

"Ok, come on Jacob is waiting" Eva said impatiently as they met Bella by the truck. She blushed when she saw Edward, though not as bad as usual. Edward froze, though whether it was from the smell or him still being unhappy with them going to La Push was anyone's guess.

Ava and Eva giggled though they did steer Bella into the car faster.

"See you later" Ava said as Edward handed her backpack back. He smiled and nodded though he noticed she didn't have the bright grin he was used to.

Ava was worried that once he knew the truth that he wouldn't want to be around her anymore. Of course she should be happy because then he'd probably start spending time with Bella, but honestly it just bummed her out.

'God, I'm selfish' she thought and Edward took her hand.

"You're not" he tried to reassure her but she only gave a small almost sad smile.

"Remember we'll pick you up at the treaty line" Alice said before hugging them as they piled into the beast.

"Come on Edward" she said as the truck disappeared. "You'll see her in a few hours".

"Yeah" Emmett teased him. "What could go wrong in a couple of hours?"

"Jacob!" Eva yelled as they pulled up in front of his house. They saw him standing in front of the garage with two other boys.

"Eva" he said just as excited. He ran up and hugged her making Ava and Bella laugh at their blushing faces. "Um hey Ava, Bella" he said as he pulled back from Eva, though he did keep an arm around her.

"Oh no, don't stop the love fest on our account." Ava said and they were joined by the other two boys. "And who are these two lady killers?" she teased.

"Hi, I'm Embry Call" said the taller boy with a kind smile and a small blush. He laughed when Ava shook his hand vigorously.

'He's so sweet' Ava thought, kind of how one would think about a friends younger sibling.

"And I'm Quil Ateara" the other said trying to be smooth. He took Ava's hand and tried to place a kiss on it but she was too fast. She pulled her hand back and lightly slapped the top of his head.

"Naughty naughty" she said and the others laughed.

"This lovely lady is my cousin Bella" she continued and her and Eva were surprised when they saw Embry blush even more when Bella waved. "And this is my sister Eva."

"Oh we know all about her" Quil said sending Jacob a smirk. The twins each raised a brow.

"Really?" Eva asked and Jake blushed and scratched the back of her neck.

"Oh yeah" Embry joined in teasing his friend. "He's mentioned you only about hmmm, a million times."

"Is Eva going to call?"

"Should I call her?"

"Do you think she'd be my girlfriend" Quil laughed before Jacob punched his shoulder.

"Ok, you two can shut up now" Jake said with an embarrassed chuckle before turning to a smiling Eva.

"What a coincidence, our little Eva here-", Ava started.

"Not another word" Eva threatened her twin who tried to hold in her laughter. Ava made a motion of zipping her lips.

"Of course, of course. I won't mention how you giggle and scream whenever he calls. You have my word, not a peep from me".

Eva face palmed while Quil and Embry laughed. Bella shook her head sympathetically and patted Eva on the shoulder.

Jacob's smile was so big Ava wondered if it hurt.

"Really now" he teased Eva before she raised a brow with a smirk and he realized maybe he was in over his head.

Eva let her voice take on a deeper more flirtatious tone. "Yes really, Jakey. I can't help it if it think about you constantly. Wishing you were in my room so I could get close and..." she leaned in close to the now dazed boy while Ava and Bella were basically holding onto each other so they wouldn't laugh.

Quil and Embry's shocked faces were priceless.

"And what?" Jacob asked as his brown eyes darkened and his voice grew husky.

Eva gave a light breathy chuckle and stepped closer so their faces were almost touching. "So I could BRAID YOUR HAIR" she squealed the last part.

Jacob blinked and Quil and Embry fell down laughing.

"Wh-what?" he asked since his brain didn't seem to want to work. He laughed when what she said registered though he did have to hide a bit of disappointment.

Eva saw it though and giggled kissing his cheek. He perked right up.

Everyone began to pile into the garage. Quil 'accidentally' brushed his hand against Ava's ass and now she had him in a headlock as she calmly told him how to treat a lady.

Eva and Jake were laughing as they sat down. Jake shyly moved his arm around Eva so that it rested around her lower back. He was blushing so hard that Bella wondered if he could light up a dark room. It only intensified when Eva leaned into his side.

Embry let Bella take the last seat even though she tried to refuse. "Really it's ok" he smiled shyly at her and she thanked him before scooting over.

"There, now you can sit too" she said, proud of herself for finding a solution. Embry blushed a little and sat by her, now she was blushing as well since she noticed just how close they were sitting.

Bella found herself looking him over. 'He's really cute' she thought. 'And he has such nice eyes'.

Embry looked at her curiously making her head shoot down. He lightly patted her arm and she sent him a grateful smile.

Ave and Eva shared a glance. 'Geez, is everyone but us blushing?' Ava thought and Eva shrugged.

She lightly flicked her head toward Embry and Bella who were talking about music. 'What do you make of that?' she thought while wiggling her eyebrows.

Ava stifled a giggle, 'Very unexpected'. Honestly she wasn't sure how she felt, she thought that Bella and Edward were supposed to hook up but so far nothing had even hinted to that. Was she trying to force this part of the story to stay on track or was she being selfish and getting in the way?

It was all so confusing, she had never been in a situation like this before. Why was this the one thing she cared if she changed? Family loyalty? They didn't know how long they'd be in this world but everything pointed to forever, and since Bella was their family Ava thought it was guilt over knowing what Bella could have, had they not been there.

Or was she scared that if she let herself fall that Edward would reject her, hurt her? Did she even like him like that? 'That's a stupid question' her mind said. She knew she had a crush, but could it become something more? They barely knew each other.

What if he still chose Bella? There were just so many ways this could go. It was driving the usually easy going teen mad. Honestly, she didn't know how Alice did it. Some times being able to know the possible future really sucked balls.

'It's now or never' Jacob told himself as he looked at the pretty girl by his side.

"Um Eva?" Jacob asked as they finally got some alone time. The others were walking a good space behind them so that the couple up front could have a little privacy.

Of course Jacob didn't know that Ava could hear every word, but it was the thought that mattered.

Jacob steeled his nerves, they were walking them to meet their friends the Cullens. He had been a bit surprised at hearing that before he remembered who he was talking too.

"Yes Jake?" she asked, she was a little nervous. What if he asked her out? Would it be right of her to say yes when she knew he was supposed to imprint on another. Then again her and Allice were trying to set up Ava and Edward, this was kind of the same wasn't it?

"I was wondering, 'cause I really like you. And it's ok if you say no, though I hope-".

"Jake are you trying to ask me out?"

"Yes?" his voice went up a tad at the end and he coughed. "I mean yes, would you go out with me?"

Eva bit her lip, "Do it" she heard Ava whisper making her smile.

'What the hell? Oh God please don't turn into a jerk and break my heart' she thought desperately. "I'd love too" she said and Jacob turned to her shocked.

"Really?" he asked as he started to smile. She nodded before giving a shrieking laugh when he yelled and picked her up spinning her around in his arms.

"Yeah!" Ava shouted and Quil copied her making Embry shake his head to a smiling Bella.

Jacob shook his head and flipped them off, though he smiled the whole time. Tentatively, he took Eva's hand and gasped.

"Why didn't you tell me you were cold?" he asked her before bringing her hands in his to warm them up.

"What do you mean?"

"Your hands, they're freezing". He told her and Eva's face froze before she smiled.

"Oh I didn't notice.", she said but on the inside her mind was running over all the possibilities.

"Are you ok?" Jacob asked when she zoned out.

"Yeah, sorry. Something I have to figure out, but don't worry I'll let you know when I do" she smiled and that was good enough for him.

"Oh no" the twins moaned.

"You! You brought them onto our land?!" Sam demanded when he saw the group come into view. Jasper and Emmett were on either side of Edward, who looked like he was about to break the rules and cross the treaty line.

"Ava, there you are" he said worriedly. Ava smiled and took a step towards him when another shirtless guy blocked her path. He crossed his arms and smirked. Something told her that this was the wanna-be player and the easiest wolf to anger, other wise known as Paul.

"Excuse you" Ava said as she put her hands on her hips.

"Your kind isn't welcomed here!" Sam spat at Eva. Ava glared at him while Jacob stood in front of Eva.

"I invited her, you aren't the boss of us Sam" he said back. Sam tried to put his hand on Jacob's shoulder but the other boy pushed him off.

"She doesn't belong here Jake" he turned to a stone faced Eva and glared. "Leave now and don't ever come back, and stay away from the Blacks".

"Don't tell her what to do" Jacob said. He was getting angry, he had started to feel off the moment they had approached the others but now his skin was crawling. He began to shake as he distantly heard someone gasp.

"She'll hurt out people-".

"She would never and don't fucking talk about her as if she's not here!" Ava yelled and Sam turned to glare at her before his eyes widened. She was shaking worse than Jacob.

'Holy shit' he thought. 'She's going to phase! But how?' It didn't make since, especially since her sister was obviously some kind of vampire.

"What!?" Edward yelled. He couldn't believe it, though watching them now it did look like the mutt was on to something. He looked at Ava saddened that she was doomed to be a monster, kind of like him.

'But do I hate her?' he looked at her, imagining her as one of the shifters yet he couldn't bring himself to hate her, or even be put off by her. In fact he just wanted the in front of her guy to move so he could get Ava out of here.

"Ava come here" he tried to say soothingly.

"Fuck you leech, she's not going anywhere" Paul said before he yelled out. Ava lifted him up by his arms and tossed him into Sam knocking them both over.

"Don't talk to him like that asshole" She screamed as the shakes got worse.

"Ava please, come here!" Edward said more desperately. He didn't want her to phase here, he needed to get her some place safe so he could help her.

Jacob, though shocked at what he'd just seen, smirked at the older boys on the ground before he felt Eva move and he grabbed her hand. "Please don't leave because of them" he begged.

"I'm not, but we have to go" she trailed off at his saddened expression.

Jasper sighed again before speaking up, he didn't want to but he had promised Alice. "Jacob is welcomed to join us as well" he said to the shock of the others and joy of Eva and Jake.

"Thanks" Jacob said as he tried to calm down, he didn't know what was happening. All he knew was that he wasn't going to leave Eva.

Sam jumped up and growled at Jasper, about to shout something vile no doubt, when Eva hissed and kicked him in the back sending him smashing into Paul, who had just gotten up.

"Stay down you hairy douche bag" she muttered.

Ava, feeling herself lose control, did the only thing she could think of, the only thing that she thought might calm her down. She ran to Edward hugging him as her spasm got worse. He was shocked at first but over all pleased that she was finally safe in his arms. With a quick movement he swiped her up bridal style and began walking away, whispering calming words.

"Ummmm" Bella said and the others became very aware of the three other teens.

"Embry" Eva called making the boy's eyes snap to her. "I have to make sure Ava is alright and deal with some stuff can I trust you to get Bella home safely?" she asked and he blinked before shaking himself and nodding.

"But, what about-" Bella tried to protest. She wanted to make sure Ava was alright and know what the hell was going on. Plus, she didn't want Eva driving her truck again.

"Later Bella please" Eva begged her. Bella nodded, she'd get them to tell her later. Plus, those two big guys were getting up again and she didn't want anymore fighting.

Embry led Bella away before going back and to grab Quil dragging him along. He didn't know what was happening but he agreed with Eva, Bella needed to be somewhere safe.

Sam jumped up but it was too late, they were all technically on the Cullens land now.

"Jacob, come back here. We need to talk, they're liars" he tried to tell the boy but was ignored. 'It's that damn leeches fault' he thought as he stared at Eva. True she didn't look like a typical vampire but he could smell it on her, she was like a leech in training or something.

"Come on Paul" he muttered to the other boy. Paul scowled as he watched the group walk away. He wanted to fight the she wolf. Not only was she a female wolf making her the very first in their history, but she was hot and feisty, something Paul liked. Plus, he had to pay her back for throwing him.

'I'll be seeing you again' he thought as he finally followed Sam. He smirked when he thought of being able to spend time patrolling with her, not to mention if she happened to she accidentally forget her clothes every now and then. It seemed the vampire had a thing for her but Paul didn't see that as a problem.

What was competition was a blood sucker when compared to a wolf?

Edward didn't stop walking until he had Ava in the safety of his room. She wasn't shaking as bad now but that could have been because she had fallen into a restless sleep. She was squirming and sweating as he laid her on his couch.

He heard the others down stairs. Carlisle and Esme introduced themselves and offered Eva some food. She politely declined but said that Ava would be starving when she woke up.

Jasper told them what happened and all of their thoughts turned to the young lady in front of him.

He went to the restroom and wetted a washcloth before going back to Ava and placing it on her forehead. She sighed softly and her brow relaxed as she slipped into a more peaceful sleep.

There were so many thoughts running through his head. 'How can she be a shifter? How can her sister be turning into a vampire, she wasn't bitten and she didn't act like someone going through the change.' He raked a hand through his hair, a nervous habit he had kept from his human life.

He heard Eva said that she would explain everything and perked up. Finally, some answers.

Eva and Alice sat down with the rest of the Cullens minus Edward. They could hear him tending to Ava who, by the sound of it, was sleeping.

"Wellâ€|not sure how to say this" Eva said as she sent a pleading look towards Alice, she got a supportive smile back.

"Ok well here it goes, please keep all questions and commentary till the end of the ride thank you." She got a few chuckles. "Anywhoâ€|Ava and I are from a world where all of this, all of you are a best selling book and movie series."

Everyone just stared at her. "What type?" Emmett asked before Rose smacked the back of his head.

"That's the first thing you ask?" she hissed.

Alice and Eva shared an uncomfortable look. "A romance" Eva said softly while her mind, against her will, brought up images of Bella and Edward together.

"What!?" Edward yelled.

Eva looked at Alice. "Oh shit."

Edward couldn't believe his ears, he was a story book. He couldn't believe it. Was it true or were the girls just not all there? Though it would explain how they knew thingsâ€|

Suddenly his mind was assaulted with the apparent love story between him and Bella Swan.

"What!?" he yelled out.

"Edward?" Ava asked gently. He turned and went back to her side, he hadn't meant to wake her. Though as he looked at her a strange sense of betrayal set in.

"Did you know?" he asked quietly, her eyes tearing up before she looked away was enough of an answer.

"They said we shouldn't say anything, just let things take their course" Ava tried to keep her voice neutral. This hurt a lot more than she thought it would.

"So what, you were just going to let them manipulate me?!" he yelled and Ava jumped up. At seeing her hurt expression he wished he could take it back.

"Excuse me?" she asked him. "Manipulate you! I was the one saying we should tell you in the first place. How do you think I feel? I didn't even think I cared about this fucking story until I met you! Bella was supposed to sit by you, so much shit was supposed to happen that might not now and I feel so—" she couldn't even finish her sentence as her voice broke.

"Well you could have tried harder or did you just want to take her place? Like I'd want a dog!" he asked snidely before closing his eyes. It was like he couldn't stop. Eva's words in Biology flitted into his mind.

'She wasn't part of it', it made sense now.

She was trying to help them, make him see the truth. Yet here he was, screaming at the girl he couldn't get out of his head. True the Swan girl's blood sang to him and he was curious as to why he couldn't read her mind, but it was Ava that he felt himself drawn too. Though apparently he wasn't supposed to, was he?

"Yeah?" Ava asked still not looking at him. "Well you won't have to worry about this dog ever 'manipulating' you ever again." She spit out as she stomped towards the door.

"No, Ava wait—" he tried to say as he grabbed her arm. He didn't want her to leave.

"Fuck off Edward" she said as she twisted in his hold and shoved him off. He flew back and landed on the couch.

Ava ran out of the house, she knew Alice would keep Eva safe.

Right now she just needed to get away. She angrily wiped the tears that ran down her face as she ran. 'I knew this would happen, why did I even let myself get close? Friends fine, thinking of him as more? Stupid. God, I knew before I even came here that we would be too different but then he turned out to be so—"no! Just shut up!" she thought as she finally made it outside.

"Ava" Edward shouted as he tried to follow her. However, he found himself blocked by one very pissed off Eva Bedlam.

"The fuck was that you asshole" she all but growled.

"What he was just being honest." Rose sneered having finally gotten over most of her shock, "Just because your sister is a mutt-". Suddenly Eva lifted her up by her throat.

"Shut the fuck up, if I wanted your opinion I'd ask", she said before tossing Rose to a stunned Emmett. "God Edward, she was right about you!" she said.

She let her mind show him each and every time Ava had said they'd be a bad match. Then, because she was feeling vindictive, she showed him how happy Ava was around him, but how scared she was of falling so fast and of him pulling the same shit he did with Bella. She was scared of him breaking her heart.

Edward took in a shuddering breath. It was all too much, the twins' story, his feelings for Ava and now just how badly he just messed up.

With an anguished yell he ran out of the house, he had to get away from Forks for awhile. He needed to sort out everything.

Eva turned to Alice who was in the middle of a vision. "He's going to Alaska, he'll be back in a few days" Alice told them before sending a sad smile to her friend.

"I'll see you later Alice. Esme, Carlisle I'm sorry for throwing your daughter. If you have any more questions Alice can fill you in and she can call me if she needs more" Eva said tiredly. She looked towards Jacob.

"Jake!" she said and he looked at her with confused and lost eyes. He gave her a small smile and walked up taking her hand.

"I'll help you look for Ava" he promised her in a soft voice and she smiled gratefully.

'At least he stayed.', she thought. 'But for how long?' her mind taunted before she shut that thought out. She couldn't dwell on that, he was here with her now. That's what mattered.

They jumped into the beast and took off looking for any sign of her distraught twin. 'Please Ava' she thought desperately, 'Be safe'.

A/N: Ok I know some of you are gonna be like "What the hell I thought this was a funny story, why is shit getting sad?" But it wouldn't be a good story if there wasn't any conflict, though I promise it won't last. This is a happy ending kind of thing after all. Also Rose, Paul, and Sam won't be assholes forever, just a little while. I am trying to make this, though it has parody moments, a solid story if that makes sense. Anyway tell me what you think about the whole Edward thing. What about Bella and Embry? And of course what do you think of what I made the girls? Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

Chapter 7: Don't know how much I need you until you're gone.

Ava sat in her room watching the rain fall. Yesterday Edward and her had fought which resulted in her running out of the house and him leaving town. She thought back to what had happened when she had made it home.

She ran almost all the way home only to stop at the tree line. She sat as the rain pelted her and let out a scream. 'When did everything get so real?' she thought.

_It was only a few days ago that they found themselves in this unbelievable situation where they fully intended to have fun, when bam! Their plans were scattered, it was no longer fun, and she found herself getting attached to the one man she never thought she'd want.

_Edward Cullen had, despite her previous notions, made his way into her heart. She had never understood how Bella could completely lose herself when Edward left her, but she got it now. _

It had only been a week and she felt like her heart had been ripped out.

"_I'm an idiot" she mumbled._

"_No, you're not" she heard Eva say from behind her. She didn't bother to turn, she had heard them approaching. She was distantly pleased that Jacob had stayed with Eva. _

"_Ava?" Bella asked curiously as she walked out and saw them. She gasped when she fully took in the sight of her usually happy cousin completely drenched and miserable. "What happened?"_

"_Edward Fucking Cullen" was all Ava said before letting Jacob help her up and into the house. _

"_I don't understand" Bella said to Eva frustrated. Eva ran a hand through her hair and sighed. _

"_I know but it's not something we can tell you right now" she said. "No Bella" she cut off her protests, "It's not just our secret to tell. Some things are better left alone. I know I said I'd tell you later but please, for now, just let things settle down"._

_Bella scowled but nodded, she was dying to know what was happening though. It seemed like almost everyone was in the know but her. However, her concern for her family won in the end and she agreed. This didn't mean she wouldn't go looking for answers on her own though._

So here Ava sat, just looking out the window without really seeing. Eva had come in earlier to tell her that her and Jacob were going to the Cullens to talk more. They were putting it off for a little, but knew they'd have to tell Sam and the Elders the truth soon as well.

She nodded but didn't say anything. She had cracked a smile when Jacob had promised her that he'd look out for Eva.

"Jacob" she had called when he had went to leave. "I know this is a lot to take in but do me a favor?"

"Sure, what?"

"Even if Sam commands you once you change, don't hurt Eva. That means her feelings too."

Jacob had nodded and stood taller. "I'll never hurt her".

"Even though she's turning into a vampire?"

"Never" he swore.

"Good", and that was the last thing she had said for the rest of the day. Luckily it was the weekend so she didn't have to put up with anyone. With the mood she was in she'd probably get expelled for stabbing

Eva and Jacob walked to the Cullens front door, which opened before they could even knock.

"Welcome back" Esme greeted them pleasantly. Eva smiled nervously since the last time she had seen the mama vamp she had been threatening one of her kids and yelling at the other.

Not a great first impression.

"Don't worry dear" Esme said as she saw Eva's expression. "Alice explained everything to us. I am sorry about Rose's behavior she is just very protective of the family."

"Totally understandable" Eva smiled as Esme led them to the front room.

"Are you two hungry" she asked them and Eva shook her head no while Jacob scratched the back of his neck.

"Well, I mean if it wouldn't be to much trouble" he said embarrassedly. Esme's grin grew and her eyes lit up.

"None at all dear!" she said before rushing off to the kitchen.

They heard a chuckle coming from the stairs as Carlisle greeted them. "Hello again. You'll have to forgive my wife, she's been looking for an excuse to try out the new kitchen for awhile now."

The teens laughed though Jacob had to take Eva's hand so he wouldn't fidget too much. The smell of vampire was making him a bit uneasy.

Eva had made him promise not to judge the Cullens and seeing as his girlfriend, he grinned a bit, was turning into a vampire he couldn't just hate them because of that.

Jacob had thought that someone had bitten Eva and had wanted to track them down. Before he could though, Eva sat him down and told him everything.

She was worried that he would leave once he had found out everything, but here he was. He had meant it when he said he wouldn't leave her.

He hadn't known her for long, well besides the memories he had of them as kids, but he knew he couldn't just walk away. He didn't care how the story was supposed to go, Eva was it for him. He just knew it.

"Thank you for coming back. I know the last time endedâ€|on an unhappy note" Carlisle told them. In all honesty, he was ecstatic to have Eva back over. Not only did she and her sister have detailed knowledge of the future, but somehow they were also turning into different creatures.

He did hope he got the chance to examine the other sister as well. He had high hopes seeing as she was friends with Alice. Though he did wish that Edward would come back and mend things with the poor girl.

His first child had been happier in the last few days than Carlisle had seen him in a very long time.

"Now Eva, before Jasper steals you away to talk about these nomads, I'd like to examine you if you don't mind".

Eva nodded and sat on the couch next to Jake as the doctor began to shine a light in her eyes. She had figured something like this would happen, it wasn't every day that Dr. Cullen got a chance to examine someone who was slowly turning into a vampire.

"So um is Jasper eager to take out the nomads" Jacob said trying to make conversation.

"More than you know" came a slightly accented reply from behind them. Jasper surprised them by giving Eva a one armed hug and shaking Jacob's hand.

Alice rushed up once Jasper moved and gave Eva a huge hug. She scrunched her nose up a bit at the smell of Jacob but tried to smile and shake his hand anyway.

Jacob looked like he was having the same problem though he returned the handshake.

"Yay friendship" Eva clapped. Carlisle's laugh was drowned out by the booming noise of Emmett. Someone else that Eva was nervous about seeing since it was his wife she had man handled.

"Don't worry" Jasper reassured her. Emmett got closer and smiled while holding his arms out.

"Pinky! Where's Barney?" he asked and Jacob burst out laughing. Emmett's smile turned smug while Eva looked at Carlisle.

"Have you examined Emmett's head yet or just given up hope?" she asked ignoring the other man's protests.

"Given up" said Rosalie as she walked in with crossed arms. Her and Eva had a small stare down for a moment, each had multiple emotions pooling in their gazes but above all their was a mutual respect.

Finally Rose nodded and took a seat across from them. "I hope your sister is ok", she said genuinely.

"She'll get there" Eva said.

Every eye was going back and forth between the two women. "What" Rose demanded making Eva laugh. Rose raised her brow in question and Eva's smile got wider.

"I think you and my sister are gonna get along great" she said and Alice nodded while giggling.

Rose scoffed but she had a half smile on her face. "So you're turning into a vampire while the other one is turning into a wolf?" she asked and shook her head when Eva nodded.

"Sucks to be you".

Edward sat in the guest room at the Denali home, it was the only place in the house he could go to get away from Tanya and her thoughts.

One day, it had barely been a day and already he was regretting everything that had happened. He knew Esme was upset that he left, he knew his family was worried about him, but the thing that tore at his heart the most was knowing that he had hurt Ava.

He hadn't meant to say all of those hurtful things but he had been so overwhelmed. He took it out on the one person who didn't deserve it.

The one person who didn't just try to get on his good side for her own purposes. She didn't care what other people thought about her, she was happy being different. Even though she was turning into what was supposed to be his enemy, all he wanted was to be close to her. The one person who made him feel things he had never felt

And he hurt her.

"Knock knock" Kate said as she stepped into the room. She had noticed something was different about the bronze-haired male. He seemed distracted and didn't even acknowledge Tanya's flirts.

Of course this had upset her sister but Kate had a good idea about what was happening. He had met a girl.

"Who is she?" she asked kindly as she sat down in the chair across from him. Edward's eyes widened as he looked at the blonde.

"I don'tâ€|" he stopped when Kate sent him a knowing look.

He sighed, he wasn't used to talking about relationships, mainly because he had never had one to talk about. It was nerve-wracking to be in such uncharted waters. He was used to being able to use his gift and figure out what to do from there, but that technique wouldn't work this time.

It hadn't worked since the Bedlam sisters showed up.

"Her names Ava, she'sâ€|she's a shape shifter". Kate looked surprised at this but didn't interrupt, something he was grateful for.

"She's the most open, funny, frustrating, beautiful and amazing person I have ever met" he said barely above a whisper. He gave a small laugh, "She calls me emo to my face. Doesn't care if I think I know what's best and doesn't just rely on my gift. If she thinks I'm wrong, she'll tell me. "

Kate smiled as his face lit up talking about the girl.

"I told her we shouldn't be friends and instead of trying to get me to change my mind, her response was basically 'Who said we were friends?' Next thing I knew I was trying to get her to want to be friends."

"And more?" Kate said and she held in a giggle when Edward shot her an embarrassed look.

"Maybeâ€|yes. But then her and her sister told us some odd news, and that was after we found out she was turning into a wolf and her sister into a vampire. Iâ€|I was so confused. I've never felt like this and I became angry and said many hurtful things.", he finished sadly.

Kate frowned, she felt bad for the boy in front of her, because that was what he was.

No matter how many years passed, emotionally Edward was still a seventeen year old boy. He never got to experience the milestones of becoming an adult and now when faced with them, he didn't know what to do.

Edward huffed at being called a boy, as if he wasn't an immortal but a mere child. He didn't argue, a part of him knew that on some level it was true.

"Well, I can't tell you what to do" Kate told him as she stood and patted his shoulder before walking towards the door. "Everyone makes mistakes Edward. You're welcomed to stay here as long as you like to sort it all out, but if this girl is as amazing and unique as you said then I doubt she'll just wait around forever. Even if she feels the same for you, a girl can only wait so long."

Edward let his head fall into his hands with a frustrated groan. As if life as a teenage vampire wasn't complicated enough.

A whole week went by and Ava groaned when her alarm clock went off. She was not looking forward to school. Granted she usually acted like nothing was wrong when in public but still, it was draining. At least her and Eva still sat with the Cullens.

They had gotten closer and she even found out she had a lot in common with Rosalie, which was a major shocker. Even so, she would still catch herself looking at Edward's empty seat.

She thought back to what Rose had told her the day before.

"_If my brother is too stupid to come back and apologize then he doesn't deserve you."_

"_Thanks Rose"._

"_Yeah well you're okâ€¦for a mutt" the blonde had said though there was no malice in her words._

'She's right. Now will you snap out of it' Ava told herself. She hated feeling like this but it was as if her very being wouldn't listen. She sighed as she rubbed the spot her heart was at, trying to soothe the annoying ache. She had never moped over a guy before. She moped whenever Eva got the last cookie, but a guy? Never.

That could be because she had never felt any real romantic interest besides a few passing crushes, but she never even pursued those. With this being her first real romantic encounter, she was overwhelmed.

"Ugh" she groaned as she rolled onto the floor. She dragged herself up and looked in the mirror, her hair was a curly mess and she had dark circles under her eyes. "Fake it till you make it" she muttered.

"Ava?" Bella asked as she walked into the room, her mouth dropped open at the sight of her cousin. "Ava" she sighed.

"What" she said a bit testily as she tried to brush her hair. "Fuck it" she said before reaching for some scissors though Bella stopped her before she could actually cut any hair.

"Will you snap out of it!" Bella suddenly yelled surprising both of them.

"Uhhh".

"I mean I get it, you thought he liked you and then suddenly he ditched you". Bella started pacing, apparently on a roll. She didn't know what had happened exactly, she just knew that Edward Cullen had hurt her cousin and then skipped town.

"This isn't you. You smile and jump around creating things, not let some guy consume you! You are a strong independent woman, you don't need him." She finished breathing heavily. She was blushing like there was no tomorrow but stood her ground.

She couldn't let Ava do this to herself, it wasn't healthy.

"Holy shit" Eva said from the door way were she had been standing unnoticed. Was it just her imagination or had Bella Swan just said that Ava couldn't let Edward make her lose herself?

It was official, they were in the twilight zone.

Ava couldn't help it, she laughed. Just knowing that the girl who had practically become a zombie because the boy in question had left her, was now telling Ava to not let him get to her was hilarious.

She laughed so much her sides hurt. This was what she needed, she had already cried, now she needed to laugh.

"Thank you Bella-bean" she said and Bella smiled happy that Ava seemed to be back to normal, at least a little bit.

Eva smiled and slung her arm around Bella's shoulder. "Come on Bells, I'll cook today. Let's let Giggles over here get dressed."

Ava was still chuckling as she put some clothes on. She had seen Eva in a some cute jeans and Super Man tee and went to do the same. However, she found the jeans too hot so instead settled on shorts.

Of course in cold ass Folks she'd get some weird looks, but when didn't she. So slipping on the shorts, she put on a Bat Man tee and tied a purple flannel shirt around her waist. She slipped on some socks and her convers. Finishing brushing her hair she put on a baseball cap backwards, the text said 'Woof'.

She kept her makeup simple with some liner and mascara, a brush of her brows and a sheer gloss.

"Come on slow pokes" she yelled as she jumped down the stairs grapping her plate and running outside.

"Was she in shorts?" Charlie asked and Eva shrugged trying to think of a good excuse.

"The cold doesn't bother her Dad" Bella said and Eva mentally wiped her brow in relief.

"Hmmm" he grunted but let them go. They walked slowly to the beast, Ava was already in the driver seat looking far off until she saw them and smiled.

"She's not over it is she?" Bella asked and Eva was happy that Bella didn't see Ava squeeze the steering wheel tighter having heard her.

"Probably not" she said honestly before sending her sister an apologetic look. "But we'll be here for her".

Bella nodded and they got in. Ava looked out at the road as she drove. Bella was right, she wasn't over it. She knew she'd probably be giving herself, and poor Jasper, emotional whiplash for awhile.

To top it all off she had a math test today. 'Fucking hate Mondays' she thought.

They pulled into the parking lot and got out. "Oh no" Eva whispered as she looked over at the Cullens. There, standing and watching them intently, was Edward Cullen. Ava and him locked eyes and she saw Jasper flinch from the corner of her vision. She couldn't even imagine all of the emotions they were forcing on the poor guy.

Edward looked like he wanted to come over but Ava simply waved to the others and then turned around to see Bella looking at their tires.

"Looks like Eddie's back" Eva said trying to make a joke though her voice was a little stressed.

"Good for him" Ava muttered. Eva saw the others wave while Edward's face fell. If he hadn't hurt her sister she would have felt bad for him maybe.

Rose was glaring at Edward obviously thinking not so nice thoughts, though the idea of Rose thinking of sparkles and rainbows did make Eva laugh.

"He got us snow tires" she heard Bella say and turned to look at the squatting brunette before she caught sight of Ava's face. She looked terrified.

"Wha-?".

"Shit, I forgot!" Ava cut her off. Eva still didn't get it until they heard a screeching sound coming right for them. Eva turned and now her face matched her sister's.

Tyler's van.

'This is still happening?' she found herself wondering as the van came barreling towards them. The next thing she knew, her world was turned on its side and a sharp pain overtook her shoulder.

"Ava!" Edward and Bella screamed and that shocked Eva out of her stupor. Ava had pushed her and Bella out of the way but the van was too close for her to move herself.

"Oh God!" she

She was a goner, Ava was sure of it. She had frozen when she saw what Bella was doing and only the sound of screeching tires had set her into motion.

Before she even knew what she was doing she had picked up and tossed Bella out of harms way with Eva only a second behind. However, when she went to move herself she saw just how close the van was and her muscles tensed against her will. She realized that she'd never make it.

'I'm going to die' was repeated over and over again in her head. She briefly wondered if the wolf genes would save her but doubted it. It was kind of hard to come back from being squashed.

She heard Bella and Edward yell her name, yet she couldn't take her eyes off of the van to look.

Suddenly she was on the ground, safe, and in the arms of one Edward Cullen.

She locked eyes with him and, almost like on autopilot, reached out and popped back the hand print like dent he had made.

"Ava" he breathed looking at her. Still in shock, her mind was only able to process that even when he looked totally scared shitless, he was beautiful.

He gave a relived sigh and kissed her forehead. They heard other people shouting their names and the distant sound of sirens.

Ava shook herself and looked up at Edward. "Why did you do save me?" she whispered and he looked surprised. He went to answer when the paramedics reached them.

Edward helped her stand and besides a curious look, she let him.

"Are you ok Ava?" Charlie asked panicked when he ran up to them. "Ava?" Charlie asked and she blinked.

"Oh, um I'm fine. Edward saved me" she said and Charlie shook Edward's hand sending him a grateful look. "You should check Bella and Eva though, I pushed them kind of hard".

His eyes grew wide at hearing the other girls' names and he rushed off to find them.

"Are you alright?" Edward asked her softly as he went to put a hand on her cheek. Ava nodded but moved her face away from him.

"Yes, thank you" she said getting a hold of herself. Edward frowned when she pulled away from him.

"Ava!" Eva shouted as she almost tackled her sister, she would have too had Edward not caught them. "Oh God Ava" Eva began to sob and Ava tried to calm her.

"It's ok, I'm here. I'm safe" she said and Eva pulled back to thank Edward.

"Thank you so much!" She turned back to Ava with a glare, "And you! If you EVER do that again I'll kill you myself" she yelled as she smacked Ava's chest and arms a few times before hugging her again.

Charlie made the distraught girl go with the paramedics. Bella had to go too and was glaring at the air when they put a neck brace on her.

Ava gave a small chuckle at seeing the brunette and Edward smiled. "She won't be happy with you?" he asked and Ava stopped laughing.

"No" was all she said.

Edward sighed, "Can we talk in private please?"

"Why?"

"What?"

"Why? Why do you want to talk and why did you save me?" she asked and he was saddened to see her suspicious glare.

"Because I- youâ€¦" he tried to explain. Why would she asked such a thing? Of course he would save her.

"What?" Ava asked with a mocking tone. "Did you want a pet or something. Why else would you save the, what was it you called me again? Oh right, dog." She said becoming angry. Laughing wasn't the only thing she needed, she needed to yell too.

Edward's eyes closed in pain, he knew he had hurt her. But he came back, couldn't she see that he was sorry?

When he didn't answer Ava scoffed and spun on her heel to walk away but Edward grabbed her arm. She was going to push him off when he grabbed the other arm and looked her hard in the eyes making her stop.

"Ava" he said in a strong voice and her eyes snapped to his in surprise. "I know I made a mistake but please, let me explain. We'll go somewhere private and talk and you can yell at me all you want, please".

Ava looked at him at a loss at what to do. She could see Alice nodding to her from behind him but was that what she wanted?

'Yes' said her brain to which she replied. 'Shut up, no one asked you'.

Just when she was going to open her mouth to decline Edward spoke again. "To answer your question, I came back for you".

This made her pause and look at him curiously.

"I didn't know how much I needed you until you weren't there".

Ava sighed, she wanted to scream and walk away but damn it if that didn't get to her. Finally giving a nod in reply, Edward smiled and led her to his Volvo.

Finally, he could explain himself and work on getting them back to whatever it was they had before he left.

Getting her in the Volvo was only a small part of the battle. Getting her to actually listen and forgive him was going to be a whole other matter.

He slid into the drivers seat and looked at her beautiful and almost bare face. Whatever he had to do to get her to forgive him and smile again, he knew it would be worth it.

*A/N: *So what do you think? The next chapter is going to have more drama, some much needed insane humor, maybe a lime or two, and more hairy assholes. The wolf pack, not the body part. I didn't want Ava just to forgive him right away because that's just not very realistic, especially with how their romance was only budding and what he had said. I'll tell you know though that Eva and Jacob will have much smoother sailing. Oh and I know I made Rose seem to cave pretty easily but I'll explain and go into that later. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

8. Chapter 8

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

*A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and reviewed. You rock! WARNING: There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh, and some cussing. This might seem like a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A bit of everyone bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. I'm sorry if anyone else seems a bit OOC but hopefully it will be explained in the story. Sorry this took longer than usual. I had some personal things happen, and it made me struggle a bit creativity wise. I always thought it was weird how fast Edward and Bella fell for each other but then I was like fuck it, the same will happen here. True love and all that jazz, plus I was tired of all the drama. I have plenty future stories planned that will be more serious, this isn't one of them. Enjoy.

Chapter 8: The more things change, the more they stay the same.

"Would you like to check on your sister and cousin first?" Edward asked politely as they started to drive. He was a bit nervous now that he actually had her in the car. He wasn't sure how to go about explaining his actions.

"No, thank you. I should call Jacob and let him know that Eva is in the hospitalâ€|never mind. If I do it before her she'd kill me" Ava said with a fond smile.

"Would it be alright with you if I took you some place special then?"

"Is it the meadow?" she asked and Edward looked startled before he gave his heart stopping lopsided grin. He shook his head a bit and looked at her.

"Guess that was in the series huh?" he asked and Ava nodded not looking at him until she saw that his eyes were fixed on her.

"Can you watch the rode please, some of us aren't quite at super hero status yet" she told him and he laughed.

"Super Hero status?"

"Yeah, you know. Super fast, strong and pretty much invincible." She said before reaching out and lightly pushing on his jaw so he would face the road.

Edward smiled before an upsetting thought settled in. "Those are all hero's. What if I'm the bad guy?" he asked and was shocked and a little offended when Ava groaned and rolled her eyes.

"Seriously Edward? Look dude" she said and Edward raised a brow at the name. "You aren't evil. A bit of a pretentious dick? Yes. Evil? No."

"A dick!" Edward said before slamming his mouth shut at his own language.

"My point is that you didn't even like hurting bad people who deserved it, so you are definitely not evil" she finished and his eyes grew wide. How much did she know?

"How-".

"You are a very popular series and the guy who played you is hot and funny." She said nonchalantly.

"Really?" Edward asked lightly though he felt a pang of jealousy run through him at the idea of Ava looking at thisâ€|imposter. "And do I live up to expectations?"

"Are you kidding me?" Ava asked looking at him like he had lost his mind. "You're the most gorgeous person I have ever seen in my life". She said and Edward smirked smugly. "Personality wiseâ€|" she went on making a tipped scale hand motion.

Edward almost felt bad before he saw her teasing smile.

"Well I apologize. From now I'll tell myself not to wallow in the fact that I am a creature that has to drink the life force of others and be moreâ€|cheerful".

"Areâ€|are you being sarcastic?" Ava asked amazed.

"Who me?" Edward asked flatly and Ava burst out laughing before smacking a hand over her mouth.

"Don't make me laugh, I'm mad at you" was her muffled come back. Edward laughed and boldly reached over taking her other hand in his.

"I know you're mad, but I also know you'll forgive me and even do me the honor of letting me court you". He told her confidently.

'Who knew that kind of wording was a turn on?' Ava thought before smacking Edward's shoulder when he laughed again. "Oh and what makes you so sure?" she asked, she couldn't believe the gall of this guy.

"Because you are sweet and open minded and once I explain myself I know you will understand. Plus I am more then prepared to spend every day wooing you".

Ava harrumphed though she did let him keep a hold of her hand. "We'll see" she muttered.

They made it to the meadow and Ava had to admit it was impressive. Even with almost everything covered in ice, it was like a crystalized wonderland.

"I'm glad you like it" Edward said softly as he led them to some rocks they could sit on. Ava was looking around and noticed that even the sky looked different around them. The sun was shining between some clouds and Ava had a stray thought.

'I wonder if he'll let me see him sparkle. I hope he doesn't do the whole 'are you afraid of me' bullshit'.

"You should be afraid of me" Edward said and Ava rubbed her eyes. Of course he was listening in. "I've killed people. You know what I can do but you haven't said it out loud once. Tell me, what do I eat?"

"Edward, I already know that you drink animal blood. I know what you are, please can we not do this?"

"Say it." Edward persisted, he needed to hear her say it.

"You are pale white and suck up blood." Ava sighed trying to keep her face straight and mind blank.

"Say it, out loud".

"Tampon".

"What!?" he gasped not believing his ears. Did she just say a tampon, as in the feminine product? "Must you always make a joke?" he pinched the bridge of his nose.

"I'm sorry, I couldn't help myself." She told him honestly. "But Edward I know you're a vampire. It's fine I-".

"No, you think that because you know some story that you understand but you don't" he yelled trying to get her to understand. He needed her to know that being around him was dangerous, no matter how much he wanted her by him.

"You know that I've killed before but you act like it's nothing. I took peoples lives Ava."

Ava stopped Edward from pacing and took his hands in hers. She could see how much this was plaguing him.

'Edward, I'm sorry" told him with genuine remorse. "I guess watching you and everything I felt that since I knew what was happening that that meant I knew everything about you, like how you felt about having to do those things. It was all just a story but nowâ€¦I can't even imagine how you must feel. I know I joke but it's just how I am" she looked down feeling ashamed.

Here she was mad at Edward for being a douche when she had been one as well. She didn't deserve him or even his friendship.

"You're not a do-douche" Edward told her softly as he lifted her face up. If he was able to blush he would have, he wasn't used to using such language. 'We both have so much to learn about one another.' he thought as he softly stroked her cheek.

Ava laughed a little but her voice broke, "Yes I am. I'm a selfish douche who didn't care about you or Bella and now I've ruined everything. You were right to call me-".

"NO!" Edward yelled before he calmed down. "I made a huge mistake. I wanted to come back the moment I left."

"Then why didn't you?" Ava asked.

"I'm not used to feeling like this. You make me feel so normal and vulnerable but at the same time so different and strong". As he was speaking they found their bodies and faces coming slowly together.

"It was supposed to be Bella" Ava whispered.

"But it's not. It's you, please believe me. I know that it will be hard being with someone like me-".

"Edward, I'm turning into a giant ass dog. I think that evens shit out." She told him. He smiled chuckling lightly and leaned in closer. "Butâ€¦".

"But what?" he whispered, she was so close. He felt like he was on fire, but he never wanted it to stop.

"How do I know you won't leave again? How can I trust you to stay when things get tough? I mean you left Bella in the book for months, and I don't think I can handle that Edward. Just a week and I felt like I was losing myself. Months? I would die" she told him.

She knew she sounded dramatic but it needed to be said. If they were going to completely change everything by letting themselves fall for one another and be together, then he had to know how she was feeling.

"I won't leave you ever again" he promised though he could see the doubt written plainly in her eyes. "If I even try then you, Eva, and Rose have permission to hunt me down and teach me a lesson" he told her seriously.

Their lips were almost touching now and their eyes drooped of the sensations coursing through them, teasing them. His masculine yet sweet smell mixing with her feminine and slightly woodsy scent. The hint of the taste of their lips that the barest of touches granted them as they spoke. Then there was the opposites of their skin tempters. Fire and ice.

"If you hurt me again" she said as her voice became slightly huskier, "I'll fuck up your car". Edward gulped before nodding.

"Deal".

"Good" she muttered before closing the space between their lips.

Their shy and unexperienced mouths soon became more desperate and heated as they got into it. Edward pressed his body against hers feeling her womanly curves against him. Spurred on by her hands in his hair Edward pushed more, causing his hardening length to rub against Ava's lower stomach making them both moan. The noise shocked his eyes opened and he pulled back slightly, panting.

"I'm sorry" he said sounding breathless.

"Don't be." Ava said looking dazed.

"But it's improper."

Ava sighed but smiled happily, shooting forward she gave him another kiss. "I know. Different time period and beliefs. I respect you wanting to go slow and wait".

Edward smiled and placed a hand on her face making her lean in to him.

"But there is a lot between all and nothing Sugar" she teased and Edward let out a full belly laugh.

Before he could retort Ava had dragged him down for more kisses, not that he was complaining.

"Do you think they made up?" Rose asked Alice. She was tempted to ask her to look into it but Alice's visions were becoming fuzzier the closer Ava was to fully changing, so she thought it would be useless.

"I hope so" Alice sighed as they waited for Eva in the hospital waiting room. She was fine of course but Jacob had shown up, having ran out of school when Alice called him, and insisted that Carlisle do a thorough check.

The fact that Charlie agreed didn't help Eva get out any sooner.

"I think they will, they want each other enough" Jasper said from where he was holding Alice. He was concentrating on blocking out the others hunger.

"Yeah, but I bet Ava whoops his ass first" Emmett told them sounding like a proud parent or older brother.

"Hey guys" Jacob said as he came and sat down. It was easier to be around them now, having grown accustomed to their scents and vice versa.

"How is she?" Alice asked.

"Good, annoyed but good. She's just managed avoid Bella and is finishing up in the bathroom now. Which is why I'm out here to tell you guys we need to make a quick get away."

"Oh is Bella hung up on how Edward got to Ava in time?" Alice sighed. She liked Bella, she remembered the visions she used to have of her. That was all gone now though. The future, and visions, had all changed. Of course they knew Bella wouldn't tell but her knowing opened a lot of dangerous doors, Alice knew that was a definite. The girl was a danger magnet.

"Among other things and Eva said if you didn't help her then she'd release 'the tape'? I don't know what that means-".

"Let's go" Jasper and Emmett yelled jumping up. The others followed them curiously.

"What's on the tape?" Alice asked confused since she hadn't seen anything.

"Nothing!" they both yelled as they rushed off.

"So we're going to find this tape and watch it, right?" Jacob asked the girls who nodded and spoke as one.

"Absolutely."

Bella was angry and confused.

This morning had turned upside down real quick. First Edward Cullen had come back and stared longingly at her cousin who was trying to pretended like he didn't exist.

Bella had pointed out that Charlie had gotten them snow tires when she had heard a terrible mechanical sound. Before she could even turn and look Ava had lifted her completely off of the ground and tossed her a few feet away.

It was like she weighed nothing. She noticed Eva being tossed and landing just a little way from her and screaming out for Ava.

Bella had screamed Ava's name along with Edward Cullen, who a part of her noticed was standing watching horrified with his family.

Then the van had hit her cousin.

At least that was what she had thought. She had felt her heartbreak when suddenly she had heard Eva breath out, "Thank God".

She turned towards her angry and shocked when she noticed that people were now calling Ava and Edward's names.

'Edward?' she thought. Why were people calling his name when it was Ava who was hurt, even possibly dead.

But then, like a miracle, she saw Edward Cullen step out from between the cars and help Ava up. Neither looked like they even had a scratch on them. She went to rush to them with Eva but the paramedics had already gotten a hold of her.

Imagine her frustration when she noticed that neither Ava nor Edward had to go to be checked out. Not only had they avoided all the attention the hospital brought, but now she couldn't question them.

When Bella finally got Tyler to stop apologizing and Charlie to give her some breathing room she turned to Eva and Jacob. The later having run in in a panic looking for the pink haired teen.

"How did she do that?" she asked trying to look her cousin in the eyes.

"What?" Eva said and she shared a look with Jacob.

'So he knows too' Bella thought and her eyes narrowed. "How did Ava lift me? And how did Edward get to her so quickly? He was by his car."

"No Bella, he was on his way to talk to Ava".

"No" Bella grounded out getting angry. She didn't like not knowing something. "He was by his car when it happened."

"Bella that's impossible" Eva said quietly, she felt bad for having to lie. "He was already on his way. You just didn't see him because you weren't looking".

"No he wasn't, he was by the car. How did he get there, and how did Ava lift us?"

"Hello, ladies. Eva good to see you again though I prefer it when you are safe and not needing medical attention. And this must be Ms. Bella" Carlisle said smiling.

Bella gasped at seeing the good-looking doctor for the first time. Eva's smile was strained as she made quick eye movements towards Carlisle trying to convey her need to leave.

"Uhm right" he coughed, "Well Eva you can go. Bella I'll need you to stay a little longer".

"What about Ava and Edward?" Bella asked with a determined blush.

"What about them?" Carlisle asked feigning confusion. Bella's lips drew into a tight stubborn line and Eva thought her eye might have twitched.

"They were right in the middle of the car crash, why aren't they here?"

"Oh, well Edward called me and he has picked up a few first aid things here and there, he told me that they were both fine", he tried to reassure her.

"How?" she persisted only growing angrier when she noticed Eva making Jacob roll her wheelchair out of the room. She had gotten away...for now.

"Well-".

"Doctor we need you" a young nurse said and Carlisle almost let out a breath of relief.

"Ok, thank you Janice" he said making the young woman blush. "Excuse me Isabella" he said before rushing out.

Bella almost screamed. Something was happening and it looked like it was big. She wanted to know, no she felt like she HAD to know. What was this secret? If she didn't find out, she'd go crazy.

She was determined to find out what it was, and she wouldn't stop until she knew the truth.

*A/N: *What do you think? Edward and Ava finally kissed. Unfortunately, Bella is still as curious (cough, nosey, cough) as ever, though I guess if I saw some weird shit and everyone denied it I'd want to confirm it for myself too. Next chapter has; wolves, evil vamps, hormones running wild, and more. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

9. Chapter 9

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

*A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and reviewed. You rock! WARNING: There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh, and some cussing. This might seem like a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A bit of everyone bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. I'm sorry if anyone else seems a bit OOC but hopefully it will be explained in the story. This is a part one chapter since I planned the wolf meeting to be really long. Enjoy.

Chapter 9: Breaking all the rules, and I like it. (Part 1)

looked at the window where a large eyed Edward was looking slightly guilty.

"Edward, were you trying to watch me sleep?" she sighed as she relaxed.

"I like watching you sleep it fascinates me" he said with a crooked grin once he noticed she wasn't mad at him. He sat at the foot at her bed with slight hesitation.

"Oh Edward, it's a good thing you're so damn attractive.", she teased. "Cause that shit is kind of creepy".

"Oh, I'm sorry I didn't mean to make you uncomfortable" he told her sadly and Ava sighed before reaching out and taking his hand.

"Hun I was joking, kind of. The point is that as long as I don't do anything embarrassing like fart in my sleep or something then it's fine. It's kind of cute in a weird way". She told him rubbing his arm trying to reassure him.

Edward slammed a hand against his mouth to muffle his laughter. Ava was confused over his reaction, she put a hand over her mouth as she gasped.

"Oh my God, do I fart in my sleep?!" she asked in a panic making Edward lose control again.

Finally he got ahold of himself and tried to calm her. "No, you don't do anything like that. I'm just not used to women speaking like that, especially out loud".

"Oh" Ava giggled. "Guess I'm just awesome".

"You are" he told her softly. Ava smiled and hugged him causing the bed sheets to drop further. Edward looked down and his breathing became slightly labored. She was only wearing a tank top and shorts.

"Edward, are you ok?" Ava asked as she pulled back but she noticed that he wasn't looking at her. At least not her face. Ava couldn't believe it. 'I mean yeah I had felt his excitement when we were kissing but this is so different. I really do have a lot to learn" she thought with a smile.

Edward gave a strained chuckle and put their foreheads together. He was happy she was so relaxed about his obvious staring. He was embarrassed but her attitude made him feel better.

"You're not wearing a bra" he whispered and Ava shook her head.

"Of course not Edward, I was sleeping. I don't wear underwear to bed". Edward groaned when his brain and body registered what she had just said. Ava smiled at him and pulled the sheets up again before putting their head back together. "Better?" she asked and he nodded, though a part of him wished the sheets were gone again.

"I'm sorry" he whispered smiling at her. Ava giggled while she played with the buttons on his shirt.

"Don't be Sugar, just don't be surprised if I return the favor" she told him with a wide grin.

Edward laughed with a nod. "I'll go so you can sleep but I was wonderingâ€¦".

"What?"

"Can I pick you up today?"

Ava's smile almost felt painful but she couldn't help it. "Of course" she said before giving him a chaste kiss.

"Alright, I'll see you in a few hours. Sleep tight."

"I will" she said before giggling against his lips when he couldn't resist giving her one last kiss.

"Ok byeâ€¦love" he said softly smiling at her before jumping out of the window.

"Bye" Ava whispered. She fell back on her bed totally awake and head full of a sexy copper haired vampire. She pushed her face into a pillow to muffle her squeal. She heard two people laughing. One was Edward as he was still in hearing distance and the other sounded like Eva. Ava mumbled a "Shut up".

It only made her twin laugh harder.

She didn't care though, nothing could put a damper on her mood right now. Not even an angry Bella.

And Bella was pissed off. When Ava had gotten home she had practically been jumped by the usually quiet teen.

Last night before dinner:

"_Where were you?" Bella asked her. _

"_With Edward". She told her honestly while she tried not to fidget. Edward had asked her if he could court her and she had asked if that meant they were boyfriend and girlfriend. He had said yes and then they spent a good while kissing. _

She had been nervous about telling Bella. What if Edward found out he still wanted Bella after all? Of course the mind reader had heard her worries and did his best to ease them.

Ava had decided to believe in what she was feeling for the boy and what he was feeling for her. The story was basically in shambles any way, no going back now.

"_What were you doing?" Bella asked. She had an idea but she wanted to hear her say it. She was a little disappointed and even jealous but at the same time she was happy for her cousin. _

_Plus, if she was being honest whenever she daydreamed her thoughts turned from the beautiful pale boy to another boy. _

His skin was russet and warm. His eyes were a soft and sweet chocolate brown, and his hair was long and black. It was true, she couldn't get her new friend Embry Call out of her head.

"_Heâ€|he asked me to be his girlfriend. And I said yes" Ava whispered the last part unsure how the other girl would react.

Bella nodded and gave a small smile surprising Ava. "I'm happy for you".

"_Really?" Ava asked. "But I thoughtâ€|"._

"_Ava, honest, I'm happy." Bella told her before her smile fell and she locked eyes with Ava. She took in a determined breath, "Nowâ€|how did you lift me earlier?"_

'_Shiiiiiiiiit' Ava thought but gave the brunette a fake smile. "Bella you know I work out and you barely weigh anything. It was like I was running on pure adrenalin." Technically she wasn't lying, but it wasn't the truth either. _

"_And Edward?" Bella asked with crossed arms. She wasn't buying this whole adrenalin story._

"_Oh, well Edward was already on his way to talk to me. He wanted to apologize and talk when the van came and he ran to save me. He pulled me under the truck and yeah, you saw the rest." Ava said trying to sound convincing. The twins weren't used to having to out right lie.

"_He was able to run all the way from his car to you in that short amount of time?" Bella raised her brow._

"_No, like I said he was already walking over. Edward is really fast, he was on the track team at his last school. He's so sweet, he said once he saw I was in danger he was able to run faster then ever before. Lucky for me huh?"_

"_Yeah lucky" Bella said. "Though I could have sworn that I saw him STANDING by his car when I landed after you THREW me." She said emphasizing how impossible it should have been._

"_Bella" Ava sighed as she rubbed her eyes. This was one of the traits that bugged her about Bella, her always having to know someone else's secret. "It doesn't matter, can't you just be happy that he saved me?"_

"_I am happy. But something is off about that whole family, and you and Eva have suddenly been acting strange." Ava shot her a look. "Well strange-er. You know what it is and how he did it, why won't you tell me?"_

"_There's nothing to tell and even if there was it's none of your business" Ava said getting mad._

_Bella gasped and she looked hurt. "How can you say that?"_

"_Because it's the truth! You have no right to demand to know any secrets that the Cullens may have. You don't know them, you aren't friends with them. You only know them through me and Eva."_

"_But-"._

"_But nothing!" Ava yelled as she started climbing the stairs with Bella trying to follow. Ava was trying not to get mad, it would be bad to shift in the house and so close to Bella._

"_I won't tell" Bella promised._

"_Oh my God woman! It doesn't matter, it's none of your business. End of story." She slammed her door shut and locked it. _

_Bella tried to get her to open up but it was useless. She didn't even come down for dinner, Eva brought it up to her.

#####_

Ava had felt bad about yelling but Bella had really gotten on her nerves. She mainly felt bad that Charlie was worried about them. He had come up to check on her and ask why she was locked in her room.

Last night...again:

"_Hey uh, Ava. It's Uncle Charlie" he had said knocking on her door. She opened it up and let him in. _

"_How are you doing kiddo?" he asked and Ava smiled. Charlie was a great guy._

"_I'm great Uncle Charlie, I promise. Not a scratch on me" she said showing her arms and legs. Charlie sat down on the chair in front of her desk._

"_Yes, Dr. Cullen told me that you and Eva were fine. I meant between you and Bella, It's not like you two to fight."_

Ava smiled sadly "Well, she said that it was weird that Edward was able to save me and-".

"_Edward, that's the name of the boy right?" Charlie asked and she nodded before biting her lip._

"_Yes, he's my boyfriend."_

"_What, wait a minute. Don't you think you're a little young for a boyfriend and isn't he too old for you?" Charlie asked with a little panic, he wasn't ready for the girls to get into relationships. He definitely wasn't ready to give 'the talk'. _

Maybe he could call Adam and pawn it off on him.

"_He's seventeen" Ava told him trying not to poke fun at the awkward man, she decided to take some pity on Charlie. "Besides he just put his life in risk by saving me from getting crushed by a van. I think that shows just how strongly he feels Uncle Charlie."_

"_Right, yeah he's a good kid." He said nodding. He was reluctant to approve of Ava dating but he did had to admit that the boy had proved he'd do right by his niece. _

"_What does that have to do with Bella?" Charlie asked nervously, he hoped his daughter didn't have a crush on this Edward. It'd be bad for the girls to fight over a boy._

"_Well you know what most of the town says about the Cullens?" she asked and Charlie nodded sighing. He had often tried to get people to stop spreading rumors about the good doctor and his family, but small towns were built on rumors._

"_Bella thinks that Edward got to me too fast and demanded that I tell her whatever their secret was. I told her there was no secret but even if there was it was none of her business." Ava said picking at her bed sheets._

"_I'll talk to her and try to straighten her out" Charlie said as he got up and patted Ava on the shoulder. He stopped by her door and smiled at her, "I'm proud of you. For sticking up for your beliefs and friends. Um yeah" he finished some what awkwardly. _

Ava smiled and jumped up to hug him making Charlie chuckle. "Thanks Uncle Charlie, I'm proud of you too."

"_Me too!" Eva said as she popped up and joined the hug.

#####_

Ava smiled as she showered and got dressed. She was going to just toss on a tee and shorts when her phone buzzed.

'_Wear the cute black dress and heals. P.S. Pigtails are nice.-Alice_ Ava giggled as she thought of Alice trying not to let Edward see what she was planning. So, Ava pulled out her black dress that Alice was talking about. It looked a kind of looked like Wednesday Adamm's dress. It was tighter at the waist before slightly poofing out. It only went to her knees and had buttons going up to the white collar.

The top was a bit tighter and drew some attention to her covered bust that seemed to have gotten a little bigger.

She decided to forgo the tights, they would have been way too hot. She put some black heels on, did black eyeliner and red lipstick finishing it off with two high ponytails. Her hair was so long that even in this style it still reached a little past her boobs. 'Wolf genes really boost everything' she thought.

Both her and Eva's bodies were changing, though they had already been fit now they were getting even taller, fitter, and curvier. It was kind of off balancing but neither complained.

"Ready?" Eva asked as she came in. Of course she was in a matching outfit but hers was cream colored.

"Cute" they both laughed. Eva sighed "Today after school we have a meeting with the pack and Elders" she said unhappily and Ava groaned. Neither wanted to see those guys any time soon.

"Do we have too?"

"Well it's either meet them and let them in on shit or innocent people die, so yeah we do" Eva said and Ava nodded.

"Then after that I have a date with Jacob" Eva said trying to sound like it was no big deal. Ava screamed and jumped up and down. Eva couldn't hold it in any longer and joined her.

They heard a honk from the front of the house and looked out of Ava's window. Edward leaned against his car and waved smirking at them.

"Oh look your boyfriends here" Eva teased and Ava pushed her before going down the stairs. She only grabbed an apple.

She was hungry but didn't want to sit with Bella. She didn't want anymore questions.

"Where are you going?" Bella asked and Ava sighed as she opened the front door.

"To school" she said and left before the brunette could say anything back. She didn't want to fight with her.

"Hey" she said as she came up to Edward. He smiled and leaned down giving her a small kiss before opening her door. He slid into the drivers seat and looked towards the house at Bella who was watching them from the front door.

He knew now that he couldn't read her mind because she was a shield. It was frustrating at first but he was more concerned over the fact that Ava seemed upset. "Are you alright?"

"Yeah, thanks. Just kind of annoyed, it'll be fine" she told him and he smiled.

"You look nice" he told her. He appreciated the sight of her bare legs. She looked good in a dress, he wondered how she'd look without it and then shook his head at those thoughts.

"Thank you, you don't look so bad yourself. Are you ready to face the masses?" she teased and he snorted.

"Go ahead and tease me, you aren't the one who has to listen to their thoughts. It can be disturbing."

"Oh, my poor baby" she said before laughing and kissing his cheek. "Well it's bound to be better then the meeting with the pack later."

Edward nodded but didn't comment. He didn't need to, Ava knew he wasn't happy with her being around the pack. He wasn't even happy with Eva being around them, well besides Jacob. Jacob was ok. Eva was like a little sister to the vampire and of course he didn't want his girlfriend near them. It didn't matter that Ava was turning into one of them, he didn't trust those boys.

"Well let's go, I'm sure your friend Jessica will want to drill you when she sees us" he joked and now it was Ava's turn to snort. They both knew she couldn't stand the gossiping teen and her and Eva made it very clear.

"Yeah and then you and your best friend Mike could go play a game of football." She said and Edward made a face. His dislike of the boy was also well known, especially since he could hear the youths' thoughts about Ava and Eva.

"Joy" he muttered making his girlfriend laugh.

"Hey Bella" Angela said as she came up to her and waved to Eva who was talking in her normal spot by the Cullens.

"Hey Angela" Bella said as she looked around waiting for Edward and Ava. She wanted to apologize to her, she didn't like it when they fought.

"Hey Bella" Jessica said with a big smile until Mike tried to through his arm around Bella's shoulder. She grimaced and moved away from him.

"Hey where's Ava?" Mike asked, he liked looking at the loud girl. He was going to ask her to the up coming dance and prom. If she said no then he'd ask Eva, who was also smoking hot. Then he'd ask Bella, but he didn't think Ava would actually turn him down.

He didn't count all the times the twins made their disdain for him known as actual rejection.

"Oh my God" Angela said smiling as the Volvo came into view. Everyone turned to see Edward helping Ava out of the car. Jessica and Lauren's mouths were hanging open and Eva started laughing with Rose and Alice. Emmett's booming laugh could be heard above the others as Jasper smirked and shook his head.

He knew it.

"OH MY GOD" Jessica said as the couple walked up. Ava tried to walk in slow motion but Edward laughed and pulled her along, shaking his head at the silly teen.

"Why are you walking in slow motion?" he asked amused and Ava smiled.

"Everyone's looking so I thought I'd give them a show. That way they become as uncomfortable as us" she said sounding proud of her plan.

Edward laughed and squeezed her hand as he led them to the school.

"That guys not looking, oh no he just looked" Edward said and Ava laughed. She caught sight of Rose and yelled.

"Rose, all these weirdos are watching us. Slow walk with Alice, Eva, and me" and Rose laughed as they joined her on the side that Edward wasn't on. He wasn't about to let go of her hand.

People watched, even as some blushed making Jasper have to stop breathing. The girls slow walked, flipped their hair, and everything in between. Edward shook his head and tried not to laugh as he was basically forced to join them.

Emmett was laughing before he walked ahead of them, "Show you how it's done!" he said. They all laughed, Jasper had to hold his stomach he was laughing so hard, as Emmett channeled his inner Mean Girl and walked.

Bella sighed as they passed. Ava and Eva slow nodded to her and Angela, who giggled at their antics. It took a couple of minutes but finally they made it into the building.

"OH MY GOD" Jessica repeated before spinning on Bella. "Is your cousin dating Edward Cullen?" she asked and squealed when Bella nodded. "When, how, why, and where?" she asked excitedly.

"Um, yesterday after the whole van thing" Bella told them, happy that Tyler wasn't back from the hospital yet. She didn't want him to start apologizing again.

"They're so cute together" Angela said. Lauren rolled her eyes, she was trying to act like she wasn't ready to scream.

'First all the guys want them and now that freak Ava is dating Edward Cullen. He could have me, but he picked that bitch instead.' She looked at Bella and a nasty smile overtook her face.

"It's not a surprise. They're weird, the Cullens are weird, it makes a perfect fit. Though tell me Bella, how is it that your cousins are able to raise the bar for freaks everywhere?" she asked in a false sugary voice.

Bella felt her anger rise. She didn't care when Lauren talked down to her, but nobody talked about her family.

"I don't know Lauren" she said in an equally fake voice. "How is it that you can raise the bar for jealous bitches all over the world? Mysteries of life I guess." She spat before angrily walking away.

Lauren's eyes narrowed as the others oohed and laughed. She'd get that little bitch back.

Eva and Ava were sitting in their English class. Eva was whispering with Angela while texted Alice and Jacob. The girls had found out that Daniela wasn't messing around when she said that she had them covered money wise. With Alice investing it for them, they had plenty.

Eva used some of that to buy her boyfriend a cellphone. He had tried to refuse at first feeling bad about spending her money, but once Eva told him that this meant they could talk as much as they wanted and he would know she was safe, he gave in.

She might have mentioned the fact that they could take naughty pics as well.

Eva was more then excited for her first real date with Jacob. They just had to deal with the pack and tribe then they'd get to spend time together, sounded easy enough.

Ava and Edward were sitting closer together and talking about some of her stories. She showed him some of her work and they were making going over them and joking around.

"So what are you going to do about Bella disrespecting you this morning?" Jessica whispered to Lauren and the twins perked up while Edward kept an arm around Ava so she wouldn't go over and smack either girl.

"Just wait till lunch. I'm going to show little miss perfect why I'm queen bee around here". She boasted and the twins growled.

"More like queen bitch" Eva whispered low enough so Angela couldn't hear her.

"What do you think sister dear, should we show her what a real bitch can do?" Ava asked waving off Edward trying to lecture her language.

"I think we just may have too" Eva said.

"You guys can't do anything" Edward tried to calm them down. "They are human and if you stress yourself Carlisle said you might speed up your change".

"Doesn't matter" they said.

They had a bitch to take care of.

Edward sighed, he knew he wasn't going to win this one. The twins weren't the type to just sit around and let someone get messed with, especially their own family. Besides, if he let them get their aggression out now then maybe they'd be calmer during the meeting with the Elders.

Edward looked between the two teens and shook his head, on second thought it probably wouldn't help. Today was bound to be loud, very very loud.

A/N: So what do you think? What's going to happen at lunch? I think we all know that the meeting is going to be explosive. Then we'll get to see some sweet moments between Eva and Jake. The bad guys will be making their first appearance in the next chapter, so yay bad guys. And maybe a few time skips, we'll see. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

Chapter 10: Breaking all the rules, and I like it. (Part 2)

Ava and Eva's legs were bouncing as they waited for Lauren to enter the cafeteria.

Alice was looking to see what was going to happen but it was still fuzzy, something that her and the twins were working on fixing.

Jasper was trying to calm the twins down, though he soon found his own leg twitching. They were just full of so much anticipation.

Edward was rubbing Ava's back and trying to find and lock onto Lauren's thoughts so he could tell them what she was planning.

Rose was smirking at the doors. She wanted to see the twins in action but at the same time she was worried that her friends would expose themselves.

She knew why they wanted to get Lauren though, family was very important to Rose. That's one of the reasons her and the twins got on so well. Well that and the fact that none of them had time for peoples bullshit.

Emmett was watching excitedly. He also wanted to see that stuck up bitch get her ass handed to her. Of course he was ready to jump in and get the twins away from the humans if needed. He liked the twins, they were like fun little sisters. They livened things up.

"Here she comes" Edward told them and the twins stiffened. "She's going to 'accidentally' dump food on Isabella and then go from there".

"We'll see about that" Eva said as she gripped the table. Alice grabbed the corned her best friend was holding just as there was a loud crunch. People looked over but none of them could get a good look at what the noise was. Most didn't want to look at the Cullens for to long or got distracted by the groups looks.

They were lucky because Eva had broken off the corner.

They watched, like predators stalking their prey, as Lauren got in the lunch line picking up the messiest of the foods they had.

Mainly spaghetti and tapioca pudding.

Ava walked up behind her and picked up her own tray. She made sure to get different juices and the mystery meat, which her new sense of smell was unfortunately trying to identify.

Eva turned her head to the cafeteria doors and sniffed. Edward wasn't kidding when he said Bella smelled delicious. Edward shot her a look and her eyes grew, 'Did I just think she was delicious?'

"Yes" Edward told her worriedly. Eva opened her mouth to speak but the sound of Lauren snickering made her stand up and walk towards her cousin.

Bella was looking at Ava trying to get her attention but she was busy glaring and following Lauren.

"Oh look there's Lauren." Jessica said trying to hide her excitement. "Here Bella you sit here" she said directing the pretty girl to the chair that Lauren had pointed out. Jessica was excited that Mike would see Bella get humiliated.

Lauren's smirk grew when she saw Bella sit down with her back facing her. 'Time for payback'.

As she got closer she started to hold her arms out further so that the tray would be easier to dump, when out of no where she felt someone kick the back of her knee. Though she didn't know that Ava was actually trying to be gentle and not break her leg, she might not like her but she didn't want to go that far.

Lauren got what she wanted since the new girls had arrived, all eyes were back on her.

When she had felt the kick to the knee her body had reacted normally forcing her to jerk backwards. This brought her full tray onto her own face.

Eva took that time to pull Bella back and 'accidentally' push Jessica's chair forward. Ava crashed into Lauren's back sending her own tray falling onto the shocked blonde and now an equally shocked Jessica.

"Opps" Ava said as she wiped some goo off of her hand, the only casualty on their side. She had made sure not to stain her dress, Alice would have killed her.

"You-you-you!" Lauren babbled, torn between anger and embarrassment. Jessica shrieked and jumped up, her once white shirt now tie-dyed.

"You should really watch where you go. Stopping in the middle of the room can be disastrous ya know" Eva said with innocent eyes while Ava just gave a have shrug of apology.

"You bitch!" Lauren shrieked and took a step towards Ava. Before her foot could even hit the ground she was spun around by and angry and black eyed Eva.

"Who you calling a bitch, bitch!" she hissed.

Jessica took that moment to try to sneak up on Eva with a piece of cake in hand when her path was blocked by a shaking Ava. Jessica jumped at seeing how angry the other girl was, the other girl who looked much stronger than her. She dropped the cake splatting it over her own shoes.

"What the fuck are you doing?" Ava asked as she tried to control herself. No one made a noise as they watched the scene unfold. Edward was angry to hear that most of the students wanted to see a fight.

"Love" Edward called Ava managing to make her shakes slow down. Jessica blushed when she saw Edward in front of her with her looking like such a mess.

"Eva, let's go" Alice said as she and Rose placed their hands on the girl's shoulder. Emmett stood up and was ready to pick her up, he heard some teachers coming down the hall.

Jasper spread out a sense of calm and Eva let the girls lead her away.

Bella watched all of this with big eyes. Ava had been shaking again and she had seen Eva's blue eyes take on an almost soulless black. Not to mention the fact that both twins looked like they wanted to rip into Jessica and Lauren.

She watched as the Cullens quickly led the girls out of the cafeteria just as some teachers came in demanding answers.

Lauren and Jessica immediately started to whine that Ava and Eva had attacked them. "No they didn't" her and Angela said.

"Ms. Swan, Ms. Weber why don't you come with us so we can clear this all up" Mrs. Cope said as she went to pat Lauren's shoulder but seeing the mess thought better of it.

"What about those psycho twins?" Lauren demanded and Ms. Smith rolled her eyes.

"Honestly, Ms. Bedlam is one of my best students and I've heard nothing but positive things about her sister. We'll get you girls cleaned up, let the others finish lunch and then get their side of the story. I'm sure it was an accident" she said and Mrs. Cope and Mr. Johnson, the gym teacher, nodded.

"But-but-" She tried to protest as they were led away and whispers broke out around the room.

"Oh man did you see that?" Mike asked as Eric, Ben, and Tyler got into an excited conversation. Angela shared a look with Bella and they went back to eating their food.

Bella glanced at the Cullens' usual table and she had to do a double take. "Are you ok?" Angela asked and Bella nodded.

"Yeah, just thinking" she said and Angela nodded. Bella's eyes went back to the table. There was a huge chunk of a corner missing, the corner where Eva sat.

'What the hell is going on?'

Eva sighed as she sat with Jacob in her room. In just a little while they'd have to leave and go meet with the dick pack, er, wolf pack and Elders.

Her and her sister didn't have high hopes for the meeting but it had to be done. They'd tell them what was happening, what they knew and then she could go and have her official date with Jacob.

"Jacob?" she asked from her position on his chest. They were cuddling. She loved the feel of his heated skin against her own cooling flesh.

"What's up babe?" he asked as he lazily ran a hand up and down her back.

"Whatâ€¦what if Billy forbids you from seeing me?" she asked in a small voice. She knew tempers were going to fly and she was worried she'd lose Jacob. She didn't want to lose him, she needed him. She felt drawn to him and it only grew the more she changed.

However, she wouldn't make him choose between her and his family.

Jacob reached down and lifted her chin up so they were looking into each others eyes. "I won't leave you ever. I-I love you Eva." he told her. He was nervous that she would think it was too soon. He just knew that she was it for him, future imprints and packs be damned.

Jacob was going to follow his heart.

Eva smiled as tears pooled in her eyes, but didn't spill over. "I love you too. But I don't want you to have to go against your dad for me. I-".

"I know" Jacob cut her off with a soft smile. "But even if he doesn't agree I know he wants me to be happy. You make me happy. You make me feel complete. Vampires, werewolves, or anything in between doesn't matter. Only you do".

Eva surged up and caught his lips with hers.

"I love you so much" she said. She was afraid of what would happen when he turned. Would his opinion of her change? Would they break-up? What if they locked eyes and he felt nothing?

"I love you, no one else" he told her as if picking up on her train of thought. Jacob pulled her higher up on his body and her hands immediately went to his long hair. He slowly turned them over so that he was on top, one of his legs placed between hers.

His tongue teased her lips and begged for entrance which she granted, now their tongues were battling for dominance.

Jake used one hand to keep most of his body weight off of her while the other started to rub her hip. Eva moaned into his mouth getting a growl like groan in reply.

"God, Eva" Jacob said as he detached from her lips and began placing small love bites on her neck. She moaned again while slightly arching her back pushing her chest against his and her core against his leg.

Jacob jolted and his hips snapped forward pressing his hardening member into her hip.

"Wait Jacob" Eva panted and he pulled back with heavy eyes. He looked down and smiled at her swollen lips and blown pupils. Eva smiled back up, giggling at his messy hair and heaving chest, which was tight against his shirt.

"Sorry" he said still trying to calm his heart beat.

"No need to apologize, I liked it. I just don't think we're ready for more right now. Is that ok?"

"Of course" he said shooting her his sunny smile. "I'm just happy to be here with you".

Eva giggled and ran a cold hand over his cheek making him shiver and smile. "Some times I think you'll give me cavities" she told him with a smirk.

"Why?"

"Because you're so sweet" she said and he chuckled rolling his eyes.

"Lame!" came a loud yell from outside. They got up and looked down to see Ava leaning against Edward. "So lame" she teased.

Eva stuck her tongue out "Perv" she muttered.

"You now it" Ava yelled proudly and Edward shook his head with his signature grin.

"You really are" he teased her. Ava laughed kissing his cheek and bumping their hips before leaning against his front again.

Eva turned back to Jacob and sighed, "Time to go".

Jacob took her hand as they made their way out of the house to the other couple. "We'll get through this, together." He opened the door and led her out.

"Oh Edward, aren't they just adorkable" Ava teased and Edward chuckled kissing her head.

"I'm sure we're just as bad love" he said and Eva and Jacob nodded.

Ava flipped her pigtails behind her shoulders, "Maybe, but we look better".

"Oh and why do you say that?" Eva asked with a hand on her hip.

Ava smiled at her and raised a brow. "Cause I'm the hot twin" she said before Eva pretended to try to jump her. The boys sighed and nodded to each other as they went to pick up their girlfriends.

"Party poopers" the girls muttered.

They arrived in the open area of the treaty line, the wolves on one side, vamps on the other.

Edward took Eva's hand again while Jacob took Eva's and they walked up to join the Cullen clan. Edward growled at Paul who was smirking and sending Ava a lecherous look. She squeezed Edward's hand and flipped Paul off making him laugh and wink at her.

"Jacob?" Billy asked some what confused. Everything became clear when Jake simply nodded to his dad but stood protectively by Eva's side.

Billy sighed, he felt torn. He liked the twins. Charlie was his best friend and he liked Adam besides the fact that he had only met him a few times. He really only knew the basics of the man.

He was Charlie's older brother. He had changed his last name to their mother's maiden name when he went into doing Hollywood makeup. His wife died when the girls were young and his daughters were the apple of his eye.

He looked at the twins and sighed again, he didn't know that things were about to get far crazier then he could have ever imagined.

"Which one of them is one of us?" a very old man asked confused as he looked at the two very pale teens.

"The one with purple hair" Sam said and Ava gave a fake cough.

"Cough, asshole, cough" Sam glared. "Oh, I'm sorry" she said and he smiled before she continued. "I was trying to call you an asshole when I got a tickle in my throat."

"Ava isn't turning into a tribe protector because we aren't part of the tribe. Her changing is purely coincidental" Eva said and Sam and Paul growled at her.

"No one asked you leech" Paul spat and Jacob and Ava growled at him.

"Back off asshole" Jacob warned.

"Yeah, step off before I fuck you up and make myself a new wolf skin rug" Ava said. Rose smirked and Emmett howled with laughter.

"You don't mean that baby" Paul cooed and all the girls, besides a worried Esme, did fake gags making him glare and Billy had to hide a smile.

"I aint your baby, bitch. If anything I'm his" she said pointing to a pissed off Edward. "I mean how can you compare with my man, just look at him! And I know for damn sure he's more of a gentlemen. So unlike you, he's the whole package" she said and Edward looked a little smug now.

"Why don't we discuss what we came for" Billy asked trying to avoid a fight. "You said you had information about some violent vampires" he looked towards the head vampire trying to keep his voice neutral.

"Yes-" Carlisle went to say.

"Probably friends of theirs" Paul interrupted. Eva scoffed and rolled her eyes at his glare.

"Can you shut up so we can deal with this or do you need a muzzle?" she asked.

"Fuck you bitch!" Paul yelled and took a step closer before Sam grabbed his arm and pointed. Ava and Jacob were shaking like there was no tomorrow and their soul concentration was on Paul.

"Young Black and young lady, you can't get mad at your pack mate over one of the cold ones-" the old man who they guessed was Old Quil said before Ava cut him off.

"They aren't my pack and you don't have any room to talk. Do you tell the town to be nice to them? No. Do you prepare possible future wolves? No. Fuck dude, you've never even turned into a wolf so don't act like you know how it feels. DON'T TELL ME WHAT TO DO, YOU HAVE NO POWER OVER ME!" she finished screaming.

"How dare you-" another man, Harry Clearwater, said but now it was Jacob 's turn to interrupt.

"She's right! You tell us stories that have barely any information and if they do come true then you expect us to give up our futures to protect a tribe full of people who scorn us!"

"Jacob, Ava" Sam tried to use his Alpha voice but it wasn't working. Ava wasn't a part of the pack and Jacob was the true Alpha. "Stand down" he tried again.

"FUCK YOU SAM" Jacob yelled. Paul chose that moment, unwisely, to speak again.

"Just 'cause you two turned tail up for these leeches" he pointed at Eva and Edward. "Doesn't mean-" that was as far as he got seeing as he made another, even bigger mistake by taking a threatening step towards them.

It was all Ava and Jacob could take.

With two powerful roars their bodies exploded and in their places were two huge horse sized and pissed off wolves.

The surrounding company barely had time to take in the beauty of the wolves, the russet brown wolf next to the pure white one when they pounced on a still human Paul.

Luckily, for him, Paul was able to change right when they got to him and the fight began. They heard Sam change and Jacob jumped on him gripping him by the back of the neck with his powerful jaws making Sam whine. Jacob would be damned if he let either of them near his Eva!

Paul was able to throw Ava off only for her to head-butt him and send him flying into a tree. He howled and charged at her slashing her shoulder making her yelp and Edward yelled out.

Emmett and Jasper grabbed ahold of him so he couldn't jump in and start a war.

Ava snapped her teeth down right on Paul's snout and violently shook her head. She had a good grip on him and didn't look to be letting go any time soon.

"Please stop" Billy yelled out, afraid of all the bloodshed.

Jacob slowly got off of Sam, but not before giving him a small shake to make sure he knew who was boss.

Sam, though smarting at being beaten so easily, laid on his belly in submission.

'_Paul stop struggling. Ava calm down' _Jacob's voice echoed in their heads. Paul instantly obeyed while Ava seemed to give off a sort of snort before complying. Jacob and Ava nodded to each other while he went to lick her wound to help speed up the healing process but thought better of it seeing their upset mates.

"Jacob?"

"Ava?"

Edward and Eva called out. Jacob gave one last order to Sam and Paul to stand down before he turned to his girlfriend. The moment they locked eyes Jacob wanted to jump for joy, which he tried to do and ended up looking really weird in dog form.

Eva didn't know what he was doing at first before he gave a kind of doggy grin and looked at her with such adoration and love. She was used to him looking at her like this, but this time she knew what it meant.

Ava looked at Edward and he almost collapsed on his knees before escaping his brothers and rushing to her side, which was easy since she did the same thing. He started looking over her wound, he was having as close to a panic attack as a vampire could. They locked eyes and both gasped.

'_Edward'_ Ava thought in an awed voice. She showed him everything she was feeling, how it explained why they had been drawn together. He smiled and put his forehead against her huge furry one.

"Will someone tell us what is going on?" Emmett asked and some of the others nodded though Esme giggled.

"I think I know. Oh I'm so happy for you dears".

The Elders looked shocked, along with the wolves. Alice was squealing and jumping up and down next to a smirking Rose and grinning Carlisle.

"I still don't get it. They look at each other like that all the time, what's the big deal now that they've changed?" Emmett asked still lost. He wasn't dumb, far from it, but this was just plain confusing. Why was everyone so excited that Jacob and Ava were being lovey dovey with their partners?

Jasper smiled and patted his shoulder. "Because" he said, his grin growing wider as he looked at the two odd couples. "They imprinted." He turned to the horrified pack and Emmett smiled as he realized what his brother was saying.

"It's forever and unbreakable". Jasper finished and Emmett couldn't help but laugh again.

'That really stuck it to those mutts huh?'

Further away, looking for another meal three vampires stopped in their tracks slightly in fear as they heard two loud and terrifying howls off in the distance.

"What was that?" the red headed female asked scooting closer to her blonde companion.

"I don't know" the other male said as his red eyes took in their surroundings. He moved one of his dreadlocks out of the way as a quick ray of light reflected off of his pale but dark skin. "But it sounds like bad news".

The blonde man smirked and looked at the other two with an excited gleam in his eyes. "It sounds likeâ€¦fun".

A/N: What do you think? Next chapter has the more talkative side of the meeting and revealing life changing things. Some of the baby wolves get introduced in the next few chapters. And finally Jacob and Eva's date will for sure be happening in the next chapter and maybe even a couple of limes (M rated scenes, but not total lemons). And much more. Oh, and the vampires still call the pack mutts because they don't like them, though they don't really consider Jake or Ava one of the pack. They only call them that when they tease each other. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

Chapter 11: Naughty things in the dark.

"Perhaps you should change back" Billy suggested. No one moved though Paul did look at Ava again.

"They are NOT changing, they have no clothes" Edward said through clenched teeth. The shifter's perverted thoughts about his mate were pissing him off.

His face softened at the word mate and he smiled at her. Even in wolf form she was beautiful. He couldn't believe it, he had a mate now. He'd never have to be alone again.

Ava nuzzled his neck while she tried to ignore the images Paul was sending her. Jacob growls shut him up. '_Thanks man'_ Ava thought and Jake nodded.

'_No problem, no one's gonna mess with my sister'._

"_Sister? Oh I get it, I'm like your sister-in-law now right?_" she asked while her tail started wagging. Edward translated for everyone else.

'_Yeah, but I was also thinking pack sisterâ€¦if you want'_ Jacob offered. Ava nodded her large head and playfully scooted over to bump their large shoulders making Jacob snort.

"You both look amazing" Eva said in awe. Seeing it in person was way different than on screen, they were magnificent. Ava was pure white, her green eyes had a ring of brown around them now. She was a little smaller than Jake but that wasn't saying much since Jacob was huge.

Ava was a bit bigger than Paul, which the vampires found hilarious.

She looked at Jacob again and ran her hand through his fur. He was so soft, his warm breath rolled over her as his eyes lightly drooped at her touch.

"I love you Jake" she whispered. He placed his head on hers and made a keening sound.

"Alice" Carlisle said, "Do you have any clothes they can all borrow?" They needed to get on with the meeting and he didn't want any of them uncomfortable.

"Oh, I do. Be right back" she promised before zooming off.

"Will you knock it off" Jasper hissed at Paul when the wolf's lust got on his last nerve. Not only did he not want to feel another man's lust but he didn't want that lust aimed at Ava. Both girls, and even Jake, had started to become like members of the family for the Cullens.

That wasn't about to change and this Paul character needed to get that through his thick furry skull.

"What?" Rose asked confused before she saw the disgust and anger on the other blonde's face. "Oh" she rolled her eyes and turned to Paul. "She's imprinted now, I would assume that you know what that means? You can't have her flea bag" she snarked.

The Elders looked insulted, Sam and Paul growled while Ava and Jake snorted. Emmett laughed and wrapped an arm around his wife though he kept an eye on the troublesome male.

Esme and Carlisle sighed, so much for everyone getting along.

Jasper smirked and Edward glared, only Ava telling him to let it go kept him from jumping the mutt.

'_He's just jealous Sugar'_ she said ignoring Paul's snort of objection. Her next thought had Edward almost choke on his laughter. '_He knows that you can have me whenever you want, however you want and all he's got is his five fingered friend.'_

Edward laughed though he was slightly happy that the others hadn't heard her. He knew she said it to piss off the other boy but the thought of him having her still did funny things to him.

It was an odd feeling to be embarrassed and turned on at the same time. Jasper laughed but wouldn't explain why to Emmett when asked.

Paul growled but one look at Jacob made him decide to drop whatever he was going to say. Sam snorted in amusement and Paul turned to him.

'_Oh shut up Alpha' _he thought sarcastically and now Sam's hackles were raised._ 'You went down like a bitch.'_

'_Look who's talking, taken down by a leech lover!'_

'_You're right, you were taken down by a newbie and a leech lover!'
_They fought before Ava's voice rang loud in their minds making them wince.

'_Shut up! You're both bitches that need to get your heads out of your asses. Just can you can lick there now, doesn't mean you should'_ she mocked them.

"Ok, here are the clothes" Alice said cutting their conversation off. She went over and put some shorts, underwear, and shoes on Jacob.

She put a Maxie dress, shoes and undergarments on Ava, who asked Edward to help her turn back and make sure no one looked.

Alice went to hand Paul and Sam shorts when Paul growled making Jasper hiss and crouch. Sam knocked into Paul and wearily took the shorts from Alice with a nod.

She threw the last pair at Paul hitting him in the snout.

Ava walked behind a tree making sure the others couldn't see her.
'Hiding from me huh? Won't do any good babe' Paul thought and she rolled her eyes while Edward ripped off a piece of the tree.

'_Just wait till he meets his imprint in a little, he's going be eating those words'_ she promised her boyfriend who nodded trying to relax.

'_What do you mean, how do you know who I'll imprint on?!'_ Paul demanded but Jacob took over telling him to back off. Ava sighed and looked at Edward.

"It's alright Love" he soothed, "Just breath". She nodded and took a deep breath trying to concentrate on turning back. She was pleased to hear that Sam was walking them through it.

'_He's right, breath and think of being on two legs again'._

'_Thanks'_ Her and Jacob said before concentrating. Jacob got it first and Eva gasped at her now very nude boyfriend in front of her.

"Like what you see?" he teased when her eyes kept shooting down. She slapped his arm and turned when he started to get dressed.

'Nothing small about that boy' she thought before bursting out laughing at Edward's groan.

"Come on, I didn't need to know that" he muttered and the others laughed having guessed what had happened.

"Edward relax" Ava as she was able to change. She stood up and dusted herself off, vaguely happy that she was still really pale and wouldn't have to change the color of her makeup. Not the most important issue but still.

She turned to a wide eyed and opened mouthed Edward. "Hello?" she asked waving a hand in front of his face but his eyes remained locked on her body.

Ava giggled as she looked down Edward's body and almost blushed at the very obvious large bulge in his pants.

Her nipples hardened and she bit her lip making Edward make a low noise in his throat. His eyes were pitch black, but not from hunger at least not for blood. He took a step forward.

"Um guys?" Alice called out, "Can you tone it down a bit."

"Jasper looks like he's trying not to hump Alice" Emmett yelled out before there was a smacking sound. "Ow Rosie, what was that for?"

This snapped the couple out of their lust induced haze. Edward gulped and spun around so that Ava could get dressed. 'Control yourself, you're acting like a pervert.' he scolded himself.

'That was hot' Ava thought and Edward groaned again when the scent of her slight arousal hit him. She smelled amazing. 'You might want to reposition yourself Sugar' she suggested lightly and he did just that.

He was so so soooo happy vampires couldn't blush or he'd probably be putting Isabella Swan to shame.

Finally dressed, they joined the others. Ava and Jacob made sure to stay by their imprints on the Cullen side.

"Now, why don't we get down to business. Girls?" Carlisle asked and looked to Ava and Eva. Esme was rubbing their backs in reassurance. Edward wrapped an arm around Ava and Jacob did the same to Eva.

"Wellâ€¦where to start?" Eva asked and Billy smiled at her though he was worried about whatever was happening to her.

"Why not start from the beginning?" he told her kindly and the girls nodded before Ava whined.

"Really Love" Edward sighed with an unbelieving smile.

"Well it's true." she pouted. Eva rolled her eyes and Rose put her head in her hand.

"What's wrong?" Carlisle asked and Ava sighed.

"My roots are showing" she pointed to her hair which she had just noticed was past her butt and heating her up. 'No wonder they cut their hair' she thought.

gently braided it tying it off with a hairband Alice gave him.

"So do I, but I'll have to cut it a little" she said.

"You have to cut it a lot, so will Jacob" Sam said. He was ignored.

"And I liked that outfit. Asshole" she aimed the last retort towards Paul. He simply smirked and blew her a kiss.

"Anyway" Carlisle said sending Ava an amused look making her smile sheepishly. "The beginning sounds like the best place".

"Well" the twins said together as they held hands, their boyfriends going to their other sides so they could stand side by side.

They spent a good two hours telling everything from the movies and books, to Daniela, to what they knew and what had already changed. Though they kept names out when it came to imprints, they didn't want Paul trying to avoid Racheal.

"That's impossible" Old Quil whispered seeing as Billy was deep in thought and Harry was still shocked over hearing about his own death.

"Oh but giant wolves and vampires, that's normal" Eva said from her position on Jacob's lap. The twins and a few of the others had sat down half way through the explanation.

"We will be telling the others about turning" Jacob said and held his hand up to the protests. "It needs to be done with the vampires coming closer to killing the towns people. Plus they have a right to know. They will also be introduced to the Cullens while they are told the whole story, and get used to their scents." he finished.

"Young Black you can't just make these decisions. We are the Elders-".

"Who has no real idea about what we are going through. As the true Alpha I will be making the best choices for my pack, without you. You haven't helped any of us so far, and I doubt you will help us now".

"Jacob" Billy said sadly. "How can you say that?"

"Easily Dad" Jacob said showing no emotion, this had to be done. "You let us believe that Sam and then Paul were a gang, druggies even. When Leah turns you tell her that there are no stories of a female shifter and hint that she probably can't have kids. Then you do nothing while the rest of the pack calls her bitter and a bitch when she is forced to listen and be around Sam, who she thought was the love of her life, and Emily her cousin he left her for, every single day." He finished in one long breath.

"The stories-" Harry tried to say but Ava cut him off. They weren't very happy with the council at the moment.

"Stories change over time, things are lost and distorted. Plus the story we heard was that the first wolf actually came to be because one of your own tribe members was a bad dude and took over the real chief's body".

The Elders jaws dropped and Sam and Paul looked over waiting for them to refute the claim. When none came they started to shake again, they had been misled.

"Howâ€¦" Billy wondered before he stopped himself.

"Google" the twins said together with flat expressions.

"They only started to turn because of vampires much later. It started with your own tribe so I guess" Ava said in mock thought. "Not every wolf is a hero and not every vampire is evil".

"Crazy" Eva took over, "Just like people. It depends on the individual, you can't just generalize". She finished and they both crossed their arms.

"You see now why that we aren't very trusting" Jacob said, proud of his mate and sister. He wrapped his arms around Eva's waist and rested his chin on her shoulder.

Sam and Paul looked shocked, angry, and even close to tears. They didn't know what to do.

"You two" Jacob said bringing their attention to him. "Are free to join us. I doubt we'll all be buddy buddy right away but we won't lie to you and the only thing we won't tell you is imprint names, for obvious reasons." He slowly stood and the others followed.

He looked at Carlisle who gave him a proud smile and a nod that gave Billy an ache in his heart.

"What will it be?" Jacob asked and now Sam, and even Paul, looked unsure.

"How about we give them a day or so to think on it?" Esme suggested feeling bad for the boys. Jacob nodded and told them his cell number.

"Call me when you're ready to talk. Tomorrow we will be rounding up and meeting the others, it would be better with you there". He turned and started to walk away when Billy called him back.

He turned back and looked at his father, "Where are you going?" Billy asked and Jacob smiled.

"I have a date" he said and Eva giggled from his side.

"I don't think that would be a good idea son. If she is turning intoâ€¦one of them then-".

"Doesn't matter" Jacob said with a tone of finality. "She's mine. My girlfriend, my mate, my everything. Don't make me choose between you or her because it will always be her", he said and Eva rubbed his back in support.

"You would turn your back on your tribe?" Old Quil bristled.

"I don't want to, but I will not leave her and I will not hate the Cullens. To me, they're pack". This shocked the wolves and old men while the vampires all smiled at the young man.

"I believe I speak for the others when I say you're part of the family Jacob" Carlisle told him gently as he held a misty eyed Esme. The others nodded while Ava and Eva jumped up and down in excitement.

"We are family" they sang before they took in everyone's looks.
"What? Too soon?"

"Young Black you can't simply leave your pack and join the cold ones. You and the pale face belong-".

"Dude did you just call me pale face?" Ava asked and even the other Elders looked surprised.

"Well you are but we are willing to allow you to guard-".

Ava cut him off again, pissed off. "I'm not your guard dog you old racist asshat!" she yelled and Edward had to rewrap her in his arms to stop her from attacking the man.

"I think that's a sign that this meeting is over" Jasper said trying to control his own anger and calm the others.

They nodded and started to walk off when Rose turned and flipped them off, some how still looking dainty and lady like.

Ava making an even ruder gesture, like a jerking movement, had Eva collapsing in giggles making Jacob lift her up. Edward shook his head and lifted his own woman scolding her while trying to hide his own amusement.

Eva was smiling so much her face kind of hurt. She was sitting with Jacob at a diner having dinner.

They had decided to not leave town in case they needed one of the others to help either with Eva's rapid change or the loose nomad vamps.

Jacob took her hands over the table and rubbed circles with his thumb. Jasper had helped him cut his hair seeing as it was just too hot.

Ava had also cut her hair though only to above her butt. Rose had gotten her hair dye and some for Eva in case they needed it after her finally change.

Jacob would miss her blue eyes but as long as he still saw the spark that made her her, then he didn't care what color they turned.

Which was good seeing as she had a thin almost unnoticeable ring of red around the blue.

"You look beautiful" he said and Eva smiled wider. She had changed her dress and was now in a soft satin deep blue dress, her hair was down and straightened.

"Thank you. I'm so glad we got to finally go out and have some real couple time" she told him and Jacob nodded when the waitress showed up.

"Hi, I'm Cindy and I'll be your waitress tonight" the bleach blonde looked up and caught sight of the buff good-looking native guy sitting down. His shirt looked a little too small and she couldn't really tell how old he was but she guessed early twenties.

'Yum' she thought and put on a flirty smile. But the guy didn't look at her, he was looking at the girl in front of him.

Cindy's eyes trailed to the girl and her smile fell. The girl was breathtaking. She had big blue eyes, a rocking body, and long pink hair. Her lips were pulled up in a half smile making her lip ring reflect the dinner's lights.

"What can I get you two?" Cindy sighed, she thought she was pretty but she had nothing on this chick.

"I'll just have the broccoli soup please, and a water." Eva said and the waitress nodded and wrote it down.

"And you" she asked as her eyes looked Jacob up and down again. Eva was a little annoyed but not really surprised, she knew her boyfriend was hot and the change simply super charged his already good looks.

"Yeah, can I get the stake medium rare with fries on the side. The ribs with more fries and the pot roast".

"Let me guess, with fries?" Cindy asked as she jotted down the big order.

"You got it, oh and some apple pie with whip cream for dessert thanks. And a water", he finished and looked at Eva sheepishly but she simply giggled.

"Ok, your order will be up soon" Cindy said as she turned to put the order in. 'Geez, that guy eats like an animal.'

"Do you think they are having a good time?" Ava asked as Alice brushed her hair. They were in her and Jasper's room with Esme and Rose. Edward and the other men were hunting.

"I think so" Alice said smiling, they had just finished dyeing and cutting Ava's hair. She had allowed Alice to do more of a round cut apposed to the straight cut she had before. The pixie was determined to talk Eva into the same thing.

Right now though she was styling the other girl like a forties movie star.

"What colors do you want dear?" Esme asked and Ava's brows scrunched in confusion.

"For what?"

"Oh, I thought Edward told you. I do hope I haven't ruined the surprise" she said as she traded magazines with Rose.

"What surprise?" Ava asked excited now, she loved surprises.

"Well Edward wanted to add a bed and other furniture for you here, in his room."

"He wants me to move in with him?" Ava asked wide eyed. Yes, Edward was her imprint but technically they had only been dating for a few days.

"I don't know dear, you'll have to ask him".

"Can-can I ask you all something?" Ava said. Her mind had been reeling since her change. Physically she looked about the same, though she now had a six pack. She wasn't any taller and her eyes lost the amber-ish brown in human form that Edward had told her about.

The others looked at her and she took a deep breath. "I care about Edward, I think I even love him" she said and the others smiled.

Rose gave her a small smile, "But something is bothering you?" she asked.

"I'm just scared that he only loves me because of Daniela, like it was because of her that he became my imprint" she said in a small voice with tears in her eyes.

"Why don't you ask her?" Alice asked and they all sent her confused looks. "Call her number and see what happens".

"I don't have her number" Ava said and now Alice looked confused.

"Yes you do, I saw it." she reached over her friend and grabbed her phone going threw the contacts before she found the one she wanted. "See".

There, plain as day, was Daniela's number. "When-" Ava wondered before she took the phone and hit the call and speaker buttons.

"I was wondering when you'd see my name and call me" came the familiar accent on the other side.

"Oh my God Daniela!" Ava shouted in shock and dropped the phone. Luckily Alice was fast and she caught it.

"The one and only. I guess you have some questions".

"Some?" Ava asked sarcastically.

Daniela laughed "Well hurry, we can't talk for too long, not yet at least."

"Why did you send us here?"

"To make a better story."

"Are we ever going back home?" she asked worriedly. She didn't want to leave, she liked it here. She had her sister, her friends, and she still talked to her dad over the phone. And she had Edward.

"You are home" was the happy reply. "Now ask what's really been bothering you".

"Didâ€|did you make Edward love me?" she asked.

Daniela sighed. "I had hoped he would, but I can not make someone fall in love. That's too pure to force, so no though I am happy that he does. I have to go now, we'll talk again soon. You and Eva are doing great, keep up the good work." and the tone went dead.

Ava gained a dreamy look. 'He loves me, no magic needed.' She couldn't help but laugh and jump up making the others laugh.

"Now that that's done" Esme said happy that Ava's fears had been put to rest. "You look over these catalogs, I'm going to go get the kitchen and front room ready for our guests tomorrow." She hugged Ava before gently shutting the door after her.

"Before that" Rose said as she shared a mischevious smile with Alice. "Let's get you into something that will shock our dear brother" she said as she pulled out a bag full of Victoria Secret.

"You guys know Edward doesn't believe in sex before marriage" Ava laughed at their scheming.

"True, but was it or wasn't you who said there is so much between all and nothing?" Alice asked and Rose chuckled.

"Fine" Ava sighed as if put out. "Mold me into a sex doll" she joked but seeing the look in their eyes she almost gulped. Perhaps she should have used different wording.

Jacob and Eva walked up to her house, she listened and only heard two heart beats. Bella and Charlie were asleep while Ava must have been out.

"I had a great time" she told Jacob. And it was the truth, they had eaten, gone to a cheesy scary movie to kiss and finished with a walk around town. There was a slight bump when his steak had come out too rare and she had zoned out while looking at the blood.

Jacob had brought her back by making a joke about her being the first

'vegetarian' vampire that actually was a vegetarian to start with. They had laughed, "Poor Bambie" she had said.

"So did I" he breathed as he moved a strand of hair behind her ear. He leaned down and caught her mouth with his lightly nibbling on her bottom lip until she opened up for him.

Eva sighed into his mouth as her eyes closed and she slid her arms around his neck. His own hands rested on her hip. He wanted to pull her to him and carry her off to her room, his teenage boy hormones and the imprint not helping.

However, they had decided earlier in the night to wait at least until his sixteenth birthday. He knew it would drive him crazy, and from the noise Eva was making along with the heavy scent of her want, she wouldn't be unaffected either.

He pulled back and watched as her eyes fluttered opened and looked at him with such want and love that Jacob smiled and kissed her again.

He'd wait as long as she wanted, she was worth it.

Edward jumped into his window after his hunt and saw Ava laying on his couch in a silk bathrobe asleep. He smiled and went to take a shower.

The hot water started to run down his body when he heard the door open and Ava's smell almost overwhelmed him.

"Love?" he asked softly.

"Edward? I-I wanted to talk to you" she said trying not to fidget as she thought of the nude and wet man.

"Well I'll be out in just a second Love" he tried to keep his voice calm. The fact that he was naked and in the same room as his mate wasn't lost on him.

"Well why don't I join you?" Ava asked and Edward was so shocked that he pulled back the shower curtain to look at her. His surprise stopped him from thinking the action through.

Her breath caught in her throat at the sight of him. She knew he was beautiful but this, this was...intense.

Edward was thinking the same thing seeing as Ava had taken off the robe and was now standing in front of him in deep blue lingerie.

"Do you like it?" she asked softly and his gaze snapped back up to her eyes.

He swallowed and nodded, almost afraid that if he spoke she would yell at him for looking and run off.

"So do I" she told him with a small shy smile. An odd look he hadn't ever seen on her but had to admit he liked. Her words finally registered and his eyes grew wide as he looked down and saw he was naked and erect.

He grabbed the shower curtain and quickly brought it around himself trying to stutter out something, anything.

"Don't be mad Edward, please" Ava said misreading his actions causing him to stop and look up at her.

"I'm not mad. It's just-".

"Improper I know" she smiled and took a step closer. "But we don't have to have sex yet, there are other things we can do, but I won't push you", she promised and he relaxed slightly.

"It's just so different than from when I grew up Love, I'm sorry".

"Don't be sorry, I understand. I've never done anything like this, never really found the want to but I do nowâ€|with you" she tried to explain and he smiled slightly. That made him feel amazing.

"I know what you mean."

"Why don't you finish and then join me on the couch, we can talk and just look tonight" she suggested and smiled when he nodded with only a little hesitation.

She went back to the couch and pushed her pillow up and brought the covers around her before laying down. She had turned the lights off, not that it really mattered since they could both see well in the dark, but she thought it might make Edward feel better with her being so exposed.

A few minutes later Edward entered his dark room and saw Ava laying down, he approached her and was about to join her when she spoke.

"Can you take your pants and shirt off?" she asked and laughed at his gob smacked expression. "I'm still just in panties and a bra. I'd like feel you next to me".

Edward licked his lips as he removed his shirt and then his pants leaving him bare except for his black boxer briefs.

Slowly he slid in next to her letting her drape the thin blanket around them both. He bit back a gasp at the feeling of their naked skin touching.

"Is this ok?" she asked as she turned and settled her head and arm on his chest.

"Yes" he whispered, entranced with the sight of her pale skin. Almost as pale as his, though she felt so hot he wondered if she'd melt him. The valley between her breasts, the arch of her neck, and her long legs. It all fascinated him and he couldn't look away.

Slowly he let the arm under her head move and his hand came in contact with her back. Ava's breath quickened as she unintentionally pressed her breasts against him.

Like lightning his other hand went forward and took ahold of her hip. At first he had meant to simply grab her to stop any movement and get control of himself, but the moment his hand landed he found himself pulling her closer and turning to press their chests hard together.

"Lord, you tempt me" he whispered out in a rough voice.

"I'm sorry" she whispered and Edward looked at her for a long moment, not blinking.

"Are you?" he asked and before Ava could get mad or think he was accusing her of something he smashed their mouths together. His tongue forcing hers to submit as he angled them with his body now hovering over hers.

"No I'm not" she admitted, her panties moistened at his growl. He possessed her mouth again and hitched her leg up over his hip allowing his groin to fit snugly against her covered core.

"Edward" she moaned as her other leg followed. He made another groan like noise and nipped her neck forcing a responding keen from her own throat.

They were running on pure instinct now.

With a sharp thrust he rubbed his clothed erection against her making them both cry out. Ava's hands went to his back where her nails actually latched on. One of his hands found her chest and he groped her roughly. He tore the right cup of the lacey bra so he could play with her nipple and fill his hand with her heavy breast.

'Stop' a part of his mind said but his body wouldn't listen. Ava licked and bit at his Adam's apple sending him further into a lust fueled frenzy.

A part of Ava's mind said to slow down but like Edward she couldn't listen as he continued to thrust, his engorged tip and length hitting her clit just right.

She started moving her hips to match his and soon they were wildly humping each other, both reaching for the spring winding tightly in their bodies.

Having had no one touch them before, except for their own hands, it didn't take long for the sensations to over take the couple. Ava shuddered as she broke first flooding her underwear. Crying out Edward's name she bit his shoulder, her teeth leaving an indent causing him to hiss in a mixture of pain and pleasure.

Edward let out two more pumps and followed her, messing his shorts and biting her shoulder also making her hiss out lowly.

Slowly their breathing started to return to normal as he laid his head on her chest and she lazily petted his hair.

Her eyes began to drift closed and Edward pulled himself up slightly to look at her. He gave her another kiss, which her tired body tried to respond to making him chuckle against her lips.

He couldn't believe what they had just done. However, he couldn't find it in himself to regret it.

"Sleep Love, and we'll talk in the morning" he said scooping her in his arms. He thought of getting up and changing but as Ava clung to him, decided against it.

"Ok, love you" she mumbled already half asleep. Edward smiled and kissed the top of her head.

"I love you too" he told her and she smiled as she fell completely asleep. She might not remember saying that in the morning, but it meant everything to him.

'Well' he thought looking at her peaceful face. 'I'll have to tell her again when she wakes up'.

A/N: So what do you guys think? I know I made Edward act waaaay different but Ava is stronger than a normal human lover, plus as his mate and imprint I think instinct would be hard to control. Or maybe I'm just perverted, either way I like it and I hope you do too. I was going to make a little sexy scene between Jacob and Eva and then I remembered he was fifteen and so I decided to wait a little. I know I didn't put a lot of detail in their first date but don't worry, they'll have others. Oh and there will be more Daniela in later chapters. Next chapter has; baby wolves, time jumps, fieldtrips, and a suspicious Bella. Review, ask, or suggest if you'd like. Until next time, have a great day.

12. Chapter 12

I DO NOT OWN TWILIGHT OR ANY OF ITS CHARACTERS. I ONLY OWN MY OCS AND THE NEW PLOT I PUT THEM IN.

A/N: Big thank you to everyone who followed, favorited, and reviewed. You rock! WARNING: There will be detailed lemons in this story! Oh, and some cussing. This might seem like a crackfic at times, but I promise to keep it on a plot that makes sense. I have no beta so if I mess up any grammar, my bad. A bit of everyone bashing to start off with but it doesn't last, I swear. I'm sorry if anyone else seems a bit OOC but hopefully it will be explained in the story. *Sillygabby: *Thank you and yes, I will be going through all the books but it will be sooner, probably for them more like a year and a half I'd say (though New Moon will be very different). By time skips I mean like I'll have a week or so go by, just so things don't happen to quickly. It will still be sooner then in the books obviously, but I can't have it all happen in like two months. That's too soon even for me. Wolff Howl: *Thank you, that is so sweet. Cutiewetee89: Thank you and don't worry I have a lot, I mean A LOT of other stories planned and plenty of them have Edward (and other characters) with OCs. I see you see: Thank you and I hope your ovaries can take it because that was just the beginning. Oh and I think by now you all now that the twins always tend to match some what, even if they aren't if they didn't mean too. It won't always happen, some times they're different but if I don't describe both twins outfit, just assume it's close to the one I did describe. Enjoy.

Chapter 12: Mike is a little wanna-be homewrecker.

Ava woke up and stretched, looking up at a shirtless Edward. She was momentarily confused until last night came rushing back.

"Morning Love" he told her with a smile.

"Morning, youâ€¦you don't regret last night do you?" she asked worriedly biting her lip. Edward leaned down and kissed her.

"No, I don't".

"Yay" Ava jumped on him straddling his hips as she kissed him. "Wow, note to self don't get attached to any bras when you're around" she joked looking down at her partially exposed chest. Edward let out a laughing groan putting the pillow over his face.

"We should shower" she said as she got up.

"Together?" he asked, his voice going up a bit at the end. He couldn't quite keep the hopeful note out of his tone.

"Maybe, if you're quick- HOLY SHIT" she yelled when she suddenly found herself in the shower. She started laughing so hard she almost fell over.

'What?" Edward laughed as he stepped in as well, his hands fidgeting on the waistband of his briefs.

"Just wasn't expecting that Sugar" she told him while carelessly tossing her ruined bra over the shower rod, her panties following a moment later.

"What?" he teased as he finally stripped. "Am I not acting like I should, would you prefer I treat you like my story version?"

"Hell no, you start pulling some of the shit you pulled in the book and I'll beat your ass. No lying and leaving this girl Buster. You're stuck with me." She started to lather up his chest.

"Oh what a cruel fate" he teased as he took in the sight of her body and the feel of her hands.

"Yeah, I can see you're real broken up about it" she snorted hinting to his obvious arousal that was now poking her stomach, Edward laughed.

"You know Love, all that cussing is going to sully that pretty little mouth of yours. You shouldn't use it for such things." He gently took the soap from her and began caressing her neck and sides.

"Really now" Ava said in a posh voice as she sent him a smile and lifted her brow curiously. Her eyes fluttered lightly at his soft touch. "And do tell, what should I be using my mouth for?"

"Ava" Edward moaned as she flooded his mind with different sexual scenarios. "God, you push me Love".

"I know, that's part of my charm" she told him and he laughed putting there foreheads together. He was trying to over come being shy while nude in front of her. Of course knowing that if he truly felt uncomfortable Ava wouldn't push did help relax him.

"I love you" he whispered trying to convey the emotion through his eyes.

Ava's eyes widened slightly before a huge smile broke out over her face. "I love you too" she said before kissing him again.

"Come on you guys, we have to meet with the baby wolves and then you can rub all over each other" Rose called. Edward sighed while Ava giggled.

"You heard her, lets finish up and meet the others. Then you can rub me all you like".

reply.

Eva got dressed quickly, opting for a simple grey tee and black leggings, light makeup and some ballerina flats.

She started skipping down the steps.

"Hey, where are you going?" Bella asked from her spot at the table with Charlie.

"Oh, Jacob and I are going to hang out with Alice." She said and pretended not to see the smile Charlie tried to hide with his coffee cup.

"You've been spending a lot of time with Jake" He commented and Eva smiled.

"Of, course I have Uncle Charlie. He's my boyfriend."

He smiled again but put up a stern cover, "Isn't he a little young for you?"

"Not really, only like a year and something. Plus, when we get married you and Billy will officially be family".

"Married!" Both Bella and Charlie exclaimed and Eva tried to hide her amusement by throwing on a confused if not a little exasperated look.

"Well of course we'll get married some day but relax, it won't be for awhile. I mean, Edward and Ava will probably get married way before us."

"Wait, Edward that's Ava's boyfriend right? Where is Ava?"

"Over at the Cullens, she slept over with Rose. Oh that reminds me, Alice and Rose invited Ava and I to go dress shopping in a couple weeks. Maybe we'll run into you and Ang, Bella."

"What about Ava getting married, and how do I know she didn't sleep over there so her and this boy can-can-".

"Don't worry Uncle Charlie, both Ava and I are virgins and, between you and me, so is Edward. He doesn't believe in sex before marriage".

Charlie didn't look very convinced, "Really I swear but if you'd like I'm sure Ava would bring him over some time for you to meet properly".

"Yes that'd be better. Show him my gun" He whispered the last part and Eva tried not to burst out laughing.

"Aren't they both too young to be thinking about marriage?" Bella asked still surprised.

"Well they aren't planning it right now, but my Spidey senses tell me it won't be long" she winked happy that they were so distracted that they didn't notice her not eat anything.

Honestly, the mere smell of the food was making her stomach churn. 'Sad' she thought, she would definitely miss cake. She wasn't looking forward to blood, but she was getting thirsty.

"Anywho, I've got to go. See you later" she said as she skipped out the door.

"That was mean babe" Jacob said sitting on the beast.

"Yes, yes. I'm evil now let's go. I want to get this over with, I do have homework ya know" she joked as she jumped in. She wasn't a big fan of this car, maybe she could help Jake fix his bike or something. Not that she knew anything about mechanics, but Rose could help.

"So I was thinking, I know you guys are going with Bella to see your Aunt during the school dance coming up, but what about prom?" Jacob said.

"What about it" Eva teased.

"Will you go with me?"

"I'd love to" she leaned over and kissed his cheek.

"Are you and Ava going to try and convince the others to go as well?" he asked curiously. He knew Edward would go for Ava, but what about the rest?

"Try? Trying is for quitters! We don't try, we do!" she struck a pose and Jacob laughed shaking his head.

"So how are they getting here?" Emmett asked Jacob as they waited on the front porch for the others to show up.

"Sam called me yesterday and said he and Paul would bring them, of course it took some convincing what with their bad reputations but I think it'll work out."

"Of course" said Jasper, "It's not like it's going to totally freak them out to learn not only are they shape shifters, but also characters from someone's imagination."

Alice flicked his nose.

"It'll be fiiiiine" Ava waved off.

"As long as that mutt stays away from you" Edward muttered and she turned in his arms. His hands rested against the bottom of her back while hers went to his neck. Of course Edward was too much of a gentleman to say he was holding her ass.

"You know" she said kissing the corner of his mouth. "I never thought any type of jealousy or possessiveness would be hot, but you just have a way of making a girl feel special" she giggled and he smiled.

"I'm sorry Love, it's just some of the things he thought-".

"I know, trust me I know. But you have me, no one else and we're in this relationship together so don't let that butt muncher get to you."

"Look who we have here" came the voice of Paul as he and a cautious Sam led a group of teens up to the house.

"Speak of the devil and he'll appear" Ava muttered and turned leaning back against Edward.

"Would anyone like anything to drink or eat?" Esme asked trying to be polite. The group shook their heads and a few of them fidgeted, like they weren't comfortable in their own skin.

"How about we stay out here in case things getâ€¦explosive?" Eva suggested and Jacob nodded. They led everyone to the back yard and the male Cullens brought out some chairs.

The group of nervous teens consisted of; Jared, Leah, Embry, Quil, Seth, Collin, and Brady. They were looking at both the Cullens and pack wearily.

"Damn dude, what happened to you?" asked Quil as he took in a much bigger Jacob.

"That's part of what we want to talk to you about. The girls will tell you what is happening and then we'll show you if you want."

"Ok so once upon a time-" Ava started before Sam cut her off.

"You're just going to jump into it?"

"Yes" was the flat retort, "I don't know about your life but I have shit to do, sorry Esme and Carlisle." She finished and some of the teens sniggered at Sam's insulted expression.

"Like what?" Paul said flirtatiously while stepping closer. Edward stood in front of her and growled making some of the newbies jump.

"Not you" she said flipping him off over Edward's shoulder.

"Now as my sweet delicate sister was saying before she was so rudely interrupted." Eva said rolling her eyes and Paul looked towards her with narrowed eyes.

"Don't worry _babe,_ there's plenty of me to go around".

Now it was Jacob's turn to growl and Eva laughed. "You just go around making friends huh? Tell me, are you trying to win Worlds Biggest Douche, 'cause you have my vote".

"This is gonna be good" Emmett started jumping like a kid in a candy factory making the ground under his feet shake.

"Why don't we get back on track?" tried Esme before Paul growled at her. Ava growled at him now looking down right pissed, along with the others.

She could understand why Paul was always so angry, he got the short end of the stick in a lot of things. However, lashing out at innocent people was bullshit.

"You better watch yourself before I kick your ass again and make myself a wolf skin rug!" she yelled and Jacob walked forward.

"Paul, stop causing problems and never disrespect this woman again. You're pissed? Blame the Elders. Now either shut up or fuck off!"

"What is going on?" asked a confused, and a bit freaked out, Leah.

Ava and Eva shared a glance and decided to jump right into it.

While telling their story they saw disbelieving looks so told the group things about themselves that no one could have known, unless what they said was true.

Two hours later they had a very emotional and unhappy group of teens on their hands.

"So what?" Jared asked, "We're just supposed to give up our lives, our dreams, because they say so and turn into these-these things?"

"No" Jacob said trying to reassure them, "I have told the Elders that I will be making the decisions for my pack, that is why you are here now, so you'll have time to prepare and have people who can actually answer your questions. If you want to go to college or something talk to me and we can work it out".

"Can we see you change?" Brady asked and some of the others nodded. If they could see it then they'd know this wasn't some weird prank.

Jacob nodded to Ava who shrugged and jogged behind a tree. Paul made to follow but he found his path blocked by, well almost everyone.

"Back off" Edward said trying to keep control of his anger. "She's my imprint and mate, so back off before you get hurt".

Ava ran back out and Leah and Quil screamed at the sight of the huge wolf. Well at least until she started to do the running man.

"Holy crap" Seth said and Leah was too stunned to even tell him to watch his language.

"So that means you guys really are the cold ones?" Embry asked.

"Yes, and Embry we know you've been talking to Bella which is totally cool but you can't say anything" Eva said and he nodded a little.

The group looked to be in shock, going over what they learned and were seeing with their own eyes.

"So you guys can go home and rest on this, we know it's a lot to take in. Hopefully being around the Cullens will help with the change, not to mention having people who will help you with anything you need. The Cullens are pack, respect them" Jacob said as Ava went to change, Edward trailing behind.

"This isâ€¦" Quil said and Jake nodded.

"I know man, but I just want to help you. Plus then we can stop the innocent people from being killed. Right now Emmett and Jasper have been doing patrols but we'll cover that in a little."

"Why don't you all come in for a bite to eat and then you can go home and rest. You're welcome to come back any time of course" Carlisle said.

Everyone nodded and headed in, except for Sam and Paul.

"Look guys" Ava said with a hand on her hip as she walked back over. "We aren't the enemy. The Cullens aren't the enemy, but they are going to help take down some very bad people. So you can either be the protectors you're supposed to be or you can hold on to prejudices. It's up to you."

With that she took Edward's hand and led him away, presumably for some privacy.

"So, what's it going to be?" Jacob asked and the two older boys shared a look.

"We'll join you" Sam spoke, "But it won't be easy for awhile".

Jacob nodded, "Never thought it would be, but we have a chance to do some good here guys and be around people who care." He didn't need to say that he meant it would be better than running to the Elders with questions and going home empty handed.

"I'm going to talk to my dad about telling the tribe that we're some sort of security force or something. Those rumors are getting worse and can make people's lives hell, so we'll try to fix that".

The guys seemed to perk up at this seeing as they were more then tired of hearing everyone talk bad about them and then the council expect them to give up everything for the same people.

"Oh and Sam" Eva said, "You don't have to but maybe some time you could bring Emily around. That way when you're gone she'll be safe with Esme and she'll have a bigger kitchen to explore" she told him kindly.

Sam stared at her for a minute before he nodded with a twitch of the mouth. It wasn't a smile, but it wasn't not a smile either.

'I'll take it' she thought.

"So your sister..." Paul started and the other three groaned.

Ava and Edward sat in the meadow laying on their backs and holding hands.

"So, your mother told me something very interesting last night" she said and Edward raised a brow. He huffed when he realized she was keeping her mind busy by reciting a band called Falling in Reverse.

"Oh, and what did she say?"

"Wellâ€|she said you wanted to get some new furniture for me. Funny thing is, she said it was for your room. Wanna clue me in?" she asked and Edward started stumbling over his words.

"Well I thought, I mean with the imprint. That is to say we're mates so that means eventually, but of course only if you say yes-".

"Edward" she cut him off. "What you meant to say was that you'd like me to stay over with you and then eventually move in and get married. Right?"

"Yes" he answered almost nervously. He knew Ava didn't like it when he made decisions concerning the both of them without talking to her first. And planning to have someone move in then marry you, was a huge decision.

"Well that's very sweet. And just so you know, when the time comes I'll say yes".

"To moving in with me?"

"To everything" she said with a small smile and he was suddenly leaning over her with such a hopeful and happy expression it almost made her cry.

"Really?"

"Really really" he leaned down and kissed her, hands sliding into her hair. They only pulled back when air became an issue.

"Until then why don't you ask me to prom?" she asked and he smiled.

"You want to go to prom?"

"Of course, I mean I might be a shape shifter with a vampire boyfriend but prom is a must. Haven't you seen Teen Wolf?"

He laughed and kissed her again, "Will you go to prom with me?"

"Hmmm" she said pretending to think and Edward looked at her with a playfully shocked expression.

"Oh I see, you need to be convinced" he said before leaning down, but instead of kissing her again like she thought he began to tickle her sides.

"Ahhh no Edward pl-ahhh please" she shrieked but he persisted.

"What do you say now?"

"Yes, yes I'll go with you!" she laughed trying to catch her breath when he finally stopped. "Evil evil man!" she teased.

"Must be the company I keep" he replied against her lips, cutting off her retort with more kisses.

If this was her being a bad influence on him, then she didn't mind. She didn't mind one bit.

Another week went by and things seemed to be looking good.

It took a day or so but the pack started coming over to the Cullen house more often and looked to be close to phasing. Paul was usually the only one trying to stir up shit and that was with Edward. Leah did have a moment where she thought she was going to break down but Rose had nipped that in the butt.

Flashback:

_Leah showed up knocking on the Cullens' front door at ten p.m., soaking wet from the storm. She hadn't shifted yet but when she had mentioned it to her dad, not only had he bad mouthed Jake and the twins, but also the Cullens. _

_Then he went on to say he was so sorry she probably couldn't have children. Seth had started yelling at their dad and their mother had cried. _

Leah, seeing Seth shake, had grabbed him and dragged him outside before running in and telling her dad that he should go to the hospital for his heart or else he'd end up just how the twins described him. Dead.

_She didn't wait for his reply but simply ran all the way to the large glass house, hoping that someone there could help her. _

"_Oh Leah dear!" Esme gasped with a hand over her mouth before she ushered the young woman in and then ran to get her a blanket and change of clothes. _

"_Leah?" Rose asked. They had found that they got along quite well seeing as neither had chosen to be in that life. _

"_Can I not have kids?" she blurted out and the blonde almost flinched, children were a touchy subject for her. _

"_Come here" she said leading the other girl up to her room and bathroom. "Shower and dry off then change, we'll talk when you get out"._

_Leah wanted to argue but seeing as this was her chance at answers she did as she was told. She finished quickly and came out to see Rose brushing her hair looking in the mirror. _

"_Sit down, I'm going to tell you something that isâ€|very hard for me"._

Leah sat on the bed and waited.

"_When I was a human I was engaged to a man named Royce King the second. I didn't want to be a vampire. Though I love Emmett more than anything and I love my family, sometimes I still wish Carlisle had left me to die. __There were things I still wanted. To be married to a nice husband who kissed me when he came home. A family of my own. Royce King was the most eligible bachelor in town. I barely knew him. But I was young. I was in love with the idea of love. On the last night of my life, I left a friend's house late, I wasn't far from home.__"_

_From there she went on to tell the she-wolf about the night she had been changed and what she did to the men when she saw them again.

By the time she was done her eyes were filled with venom and Leah had a hand on her mouth to muffle her sobs.

"_I didn't tell you this to make you feel bad. I told you because I want you to understand that I know how hard it is to want something that you can never have. To be forced into a world you never wanted. Ava told me, before we really became friends, that I was strong and had to stop living in the past. It doesn't define me, it can't help me"._

_She got up and moved to the crying girl hugging her. _

"_True, I can never have children and adoption would be very hard, but I still have so much good in my life. I have my mate Emmett, who makes it his job to make me smile and never write me off as simply a bitch. A family who truly cares for me, a family that is growing. But you Leah, I don't think you have anything to worry about" she took her face in her hands. _

"_You are strong, that is why you were chosen to change. Mentally, emotionally, and physically you are a strong woman and any children you have will be strong because of you. No matter what, you will always come out on top."_

She wiped Leah's face off. "Besides, the twins made a good point the other day" she smiled.

"_What was that?" Leah asked softly. _

"_It would be a bit hectic if the females in the pack went into heat around all those males." Leah's mouth dropped in shock. "Eva thinks not having a period won't affect you being able to get pregnant, and she did say you'd stop having your lady time"._

"_Of course when Ava realized that meant you two wouldn't have periods any more she ran around the house screaming 'I'm free, oh Lord at last I'm free'._

Rose rolled her eyes at her friend's antics while Leah couldn't help but laugh. She was glad she came over, she felt much better now.

End of Flashback

Now was the day of the science field trip and Eva was trying to get Rose to stop glaring at Bella. Ava and Bella had made up though the brunette would try every now and then to get information out of them.

However, she found herself spending more and more time with Embry. She had found out that he started hanging out with the Cullens and went to ask about them when instead they had spent the day talking about books and their families.

Now when she went over it was purely to see him. She called him her best friend but the twins teased her that it was something more.

"Hey Bells, so what time are we going to meet Aunt Renee? Dad said he might be able to join too." Ava told her as she came up.

Bella couldn't help but notice that Edward's eyes never left Ava's form, as if he couldn't wait for her to come back to him.

"That's great" Bella replied. They weren't going to the girls choice dance seeing as they were meeting family that day and she was happy Uncle Adam would be there. He was fun. She was a little bummed that the twins were going to prom, but understood.

They told her to ask Embry, she told them to shut up.

"She said around two so we should leave the house like at ten I think."

"Ok sounds good. Hey have you seen-".

"Hey ladies" they were cut off by Mike Newton. "Ava, haven't seen you without your attachment in awhile" he joked gesturing towards Edward.

"Well he is my boyfriend soâ€¦yeah." She said, she did not like Mike. Bella had been way too nice in describing him in the books.

Plus his cologne really hurt her nose.

"Right you and Cullen. I don't like it" he said stepping closer and looking her over. She was in rose printed denim shorts, a black tank and a huge black button up sweater that was hanging off one of her shoulders a little. Her hair was in two French braids and she wore her grey boots. No tights which showed off her nice pale legs.

She had a strong cat eye and red lips that were in an unamused frown.

"Good think I don't care what you like, huh?" she asked crossing her arms. Bella swatted her shoulder and Emmett laughed, so did the others but like usual his was the loudest.

Edward looked smug while Mike chuckled awkwardly and rubbed his neck.

Ava could care less if she was being a bitch. This dude always hit on her and Eva, then when turned down he'd hit on Bella. As far as the twins were concerned he was just a little wanna-be homewrecker slash player.

Rose looked proud.

"It's just he looks at you like you're something to eat" he told her before jumping at the loud laughter coming from the 'Cullen corner'. Even Edward was laughing, in fact him and Jasper were leaning on each other for support.

"Maybe I want him to eat me" Ava said with a wink towards her boyfriend who ducked his head but grinned wider.

They had done a little more exploring but it was mainly like the first time.

"Wha-" Mike said unable to think of anything. He couldn't believe she said that.

Neither could Bella who blushed and smacked her arm. 'It's a good thing we let Edward sniff her shirt to get used to the smell, or that blush would be killing him' Ava thought.

It was true, Edward had gotten used to Bella's scent and could handle himself better, though he usually only nodded to her politely when picking up Ava.

"Well I was wondering" Mike began but Ava tuned him out as she looked at Edward and started sending him visuals of what she wanted to do to him.

The poor guy looked like he was either about to run and hide or bust his zipper and drag her off like a caveman.

"So how about it?" Mike said and Ava didn't reply until Bella poked her and he stood in front of her blocking her view.

"What the hell Mike" she asked annoyed, "I was trying to eye fuck Edward, why'd you get in my way?"

"Ooooh Eddie!" Emmett could be heard.

"I was asking you to prom." Mike said annoyed that she hadn't been paying attention to him. Couldn't she see he was way better than Cullen?

'God what I wouldn't give to have her suck-'.

"Ava" Edward called out in a stressed controlled tone. She didn't know what was wrong but from Mike's slightly dazed expression, she could guess.

"No Mike" she said snapping him back to harsh reality. "And don't ask Eva either. We have boyfriends and will be going with them. Bye Bells" she said before skipping back to the others.

"So Bella" Mike started after he was done looking at Ava's ass.

Bella couldn't believe him, "I won't be here for prom if that's what you were wondering. Ask Jessica" with that she stomped off to the school bus.

"Green is what people?" Mr. Banner asked.

"A color?" the twins said and he sighed.

"Green is good".

"Still a color" they defended as they got on their bus.

Bella sighed as she watched them get onto the other bus though she smiled when they waved and blew kisses to her. She blushed but waved back when Emmett and Alice copied them.

Mike was a jerk, she decided. Nothing like sweet Embry. Her smile grew thinking about the boy until the bus jerked and she hit her head on the window.

"Ow" she muttered. 'Of course the bus punishes me for thinking Embry is sexy' she thought before her eyes grew comically wide. 'Oh my God, I like Embry!'

And all it took was smacking her head against some glass. Most painful epiphany ever.
